HOOVER ASKS MORE LAWS TO DRY UP CAPITAL

Urges Revision of Bankruptcy Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—A special message recommending a speeding up of federal criminal court justice, a strengthening of prohibition enforcement in the District of Columbia and elimination of flaws in the national bankruptcy act was forwarded to congress today by President Hoover.

While the President remained silent on the recommendations made by his $500,000 Wickersham commission, his call for a tightening up of dry enforcement in the national capital was interpreted as disclosing that Mr. Hoover still is dry. Immediately following the publication of the message it was regarded as a foregone conclusion in both administration and other circles that President Hoover will run as a dry in 1932.

Calls for Model City.

While not specifically outlining the type of dry legislation he desired for Washington, President Hoover called attention to a recommendation made in 1929, when he urged congress to make the national capital a model city by passing legislation supplementing the prohibition law machinery for this city. At that time the President's view was that the duties and powers of the district commissioners and the metropolitan police force should be more sharply defined and enlarged so as to open the way for better coöperation between local and federal officials

The prohibition references in the Hoover message together with his concluding assertion that a "citizenry imbued with a spirit of respect for law" is an essential requirement for effective law administration virtually killed the last hopes of Republican wets that the President would moderate his dry stand.

The fact that no word has come from the White House indicating the President's plans to send any further messages to congress dealing with law enforcement at this session, coupled with his failure to act on the Wickersham prohibition recommendations, today served to strengthen the view that Mr. Hoover has turned thumbs down on all pleas that he change his prohibition views.

Candidate of Dry Forces?

Spokesmen of the leading dry organizations have contended for weeks that President Hoover is to be the candidate of the dry forces of the nation. The paragraph in the President's message which apparently links him with the dry cause during the coming campaign reads as follows:

"I have hitherto recommended legislation to supplement the prohibition laws for the District of Columbia. The attorney general has made recommendations as to the character of such legislation before the committees of the congress. I again urge favorable action."

Strict Law Enforcement.

In 128 the President ran on a platform of strict law enforcement. It now seems certain that his 1932 program calls for a similar and certainly not a less dry plank for this fall.

In calling for changes in the federal criminal and bankruptcy laws, President Hoover pointed to continued congestion in the civil and criminal branches of the federal courts, and to defects in the existing machinery which contribute to delays in bringing criminals to justice. He also asserted that the "extent of crime is and must be a subject of increasing concern to the government and to every well disposed citizen."

The President called attention to the mounting number of federal prisoners and an enlarged bankruptcy court docket. He declared that the existing criminal court procedure encourages disrespect for law and that the bankruptcy act as now written encourages and facilitates fraud on the part of insolvent debtors. The bankruptcy laws, President Hoover said, has demoralized the integrity of large numbers of persons and caused untold waste.

Legislative Proposals.

The President's legislative proposals included:

1. Legislation permitting the

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—A tax bill which will meet the $1,241,000,000 deficit expected at the end of the fiscal year 1933, which will balance the budget and which will contain a manufacturers' sales tax calculated to raise approximately 550 million dollars will be reported to the full house ways and means committee within the next two or three days.

REP. CHARLES R. CRISP.
[Harris & Ewing.]

The announcement was made today by Representative Charles R. Crisp [Dem., Ga.], acting chairman of the committee and chairman of the subcommittee not drawing up the bill. His statement was made after a subcommittee session at which the list of articles to be exempted from the sales tax was finally agreed upon.

Ordinary food articles will not be taxed. These will include tea, sugar, coffee, bread, raw meats, dairy products, fresh fish, and all farm products which are not processed. Seed and fertilizer, text books, Bibles, books for the blind, and certain religious articles will be exempt. Newspapers and periodicals will also be on the nontaxable list. Clothing will not be exempt.

It is thought probable the tax bill will be drawn to raise about 1 billion dollars of the deficit, with the remainder to be taken care of through economy.

The sales tax is to be levied through a system of licenses, the tax to be paid by the final manufacturer.

"We still have to find a source for another hundred million dollars, however," said Mr. Crisp.

VESSEL SINKING OFF JAPAN; MAY BE TROOP SHIP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 1.—[Tuesday.]—An unnamed freighter of 3,100 tons, later reported to be the Yokumo Maru, is believed to be sinking following collision with the steamship Kinryo Maru at 4:30 o'clock this morning off Moji, a port in southern Japan.

The freighter, which belonged to an Osaka company, sustained severe damages. The collision was immediately reported to the military transportation office at Moji and salvage and relief ships were dispatched to the scene at once. All those on board the freighter were rescued.

[From the cryptic nature of the above dispatch, it is believed that the sinking ship was a transport, carrying Japanese troops to Shanghai.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—Unusual weather, with overcast skies, chilling wet winds, and a sinking thermometer, returned to southern California today. From a Sunday afternoon temperature of 80 plus, which attracted 250,000 to the beaches, the mercury dropped thirty degrees.

Memory and Teeth Unite to Solve Crime

Mrs. Julia Goldberg's memory and James Murray's even teeth made a bit of criminal history at the detective bureau last night, but properly, according to Mrs. Goldberg, the story should start from the night of Dec. 21, 1929.

It was on that night that two bandits invaded Mrs. Goldberg's home at 5057 Drexel boulevard, intimidated her and her colored maid, Mrs. Fannie Hicks, 6041 Indiana avenue, and departed with $204 in cash and some odds and ends. Mrs. Goldberg always remembered that night; every detail stood out sharply in her memory.

Hunts for Year and Half.

Some six months later, Sergt. Joseph Healy received an anonymous letter. It mentioned confidential data relative to the robbers who had held up Mrs. Goldberg. For one and one-half years, Sergt. Healy and his squad members, Patrick McNamara and Harry Busam, sought the men named in the letter. Yesterday Sergt. Healy and his companions were in the court of Judge Donald McKinlay. They noticed a tall, good looking man standing at the clerk's desk, making bonds for several prisoners.

Sergt. Healy, who, like Mrs. Goldberg, has a good memory, recalled the anonymous letter of eighteen months ago. The letter named James Murray as one of the Goldberg bandits. Sergt. Healy recognized the man at the clerk's desk as Murray. He arrested him. Last night Murray was in the police showup. Mrs. Goldberg and her maid, Mrs. Hicks, were in the front row of witnesses.

She Inspects the Teeth.

As Murray came into view, with eight other prisoners, Mrs. Goldberg's memory began functioning. She stepped up to Murray and eyed him intently. She looked at him silently for several moments.

"Please say 'Ah,'" she asked suddenly.

"Ah," responded Murray, obediently. He opened his mouth wide, revealing a handsome set of natural teeth. Mrs. Goldberg stepped back, smiling.

"That's the man who robbed me," she declared emphatically. "I recognize his teeth; they're perfect."

Sergt. Healy was stunned. So was Murray. Murray protested it was a "bum" rap. Then he gnashed his handsome teeth.

JAPAN ACCEPTS LEAGUE OFFER TO MAKE PEACE

Blast Near Warships Rocks Shanghai.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, March 1 (Tuesday.)—(AP)—The Japanese government today accepted the peace proposals made by Joseph Paul-Boncour, French delegate at the meeting of the league of nations council at Geneva yesterday.

Earlier dispatches from Tokio had quoted a foreign office spokesman as saying that the Chinese proposal of withdrawing both Chinese and Japanese troops from the Shanghai battle area could not be accepted. The spokesman said Japan could not agree to an immediate suspension of hostilities because it would be impossible to tell what the Chinese would do in the meantime, especially in making further preparations for battle.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, March 1 (Tuesday). — (AP) — Explosions which rocked the city of Shanghai this afternoon resulted from the blasting of two mines in the Whangpoo river only a few yards from the Japanese cruisers lying at anchor there, it was learned after the explosion took place. The Japanese ships were not harmed, but the entire city was rocked.

GENEVA, Feb. 29.—The league of nations council hurried tonight to catch up in the most conspicuous fashion possible with the parade in Shanghai. The council delegates listened solemnly to what a British admiral with an Irish name, Sir Howard Kelly, had tried to arrange there in the way of a truce, gave it their blessing, and then adopted as their own idea the proposal for a round table conference at Shanghai, which was first suggested by the Japanese and agreed to by Great Britain, the United States, and France.

The fact that the United States adhered to this proposal was stressed and then applauded at the council table. Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, brought the news of America's adhesion by saying that "I am authorized" to bear happy tidings.

How League Climbed On.

This is the way the council arranged to climb on the band wagon:

Joseph Paul-Boncour of France, president of the council, heard from Sir John what the British admiral had tried to arrange as a truce and how the United States and Great Britain were expected to handle the situation that would follow such a truce—the round table conference.

These ideas were then put into a "declaration by the president of the council" and approved, there is good reason to believe, by the American state department. Then the council meeting was called and the president's declaration was read.

Proposes the Conference.

"The duty of us all is to seek means by which this deplorable armed conflict must end," Paul-Boncour said. "The president, therefore, has called together his colleagues on the council to lay before them a proposal which might serve this end."

For its effective execution, he said, it would require the coöperation of all the principal powers having interests in Shanghai. A conference is to be called, he said, to bring about a final conclusion to the fighting and a restoration of peaceful conditions in the Shanghai area.

Both Paul-Boncour and Sir John stressed the fact that the conference could not be held unless a truce became effective.

Basis of Conference.

The basis of the conference would be [a] that Japan has no political or territorial designs and no intention of establishing a Japanese settlement at Shanghai or otherwise advancing exclusive interests of the Japanese; [b] that China enters the conference on the basis that the safety and integrity of the international and French settlements must be preserved under arrangements which will secure these areas and their residents from danger.

Then, and here the hand of the

Mrs. Summers Found Guilty; Gets 14 Years

Mrs. Margaret Summers, middle aged widow charged with killing her 16 year old nephew, Thomas Meyer, by feeding him arsenic obtained from fly paper, was found guilty of murder late last night by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Walter T. Stanton. Her punishment was fixed at fourteen years in the penitentiary.

WAYLAND BROOKS.

The case was given to the jury shortly before 9 p. m. The verdict was announced only a few minutes before midnight. It was reported that the jurymen first stood 6 to 6.

Calm as She Hears Verdict.

Mrs. Summers accepted the decision with the same stoic calm she had displayed during the week of testimony and oratory by attorneys. There was no change in her expression when she was informed she had been found guilty.

She had not flinched when Prosecutor C. Wayland Brooks denounced her as a person for whom he could not find words to express his contempt. He declared she had fed the poison to an orphan youth who had worked daily and turned all his earnings over to her. It was charged she poisoned Meyer to get his insurance.

The accused widow had taken the stand in the afternoon as the lone witness in her own behalf. But the jammed courtroom, releasing an audible "Ahhh!" as her name was called, got from her story little to satisfy its curiosity, and from the bench a warning that order must be maintained or the room would be cleared.

Questioned by Attorney.

In a colorless voice the gray haired widow of four successive husbands merely answered questions about herself and her nephew, and denied any guilt in the boy's death last May. She was examined by Defense Attorney Harold Levy.

Q.—Did any one in the county hospital ever tell you Thomas (Meyer) was suffering from arsenic poisoning? A.—No sir.

Q.—Did any one there ever tell you it would be dangerous to remove him from the hospital? A.—No sir.

Q.—Did you ever administer arsenic to Thomas Meyer? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you ever tell Charles Harrington you would give him $25 for a suit for helping to care for Tom? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you ever send Harrington and Christy (a boarder) out to buy flypaper for you? A.—Yes, sir.

To Protect Brew, She Says.

Q.—When and why was this? A.—It was in April last year. It was pretty hot that month, and we were making beer. There were a lot of those little flies around, and Christy asked me why I didn't do something about 'em. So I sent him to buy some, and I said: "Don't get the sticky kind It's messy."

Q.—What became of this paper he bought? A.—I never saw it.

Q.—And then you sent Charles out? A.—Yes, I looked around the kitchen and couldn't find the flypaper, so Charles said: "Give me a nickel, Aunt Marg, and I'll get some." And he did.

Q.—What did you do with it? A.—I took four pieces and put 'em in dishes.

Prosecutor Brooks put a court reporter on the stand to answer Mrs. Summers' statement that no one in the hospital had told her the boy had arsenic poisoning. On the night of her arrest she was asked where she learned about the poisoning of which Thomas Meyer died. In her statement she replied: "All I ever knew about it was what they told me at the hospital."

After the verdict a motion for a new trial was made and arguments on this were set by Judge Stanton for March 11.

OFFICIALS HEED WARNING; AGREE TO CUT BUDGETS

Will Keep Expenses Down to Revenue.

Pay Teachers Today

While the local governments were pledging to co-operate in cutting appropriations to fit revenues, there were two other major developments in the Chicago financial crisis:

1—The city sold $2,500,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants, enabling the school board to pay all its employes a half a month's wages in cash. Details on page 3.

2—County board wrangled over "economy" budget until midnight, the legal deadline, and adjourned without action. Page 3.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The D. F. Kelly tax warrant sales committee prevailed upon the representatives of the seven major local governments yesterday to cut their appropriations for 1932 to their actual tax receipts for 1929, plus miscellaneous revenue now available. If this agreement, made by the city, schools, county, sanitary district, and the three larger park districts, is carried out as promised, their budgets for this year will be reduced to the basis of an expectancy of $178,000,000 in tax collections instead of $260,000,000 in taxes, which is the basis of the tentative budgets.

$82,000,000 Estimated Saving.

On that basis of comparison the estimated saving is $82,000,000. If, however, this plan is adopted by the other 408 taxing bodies in Cook county and by the state on the taxes it levies in this county, the tax reduction would be much greater. As soon as the plan has been gotten under way Mr. Kelly proposes to urge it upon other tax levying bodies.

Illustrative of the extent of the proposed reduction in expenditures, Cook county's tax bill for 1930, now in the process of collection, is about $286,000,000. The Kelly committee plan provides, however, that the 1932 appropriations shall be on the basis of taxes actually collected—not taxes levied—for 1929. That total was $178,433,961.13. On that basis of comparison the proposed cut is $108,000,000.

Resolution Is Adopted.

The agreement, which was made at a conference of officials of the local governments and Kelly committee members in the Chicago club, was in the form of a resolution of which the pertinent part reads:

"It is the sense of this meeting that all tax spending bodies in the county of Cook proceed to prepare to pass their budgets for the year of 1932 on a basis, if possible, not in excess of their actual cash receipts in the form of taxes and miscellaneous income of their respective bodies for the year of 1929—and not as heretofore on the basis of the last known tax levy."

As indicative of the sentiment among the governmental chiefs for the program, President Lewis E. Myers of the school board seconded the motion to adopt this resolution, and other representatives of the local governments indicated assent to it in their speeches.

Subcommittee Is Named.

To get the plan started and properly applied, the meeting formed a subcommittee composed of D. F. Kelly, chairman; a judge to be appointed by Chief Justice Brothers of the Circuit court; Charles E. Fox, chief appraiser of the board of assessors; George O. Fairweather of the joint tax commission; President George W. Rossetter of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and the city and the county controllers.

This subcommittee is "to coöperate to the fullest extent with the various tax spending bodies to the end that their budgets will be reduced to the basis heretofore outlined."

In addition this subcommittee is to foot up the current and floating indebtedness of taxing bodies to "indicate the necessity for economy."

Hemingway Supports Plan.

School Trustee Joseph P. Savage was appointed by President Myers as a representative of the board to attend the meeting with Trustee James A. Hemingway, chairman of the board's finance committee. Mr. Savage has advocated the passage of the board's $90,145,140 budget without any further reduction. He did not attend the meeting.

Mr. Kelly reported, however, that Mr. Hemingway voted for the resolution. He is one of the eight trustees relied upon by Trustee Savage to pass the $90,195,140 budget tomorrow. President Myers and Trustees Carr, McJunkin, with Hemingway, can prevent the adoption of the school appropriations.

"As illustrative of what the plan means to all of the local governments," explained Mr. Kelly, "apply it roughly to the board of education. It means a budget for the board nearer $60,000,000 than $90,000,000. The board's income from taxes in 1929 was a trifle more than $51,000,000, and its miscellaneous receipts, including donations from the state school tax, were about $5,000,000. On top of that will have to be added certain fixed charges.

"We are certain that the public does not want $90,000,000 spent on the schools in these times. It wants every extravagant and wasteful feature eliminated, and also some of the less essential functions. That is what we have asked the board to do, and no one has suggested that the salary schedule of the teachers be reduced."

Tells of Complete Accord.

"What opposition was expressed to the plan at the conference by the representatives of the various governments?" Mr. Kelly was asked.

"There was not one discordant note sounded," he replied. "All of the speeches made indicated sympathy with lowering the costs of government and of a desire to coöperate in reducing budgets for this year."

"Referring back to the school board, did the committee attempt to give any specific instructions on how or where cuts should be made?" Mr. Kelly was asked.

Where Cuts Can Be Made.

"No attempt was made, nor will be made, to tell the school board where to cut its budget," said Mr. Kelly. "That is their business.

"The law provides that we must give a good common school education to the children. That must be done first. I believe, if it becomes necessary, that the Crane Junior college and the Normal college should be closed. Nor in my opinion is there any good reason for purchasing sites this year, because I feel they will be cheaper next year. Nor is there pressing reason for building a World's Fair school. There is no chance of the board obtaining cash with which to erect new buildings this year and so there is no urgent reason for appropriation to construct them."

Waste in School Plants.

Mr. Kelly did not refer yesterday to the high cost of operating the school plants, because he has previously estimated there is "$1,000,000 or more" of waste in that expenditure of the board.

Generally speaking the tentative budgets have been formulated on the theory that the county levy will be nine or ten per cent less for 1931 than the $286,000,000 levy for 1930. That means that between $255,000,000 and $260,000,000 in taxes will be levied.

Assuming that the budgets, in their present stages, call for the levying of $260,000,000 in taxes, a table has been prepared showing what their budgets, from taxes alone, would be at that figure and also at the $178,000,000 recommended by the Kelly committee. The table puts the state government as well as the 408 other taxing bodies of the county into the picture, so that the comparison will be complete.

In the table below the first column shows what the various governments would spend on the basis of $260,544,670 tax revenue estimates, while the second column shows what those appropriations, from taxes, will be under the Kelly committee plan. The table follows:

Governments.	Tentative budgets.	Reduced budgets.
County	$19,825,175	$13,577,090
Forest preserves	3,963,902	2,715,723
City	73,520,527	49,400,364
Schools	75,367,775	50,666,797
Sanitary district	24,466,998	16,758,678
South park	11,025,235	7,666,926
Lincoln park	2,794,145	1,614,041
West park	3,684,828	2,595,320
State	17,176,837	11,831,505
408 other taxing bodies in co.	28,719,194	21,607,513
Totals	$260,544,670	$178,433,981

The above figures in the last column do not represent the entire budget of each government. Some of them have considerable miscellaneous revenue. The city has about $14,000,000 in license fees and other miscellaneous sources, and has a special tax on automobiles which brings in more than $5,000,000 a year. The county has all of the fees from the fee offices, which they usually estimate around $7,000,000 a year, and the sanitary district has a large income from its hydro electric plant when the city pays for the current used in street lighting.

Among those who attended the conference, besides Mr. Kelly, President Myers and Trustee Hemingway and agreed to coöperate in fitting appropriations to revenues, were:

President Emmett Whealan and Deputy Controller Michael J. O'Connor of the county and forest preserve boards.

Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the city council finance committee; John Richart, the finance committee's chief of staff, and City Controller M. S. Szymczak.

President Edward J. Kelly and Superintendent George Donohue of the south parks system. President W. W. James of the west parks board.

VOTES $250,000 TO PRESS GRAFT QUIZ IN NEW YORK

Albany, N. Y., March 1 [Tuesday]. —(AP)—After three hours of angry debate, the assembly of the New York legislature early today passed the bill appropriating an additional $250,000 for the New York City investigation. The bill passed the senate sometime ago and now goes to Gov. Roosevelt.

The appropriation brings the cost of the legislative investigation of the Tammany administration of New York to $750,000. Of this sum, the Republicans have decided to give Samuel Seabury, investigator for the committee, $100,000 as his fee.

$2,500,000 Warrants Sold; Teachers Get 2 Weeks Pay

Bankers entered the Chicago tax warrant market for the first time in fifteen months yesterday. As a result every school employé will get a check today for half a month's pay. The school pay roll aggregates $2,566,197.

J. R. LEAVELL.

James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois bank, notified Controller Szymczak that a deal had been arranged for the purchase of $2,500,000 worth of 1930 corporate fund tax warrants now held in the city's aggregate of funds, and that cash will be delivered today.

The controller said that he is hopeful that the Chicago banks will buy an additional $2,000,000 worth of warrants within a few days. This will make it possible to pay city, library and municipal tuberculosis sanitarium employés for the first half of January. Those pay rolls aggregate $1,855,458.

A city hall statement said that Mayor Cermak, "realizing that the school employés have received only two months pay for ten months' work," made special efforts to raise funds through the sale of warrants, "despite the fact that the school board has not yet reduced its budget to the present taxpaying capacity of the real estate owners."

An Optional Check Plan.

While the city was providing cash for school employés, the board of education put into effect its plan to give the teachers checks marked "not sufficient funds," which they may exchange for small denomination 1931 tax warrants if they wish.

Teachers' organizations have opposed the issue of these small warrants, charging that the school board is forcing its employés to shoulder the burden of the discounts at which the paper will have to be marketed in the present depreciated market. They have advised their members not to turn in their worthless pay checks in exchange for tax warrants unless they know definitely that they can dispose of the warrants.

The "N. S. F." pay checks sent out by the school board are for the month of December. Arthur H. Schweitzer, assistant business manager of the school board, will set up an office today in the old City State Bank building, 126 North Wells street, in which fifteen clerks will be on hand to exchange tax warrants for the pay checks.

Mail Out Checks at Night.

Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the board, kept his office force overtime last night to mail out the pay checks which will be redeemed with the cash advanced by the city. These are for the first half of November, and will be delivered today to the teachers and other employés.

Contractors have asked for $2,000,000 worth of the tax warrants which the school board has ready, it was announced at its offices. This, however, will not help matters any in regard to the fourteen school buildings on which work has been stopped for lack of funds. The contractors are taking the warrants for money which they have already spent, and will not advance further funds for completion of the buildings on the security of warrants.

SEVEN SCHOOLS IN BERWYN FACE CLOSING FRIDAY

Lack of funds will force the closing of the seven schools in district 100, comprising the south side of Berwyn, at the end of this week, E. W. Martin, superintendent of the district, announced yesterday. The schools have 3,000 pupils, and the district now owes the 95 teachers salaries for two months, amounting to $33,000. The Parent-Teacher association of Berwyn will start a house to house canvass March 7, under the supervision of Attorney Otto Jaburek, to sell $120,000 worth of tax warrants to citizens of the village to reopen the schools for the remainder of the term.

John G. Rossman, superintendent of schools in East Chicago, Ind., denied yesterday that that city has sold any school tax anticipation warrants, as was stated last Thursday in THE TRIBUNE, or that it has had any difficulty in meeting teachers' salaries or other obligations.

Bans Arrest of Teachers Lacking City Auto Tags

Mayor Cermak sent orders yesterday from Hot Springs, Ark., to Police Commissioner Allman and Fred Fischman, superintendent of the license bureau, that school teachers are not to be arrested or summoned to court for failure to have 1932 vehicle tax stickers on their cars. He issued the order after receiving a report that a number of teachers at Englewood High school had been given summonses for failing to pay their vehicle tax.

MANUFACTURERS SEE MENACE IN PUBLIC SPENDING

Demand Drastic Cuts in Government Costs.

A warning that public expenditures have assumed the proportions of a national menace and that unless they are controlled the country will drift into Socialism was sounded by the Midwest Manufacturers' association yesterday in a meeting at the Union League club for the purpose of organizing a drive against the rising cost of government and excessive taxation. Walter J. Kohler, former governor of Wisconsin, was chairman of the meeting.

WALTER J. KOHLER

The association embraces in its membership the principal manufacturers' associations in ten middle western states. As a first step in its program the association adopted an outline of policy together with resolutions setting forth its goal.

Cites Decrease in Income.

"Public expenditures for all forms of government, national, state, and local, have assumed the proportions of a national menace," the manufacturers state. "The most authoritative information discloses that with American income declining from about 85 billion dollars in 1929 to probably 65 billion dollars in 1931, all forms of governmental expenditure have risen during the same period from about twelve and a half billion dollars to 14 billion dollars.

"Of this vast sum one-third represents federal expenditure and two-thirds the expense of state and local governments, and this is not stationary, but is increasing at the rate of 800 million dollars a year. That means that one-fifth of the value of the services and production of our people is turned over to the government, leaving that much less to be saved or spent by the individual himself.

"The situation has become so critical that we must either control this tendency or the United States becomes a Socialist government in substance, whatever its form."

Recommends Drastic Cuts.

As a cure for the situation the association recommends:

"One, drastic reduction of federal expenditures and stern resistance to new appropriations as the first steps in the balancing of the national budget.

"Two, it urges upon each state organization coöperation in applying the same policy to state and local expenditures.

"Three, the endeavor to create among our citizens a tax consciousness which will cause them to realize the economic consequences of declining income absorbed to an increasing degree by the government through rising public expenditures.

"Four, we recommend a reëxamination of the functions and limitations of government and the methods of administering public funds and incurring public indebtedness for the purpose of restoring our governments to their true function and eliminating many extravagant activities and others which are steadily bringing it into competition with private citizens."

Among those who attended the meeting were: James L. Donnelly, B. F. Affleck, and Paul Schulze of the Illinois Manufacturers' association; James A. Emery of Washington, D. C., general counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers; Robert L. Lund of St. Louis, president of the national association; John L. Lovett of the Michigan Manufacturers' association; Elmer Donnell of the Missouri Manufacturers' association; Warren F. Perry of the Ohio Manufacturers' association; Charles Grafton of the Indiana Manufacturers' association; George F. Kull of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association, and Henry V. Kohle of the Associated Industries of Oklahoma.

WEST PARKS FORCED TO DEFAULT TODAY ON $41,437 INTEREST

For the third time since November the West Parks board will default on bonds, according to Robert J. Dailey, secretary of the board. Interest charges of $41,437 fall due today, he said, and the board is without funds. On November 1, the West Parks board defaulted on a principal and interest payment of approximately $200,000, and again on a $100,000 payment January 1. Approximately 1,000 employes have not been paid since July 1.

EXPECT JACOBS TO BE NAMED AS ASSESSOR TODAY

Gov. Emmerson is expected today to announce the appointment of J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert, as assessor of Cook county, it was said yesterday at the city hall.

State Representative Henry Sonnenschein, secretary to Mayor Cermak, said he had communicated with the governor at his home in Mount Vernon, and that the governor had advised him Jacobs would be appointed. Efforts to reach Gov. Emmerson last night to confirm the reported plan proved unavailing.

Should Jacobs be named, he would fill the new position created recently in the reorganization of Cook county's taxing system. He was recommended for the important post by Mayor Cermak and others. He declined to consider the proposition at first because it would entail business sacrifices. Later he reconsidered, however, and two weeks ago met Gov. Emmerson at Springfield and discussed the proposed appointment.

CLARKE INJECTS NEW VIGOR INTO RELIEF CAMPAIGN

Plans Civic Duty Appeal to Sell Warrants.

More vigorous sales methods were determined upon yesterday by Philip R. Clarke, director of the campaign to dispose of $18,750,000 worth of 6 per cent state tax warrants for unemployment relief.

Only $230,400 worth of the securities were subscribed for yesterday, making a total of $10,322,800 sold to date and leaving $8,427,200 on hand.

Finds Letters Won't Work.

"Letter writing will not do the job," said Mr. Clarke, "as evidenced by two good sized corporations which, in response to letters offering the notes, advised campaign headquarters that they were contemplating subscriptions of $5,000 each. Investigation disclosed that each concern had given several times this amount to the Joint Emergency Relief fund last fall.

"Both concerns have sizable cash reserves, and when it was orally explained that these notes, while providing the necessary relief to the destitute, not only involve no sacrifice but also afford an opportunity to put surplus cash safely to work on a 6 per cent tax exempt basis, they quickly agreed to consider much larger subscriptions."

Plans Appeal to Civic Duty.

Mr. Clarke said that inasmuch as the notes are not selling themselves, an appeal must be made to civic duty, with emphasis upon the prospect of 500,000 destitute persons in Cook county being cut off from relief if the tax warrants are not sold. But the prospective purchasers also will be assured that the purchase of the securities entails no sacrifice and no penalty, he said.

Yesterday's subscriptions included $50,000 from Baker, Fentress & Co., an additional one of $10,000 from the Rittenhouse & Embree company, $5,000 from the Mississippi Structural Steel company, and an additional pledge of $2,000 from the Wabash Screen Door company.

CAFE OWNER HELD BY U. S.

Samuel L. Rifas, 8024 Yates avenue, former owner of the Sunset café, was held in bonds of $7,000 by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday pending his removal to New Orleans for trial on charges of violation of the liquor law.

U. S. URGES INCOME TAX PAYERS TO SPEED FILING OF RETURNS

David Burnet, commissioner of internal revenue at Washington, yesterday urged that taxpayers begin filing their income tax returns at once. The last filing day is March 15 and there has been no change in the rates or exemptions; tax forms should be filled out just as they were in 1931.

The bureau of internal revenue reported that the uncertainty among taxpayers had resulted in a small number of early filings. It was recommended that taxpayers take particular care in figuring the amounts due to the government, as mistakes in addition cause a doubling in the work government agencies have to perform on each return.

ROB HUSBAND AND WIFE.

Two bandits halted Joseph Glassman, laundry manager, and his wife, Ida, as they passed an alley near their home at 918 West 62d street early yesterday, and robbed them of three diamond rings valued at $560, a $350 sealskin coat, a $75 watch, and $5 in cash.

DEADLINE GONE, COUNTY SESSION ENDS IN UPROAR

Fail to Adopt Budget as Law Requires.

Amid a verbal uproar, the county board adjourned at 12:03 o'clock this morning, having failed to approve the 1932 "economy" budget. Midnight was the legal deadline for final action, and the commissioners were warned by County Attorney Hayden N. Bell that nonpassage of a budget endangered the entire county tax levy for this year.

Ten votes, two-thirds of the board, were necessary for passage. Only seven votes could be mustered on a number of test ballots during the debate, which began early in the afternoon.

President Emmett Whealan declared that the lack of action leaves the county this morning without a single office legally functioning. The board theoretically abolished all county departments, according to his interpretation. The board is to meet again this morning and decide what to do. It is probable that a new appeal for an extension of the time limit on budget making will be made.

Ryan Leads Fight on Budget.

Commissioner Dan Ryan lead the fight against the tentative budget, with its slash of 553 jobs and other drastic economies. He said the board could take more time to consider the budget because a law signed by Gov. Emmerson on Feb. 19 had extended the deadline. Attorney Bell expressed the opinion that this law did not apply to the county.

After arguing six hours, the commissioners at 9 p. m. were exhausted. They recessed for an hour and the argument was renewed. The following is a chronological account of the happenings from 11:30 p. m. on:

11:30 p. m.—President Whealan in the center of a conference with four commissioners. Others wandering around aimlessly.

11:35 p. m.—Mrs. Edward J. Fleming alone at her desk, pondering. Commissioners Busse and Miller whispering.

La Buy Talks to Jacobs.

11:40 p. m.—Commissioner La Buy, garbed in a tuxedo, says loudly to J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, with whom he has been talking: "That's the best I'll do!"

11:45 p. m.—Commissioner Kavanagh says loudly to Whealan: "I'm glad I'm not married." Looks meaningly at women commissioners.

11:50 p. m.—Mrs. Glenn Plumb and Mrs. Fleming in huddle with pencil in paper. Others whispering.

11:52 p. m.—President Whealan: "I'm ready!" No one answers.

11:59 p. m.—Clerk O'Connor calls roll. Whealan inquires: "Any change in vote?" Mrs. Plumb proposes changes in budget. No one else speaks.

12:02 a. m.—Shouts of: "There go Miller and Busse!" The two commissioners have thrown up their hands and are leaving the room.

12:03 a. m.—Commissioner Kavanagh, chairman of finance committee, announces adjournment until morning

Vetoes Turning Back Clock

A suggestion that the clock be turned back and the meeting continued until daylight was overruled by President Whealan during the arguments. The president, however, was asserting that the real deadline was 12:59 a. m. and not midnight when Commissioners Busse and Miller, both of whom had favored the economy budget, walked from the room. Without their votes the necessary ten could not be obtained, it was admitted.

In leading the fight against the budget Commissioner Ryan declared that the county offices would be crippled by the discharge of 553 employés.

"I don't feel that I would be discharging my duty if I voted for this budget," he said. "I would be betraying my oath of office. You are saving only $600,000 by firing employés and that saving could well be made elsewhere. Why wasn't the state's attorney's office with its big appropriations slashed?"

Miller Cites Criminal Code.

"The fact remains that you must pass a budget and make it one which is well within expected revenues," said President Emmett Whealan.

Commissioner George Miller arose and read a section from the criminal code.

"Every person holding public office who is found guilty of a palpable omission of duty shall be fined not to exceed $10,000 and shall be removed from office," he read. "Now," he said, "if it is not the duty of this board to pass this budget tonight, I don't know what duty is, and I think those who vote against it will be guilty of a palpable omission of duty."

Short of Two-thirds Vote.

A roll call was ordered on the appropriation of each department. The first roll call on the office of county controller showed seven commissioners in favor of the appropriation and six against. One commissioner, Charles H. Weber, was absent. Mayor Cermak resigned as a member of the board one month ago, leaving fourteen commissioners.

The yeas on the first test were Commissioners Busse, Byrd, Kavanagh, Kelly, Miller, Sears and Whealan. Commissioners Fleming, Kasper, La Buy, McEnerney, Plumb and Ryan voted "no." On succeeding roll calls, the stand remained much the same with one or two commissioners swinging back and forth. On all the calls, there were at least four negative votes, enough to defeat the budget on a final vote to pass it as a whole.

"You know what you're doing," warned President Whealan. "You're abolishing these departments by these votes."

"We might as well close up the county anyway," said Miss McEnerney.

"This is the first time such a situation has developed in thirty years," said Commissioner Busse.

Judge Fisher Protests.

At a morning meeting department heads and others protested against the budget cuts.

"You can't run riot in reducing jobs and salaries without regard of the constitution," said Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the criminal court who informed the commissioners they had no right to cut jobs in the fee offices. "You are not being economical by taking a lawless action. You are breaking down public service and public confidence. You must find some way of saving these breadwinners and not permit them to become public charges. You are really trying to destroy the things that have been achieved."

Superior Court Clerk Zintak said openly that he would not pay any attention to the orders of the board, but would consider only the decision of the Circuit court judges who fix the number of jobs in the fee offices.

Rees Demands Action.

John O. Rees, director of the joint commission on real estate valuation, warned the commissioners that if the present budget were not passed and if other bodies did not also reduce their budgets so that the new tax levy could be cut $80,000,000, 20 per cent of mortgaged property in Cook county would be foreclosed this year. Representatives of other organizations also urged passage of the budget in its present form.

CITY'S MILDEST WINTER SINCE 1878 IS ENDED

Figures Tell Story of Three Unusual Months.

Although spring, as figured astronomically, does not begin for nearly three weeks, the popular assumption is that winter ends with the last day of February. On this popular basis, the winter just past was the mildest Chicago has known since 1877-1878, which was the only winter in the records that was warmer.

Yesterday the official thermometer recorded a maximum of 54 degrees, which was never surpassed on Feb. 29 here. The highest previous reading for the date was 39 in 1928. It was indicated in the forecast that today will be cloudy with rain by afternoon and with moderate temperature.

Lowest 1 Above Zero.

The three months ending on Feb. 28, 1878, showed an average daily mean 10.9 degrees over normal. Leaving yesterday out, the three months just ended had an average daily mean 9.4 above normal. December was the fourth mildest on record, January the second mildest, and February, the seventh mildest. The lowest temperature of the winter was 1 above zero on Jan. 31 and the highest 66 on Feb. 25. No mercury reading below the 12 above on the 5th was registered last month.

Precipitation last month was less than usual, only 1.21 inches, against a normal 2.14. Snowfall was 5.6 inches and the normal would have been 8.7. The amount of sunshine was average, with six clear days, eleven partly cloudy, and eleven cloudy. Yesterday was not counted in this tabulation, either.

Many new signs that caused the belief spring is here already to stay were reported in the Chicago region while the bright sun shone yesterday.

Golfers See Meadowlarks.

In Highland Park golfers, wielding their brassies and niblicks as in May, declared that they beheld meadowlarks looking for early worms. Workmen were busy in the city and the suburbs burning brush on vacant lots.

The Men's Garden club of Chicago reported that there was a prospect of an immense crop of roses, the bushes by virtue of the mild winter not being killed back as far as usual. Many gardeners were putting dormant sprays on trees and shrubs to protect them from insects.

One discordant note was the moan of lawn enthusiasts. They claim that the warmth has increased the amount of tearing up done by children and dogs.

Thatcher Woods Curfew Ordered After Shooting

From now on there will be a 10:30 o'clock curfew every night in the Thatcher Woods forest preserve and a police patrol through the area every hour after dusk. This was announced yesterday by Charles J. Sauers, superintendent of the county forest preserves, following the shooting of Theodore Smith, 22 years old, 1220 South Harding avenue, early Sunday. Smith was shot in the head during a struggle with a bandit who tried to rob him and a girl companion. He is at St. Anne's hospital.

Fail to Get Single Juror in Police Slaying Trial

Efforts to select a jury for the trial of three youths for the murder of Policeman James J. Caplis in the Beach View Gardens café at 804 Wilson avenue met with frequent objections yesterday by the defense attorneys before Judge James J. Kelly in the Criminal court. Not a single juror was selected during the day.

PASTOR, 27, IS CHOSEN AS HEAD OF FAMED NORTH SIDE CHURCH

THE REV. T. C. HUME.

The congregation of old New England Congregational church, Dearborn street and Delaware place, has called a young man of 27 years to launch a program to restore that church to its former place of leadership and influence. He is the Rev. Theodore Carswell Hume, at present pastor of the Summerdale Congregational church, Paulina street and Farragut avenue.

The Rev. Mr. Hume, who holds degrees from Yale and Oxford, where he was a Rhodes scholar, and Union Theological seminary, New York, said yesterday that a group of leaders at the New England church have prepared a survey of the section of the city surrounding the church. This survey, he said, indicated a field of service greatly needed.

The New England church, which was partly destroyed in the great Chicago fire, was attended by well known figures in the city's history. For many years it was the leading congregation of the denomination in the city.

The Rev. Mr. Hume emphasized the special ministry of the church which has chosen him for pastor, in connection with the transient groups of the near north side. The church is world famous as the one from which Dwight L. Moody began his evangelistic career.

DOCTORS OUSTED BY SOCIETY WILL TAKE UP APPEAL

Four staff members of the Wicker Park Medical center who were ousted from the Chicago Medical society on Jan. 12 on charges of unethical conduct growing out of advertising by the medical center, will present an appeal from this action to the council of the Illinois Medical society tomorrow. The physicians involved in the case are Edward F. Dombrowski, A. M. Lazar, L. P. Kozakiewicz, F. J. Tenczar, and John F. Tenczar. Dr. M. L. Krupinski, also ousted in the action, has since resigned from the Wicker Park Medical center and has applied for readmission to the medical society.

CAROL SENDS OUT 2 "JOHN ALDENS" FOR LOST QUEEN

Wants Helen Back and Woos by Proxies.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 29.—Rumanian circles here today reported a new chapter in the tangled lives and loves of the Rumanian royal family. King Carol, it is said, wants to make up with his former Queen Helen whom he drove from the throne and country, and has dispatched two henchmen to woo the proud princess à la Miles Standish.

The two royal proxies are Dinu Curziano, Rumanian minister to Paris, and Col. Stoicesco of the royal household at Bucharest. Col. Stoicesco was chosen for the responsible job of doing the king's courting because he seemed to be the only man in Bucharest who rated 100 per cent in trustworthiness and at the same time over 50 per cent in masculine attractiveness. Curziano was assigned to assist him because of his long experience in handling the king's matrimonial and private affairs.

Send Her Orchids.

The two emissaries met in Geneva about ten days ago. Col. Stoicesco was there as an honorary member of Rumania's disarmament delegation. The two proceeded to Florence where Helen has been living since the death of her mother, Queen Sophie of Greece. According to royal orders, the knights errant succeeded in obtaining an entrance to the haughty princess' abode under cover of a barrage of orchids.

Helen, it is reported, received them coldly at first, but after Stoicesco described the remorse and love of Carol she began to relent a little, especially when the wily Curziano invoked the loneliness of her son Michael.

Carol Finds Way Out.

Carol's offer, it is reliably stated, is that Helen return immediately to Bucharest, whereupon Carol will make a public announcement of a reconciliation. He will then explain that the only reason he did not remarry the queen was because the Rumanian law forbids remarriage after divorce and that he did not want to use a royal prerogative to have an exception made in his favor. Now, however, it is discovered that an obscure law permits the remarriage of divorced couples when there are children.

Helen is said to have promised to seriously consider the proposal. If she accepts, the remarriage will likely take place in Bucharest May 10, the occasion of the national fête.

Col. Stoicesco is remaining at Geneva and is driving down to Florence every few days bearing presents and greetings from the king. The opinion among King Carol's intimates here is that Helen, who places her duty to her son above everything else, is likely to yield to the royal solicitation.

Nickel Plate Road Opens Shops; Jobs for 550 Men

Conneaut, O., Feb. 29.—(AP)—The Nickel Plate railroad today announced that repair shops at Conneaut and Lima, O., and Frankfort, Ind., will be reopened tomorrow, affording work for 550 men. The employment affects only the locomotive shops. The work order prescribed employment for ten days this month, but provided for an extension if business improved.

BRITON, WIFE AND 4 CHILDREN HELD BY CHINESE REDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 29.—Chinese communists today captured a foreign lighthouse keeper, his wife and four children. Their nationality is not certain, but it is thought they are British. The lighthouse is located at Breeker point, thirty miles southwest of Swatow.

The British destroyer Whitehall, stationed at Swatow, has been ordered to the scene with instructions to co-operate with Chinese troops to effect the release of the six prisoners. A British cruiser is being sent to Swatow to protect British nationals there.

The Nanking government today sent $500,000 to Canton to finance a drive to be led by the Cantonese Gen. Chen Chi-tang against communists on the Fukien and Kiangsi frontiers, which includes the Swatow region.

AUSTRALIA DEALS OUT MILLIONS IN POST-WAR SPREE

Flings Public Funds About Aimlessly.

BY QUENTIN POPE.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 29.—Lacking knowledge of the supreme self confidence of Australians, world's superoptimists, it is almost impossible to credit the way in which public funds were thrown around in the thirteen years since the world war. No one knows and no one will ever calculate how many hundreds of millions of dollars were flung about by federal and state governments in the most remarkable expansionist moves in the history of the country.

Commission after commission has charted the course of this riotous path, but the half of the story has not been told. Yet what is known is enough to show that this state is manned by the world's greatest spenders.

The last thirteen years saw the final triumph of socialist ideas. Ownership of means of development had long rested with the state; railroads, hydro works and other public utilities were run by civic or national authorities, but the post-war period saw government schemes in a dozen different directions crash to the ground.

From Soldier to Farmer.

The first major enterprise to be launched after the sirens blared on armistice day was the plan for turning soldiers into farmers. Pledges had ben given that "the men who served" should be given "a stake in the country" they defended. The effort to give them that holding, Judge Pike declared when presenting to the federal ministry his long investigation into the position of soldier settlers back in 1929, had then cost the country $113,000,000 net loss.

Men with too little capital had been financed on the land, Judge Pike said: areas given them had been too small; values had slumped; and, most important, unfit and untrained men had been sent to the farms. Interest charged the soldiers had mounted into an intolerable burden, Judge Pike said, the rate being from 5½ to 6½ per cent, and the ultimate effect of this squeeze was that 30 per cent of the settlers had walked off their farms.

Judge Pike flayed the states for refusing the commonwealth any right of responsibility or control and then asking the commonwealth to hold the bag for losses, which they set at around $135,000,000. Alteration of the original terms of the scheme, made by the states, was, Judge Pike claimed, clear proof that the states refused to allow the commonwealth to take direction of the scheme, and he held that losses must be shared between the governments.

Situation Critical.

The situation today may be gauged from the report of the Victorian closer settlement board in October, 1931. which sets out that of $6,000,000 installments due last June, only $2,900,000, or 49 per cent, had been paid. This despite the fact that subsequent to the Pike report the state wrote off more than $40,000,000. Arrears of interest stands at $15,000,000. Other states are similarly placed and drastic revision of values is certain.

Political control which leads to "constant pressure on governments" must be eliminated, the board holds, in order to save the remnants of the scheme.

Settlement of soldiers on the land at least had some semblance of plan about it, but no justification can be put forward for Australia's huge pensions burdens and "social" payments which last March reached the staggering total of $1,060,000,000. In America that would reach the astronomic proportions of $21,200,000,000—more than the total U. S. debt.

This load, laid upon the country by its social theories, totals up from $557,000,000 in old age pensions, $444,000,000 in war pensions, and $59,000,000 in maternity allowances, the latter voted to make Australians more often mothers, as the birth rate has been tending downward almost without interruption for the lat 70 years.

Pensions Equal Debts.

These pensions alone, without complicating factors, would suffice to pay off the country's overseas debt for war and peace, even though this has been swollen by colossal waste of borrowed money.

Indication of what happens when the state embarks on pension grants on a large scale was given by recent revelations of the auditor general who last year tabled figures of war pension scandals which revealed how safeguards irk this democracy. Medical councils were designed to be the final source of appeal for war pensions, but a so-called "entitlement tribunal" over-rides the doctors. Last year it increased the commonwealth's pensions bill [normally $38,000,000 a year] by $350,000.

Cases are listed where pensions have been granted to widows of men who committed suicide, who died of bronchitis in 1928 "as a result of the war," to the widow of a man who died after a fall into a pit in 1927, and to men who never saw the war. Investigation shows that of 279,000 "war pensioners," only 74,000 are former soldiers; 65,000 are wives or widows and 110,000 are children.

Capping this wartime tangle is the fact that old age and invalid pensions are now rising at the rate of $5,000,000 a year. In 1922 they stood at $27,000,000. Today they check up to $58,000,000 while war pensions have ballooned from $24,000,000 in 1919 to $38,000,000 in 1931. Today 333 people in each 10,000 receive some sort of pension or bonus from the state. Australia has discovered the pensions racket.

Tried to "Re-Face" Nation.

Beside these ambitious and extravagant schemes must be listed the efforts to remake the face of the country, inspired by unquestioning faith in its destiny. Aspiring to be more than a mere "beach line civilization" dwelling on the edges of a continent, Australia embarked on the task of building a new America. Always misled by map coverage, the citizens aimed at rivaling the United States. For moderate Australians the worst thing that ever happened was the discovery fifty years ago of an artesian bore which gushed 3,000 gallons a day. Then was born the national slogan of "Australia Unlimited."

The discovery of water told why the River Darling could discharge by surface flow only one-sixtieth of the waters it received. Irrigation was the new weapon caught up to push back the economic frontiers. Fill the great open spaces, was the cry. Typical of Australian methods were those employed in the Murrumbidgee irrigation scheme. About $45,000,000 was sunk in it in ten years and a British economic mission, headed by Sir Arthur Duckham, president of the British General Electric corporation, which visited Australia at the invitation of the government in 1928 expressed the utmost alarm at the methods employed.

"When we are told that of the irrigable land made available by the scheme only about one-third is being used for its intended purpose and that only a fraction of the interest allocated to that one-third is being received," said the mission in its tactful report, "we cannot avoid the conclusion and apprehension that a very heavy and permanent load is being laid upon the community."

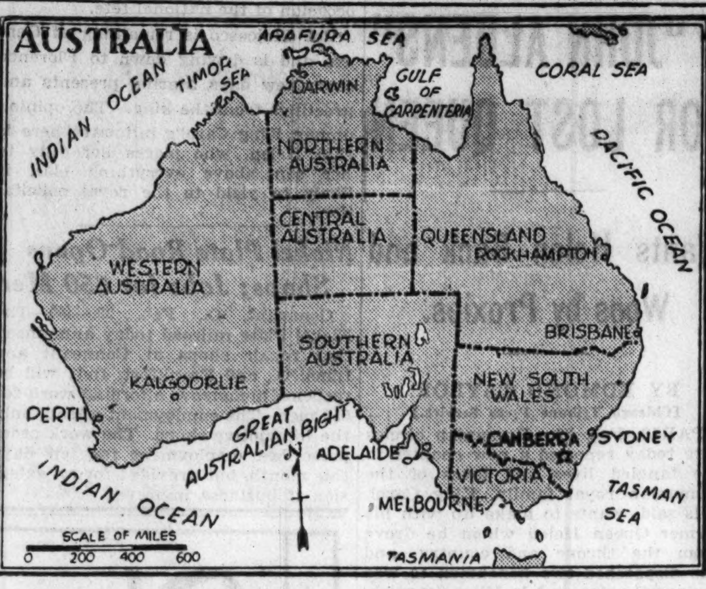
Non-Coöperation Charged.

Surveying other irrigation schemes, the mission charged that a plan for using the waters of the Murray, one of the world's longest rivers, "had been started without coöperation between the different states involved and without a combined survey of the probable markets for the produce which it is contemplated will result from the use of the waters."

The loss inevitable in the Murray plan, declared these eminent British business men, could have been avoided by proper investigation at the outset. The mission even suggested that it might be wise to end the Murray scheme and take the losses rather than spend another 20 millions on a bad job.

The Murray work, said the Duckham report, is a good example of the causes of Australia's unsatisfactory position. It is also an example of her continued failure to plan.

AUSTRALIA ON COMEBACK TRAIL



Unbridled borrowing, Utopian ideas of government, and socialistic experiments have plunged Australia, a continent on the bottom of the world, into bankruptcy. Flinging public funds around aimlessly, the nation is now paying the penalty and is facing a desperate struggle to regain her feet. Quentin Pope, Tribune writer, in a series of articles, tells how Australia plunged into her financial difficulties and how she hopes to regain the confidence of the world.

BANK DEPOSITORS GROUP GETS INTO ROW ON OFFICERS

Charge of 'Hidden' Slate Causes Clash.

Dissension arose last night in the United Depositors' association at a meeting called for the election of officers. The association is chartered to represent depositors in closed banks. After heated debate the members voted to postpone the election six months, automatically retaining the present officers.

The dispute was precipitated by Lewis F. Jacobson, attorney for the association, when he moved that the members vote to retain the present officers and himself as attorney, if they wished, as a reward for their service to depositors. A member rose to object on the ground that at the December meeting of the association a nominating committee had been appointed to pick a slate of fifteen officers and directors, an increase of five over the present number.

Slate Causes Argument.

Harold N. May, a director and member of the nominating committee, said no slate had been agreed upon. William F. Stelzer, another member of the committee, said he had received a copy of a selected slate and demanded it be read. The slate was found and read. It named Stelzer as vice president and dropped the present vice president. W. W. Harrel, as well as a director, Dr. E. Byron Kelly, and the secretary, Joseph Weber.

A second depositor objected to what he called the "steamroller tactics" of Jacobson. He hinted the slate was concealed because it included Stelzer, although he did not name Stelzer. Stelzer is known as a supporter of State Auditor Nelson and also for his aggressiveness in representing depositors of Bain banks.

Jacobson replied that he had made his motion to save the time of the members. Stelzer defended the proposed slate on the ground that it had directors from each section of the city, rather than giving control to representatives of depositors in a few banks.

Calls It Unconstitutional.

Jacobson attacked the new slate as unconstitutional because he said it was contemplated when the membership of the organization was scarcely more than 60 who had paid the $3 fee whereas it is now 1,127. He declared the charter mentioned only 10 directors.

On this ground the slate was tabled. A motion was then passed to postpone the election six months.

The officers and directors who will carry on, in addition to Harrel, Weber, Kelly and May, are H. Truman Gordon, president; Thomas Bell, treasurer, and George Kappes, R. W. Erickson and Joseph N. Fouchard.

Directors of the federal reconstruction finance corporation at Washington are to consider an application for a loan to aid depositors of two closed state banks, ordered in the Circuit court yesterday by Judge Michael Feinberg. Little hope was seen for the granting of the loan by the attorney for the receiver of the banks and the attorney for the Chicago office of the corporation.

The petition was sponsored by the United Depositors' association and brought in behalf of the 22,000 depositors of the First Humboldt State bank and the Second Humboldt State bank. Under the order Carl Antonsen, receiver for both banks, was directed to make the application.

Attorney Herbert Bye, representing Antonsen, said he was in sympathy with the move, but doubted possibility of success. Attorney Walter Fisher, who represents Howard Sims, director of the Chicago office of the corporation, said he believed a loan to closed state banks would not be legal in Illinois.

Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, in an opinion delivered to State Auditor Oscar Nelson, held receivers cannot seek loans.

John Bain, head of the chain of twelve closed Bain banks; his sons, John H. and Robert A., and his son-in-law, Merle W. Fisher, will demand a jury trial on their indictments on charges of conspiracy in connection with the failure of the banks. This was announced before Judge Philip L. Sullivan in the Criminal court by Attorney Nelson Wetling.

Attorney Wetling asked a continuance until tomorrow because he had not received a copy of the indictments. His request was granted.

State Auditor Nelson announced payments to depositors of the Union State bank of South Chicago and the Marquette Park State bank will be made March 15. The former will mail checks for a 12½ per cent dividend of $225,000.

A 10 per cent dividend of $100,000 will be paid to 8,000 depositors of the Marquette Park bank. The Morton Grove State bank will pay a 25 per cent dividend of $70,000 as soon as Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski approves a list of claims filed with him. Pending litigation is holding up a 10 per cent dividend of $55,000 to depositors of the Peoples State bank of Maywood.

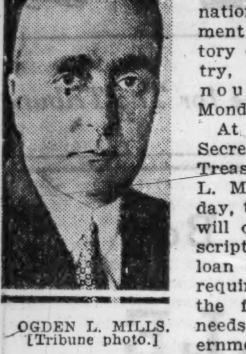
UNCLE SAM HAS TO MAKE A LOAN OF 2½ BILLIONS

It's a Result of Living Beyond Income.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—The treasury's program of financing, involving the largest peace time borrowings by the national government in the history of the country, will be announced next Monday.



OGDEN L. MILLS.

At that time, Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills said today, the treasury will call for subscriptions to a loan that will be required to meet the financial needs of the government during the quarter beginning on March 15.

The character of the securities to be offered to the investing public, the interest rate, the volume of the immediate borrowing and other details are to be determined at treasury conferences this week. The program is being formulated in full realization of the fact that the price the government is compelled to pay for borrowed money and the volume of subscriptions will evidence to the world the state of the government's credit and the degree of confidence of the American people in the administration of the national finances.

To Raise Public Debt.

With a 2 billion 100 million dollar deficit in prospect this fiscal year on top of a 900 million dollar deficit last year, and an addition to the public debt next year now estimated at 1 billion 200 millions, the presumption has been for some time that sooner or later an issuance of bonds as well as short term notes would be necessitated. Recently, however, it was learned that the treasury contemplated confining the March financing to an offering of notes maturing in not more than one year.

By the end of the current fiscal year, the treasury will need to borrow not less than 2 billion 500 millions. This estimate is based on the calculation that not more than 1 billion 500 millions will be required to meet treasury needs in addition to refunding approximately 950 millions of maturing certificates of indebtedness.

The new borrowings will raise the amount of the public debt to 19 billions, an increase of 3 billions in the last year. By using current revenue and interest on the war debts, in addition to the sinking fund for retirement of Liberty bonds, the public debt had been reduced about 3 billions more than was scheduled. What, with its income on the toboggan and its expenditures for the current fiscal year still at topnotch, the government, as a result of enforced borrowings to make both ends meet, now finds itself owing as much as it would have owed had debt reductions not been accelerated.

Speculate on Interest Rate.

There is much speculation in financial circles on the interest rate of the new fiscal program.

Money is now costing the government about 3½ per cent. The assumption has been for some time that it would be necessary for the government to pay not less than 4 per cent on the March borrowings. Last week, however, the Federal Reserve bank of New York reduced its rediscount rate from 3½ to 3 per cent, presumably in preparation for the treasury's March financing, which will be to a large extent in the New York money market. This move has the effect of cheapening money and presages a lower interest rate on the new treasury issues than otherwise would be the case.

Largest Items in Deficit.

The largest item in the present financial needs of the government is the general treasury deficit, which is in the neighborhood of 800 millions. How much the new Reconstruction Finance corporation will require for its operations is not known, but it is understood to be not more than the 500 millions of its capital stock. The federal land banks will require another 125 millions and the farm loan board 75 millions more under recent legislation.

The refunding requirements during the first half of the year include two issues of treasury certificates, one of $623,891,500, maturing March 15, 1932, and another of $324,578,500, maturing June 15. The first bears a 2 per cent coupon, while the second carries 2¾ per cent interest. In addition, there will be the usual refunding of treasury bill issues.

FINLAND'S ARMY FIGHTS TO STOP MOVE ON CAPITAL

Meets 5,000 Fascisti Near Helsingfors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 29.—Government troops today battled 5,000 armed Lapua men [Finnish Fascisti] about twenty-five miles from Helsingfors in an effort to stop their march on the Finnish capital. The Fascists had advanced from Mantsala, which is about 37 miles from Helsingfors and where thousands of the rebels have concentrated since last Saturday.

Communications have been cut and the outcome of the battle is not known.

An emergency safety law was invoked tonight by President Pehr Edwin Svinhufvud to give himself supreme military powers to meet the Lapua rebellion.

Demand Cabinet Resign.

This action was the reply to an ultimatum issued by the Lapua demanding the resignation of the cabinet, pledges for the destruction of communism, and elimination of Socialists from the government.

The Finnish army moved early today to protect Helsingfors. All roads leading to the capital are guarded at strategic points by machine guns, and trains entering this area are closely guarded. Detachments of troops were dispatched to rout the rebels at Mantsala, which Baron E. von Born, minister of the interior, yesterday declared in a state of siege.

President Svinhufvud's emergency decree will enable the government to suppress newspapers guilty of agitation, disperse demonstrations, search homes, frustrate movements of armed persons, and take all necessary steps to preserve order.

More Fascisti Mass.

Another concentration of Fascists was reported at Hameenlinna, 70 miles from Helsingfors. It was learned that leaders of the revolt met there today. Orders received by Lapua men from revolt leaders have specified four days of actual fighting service. Each man was instructed to bring rations for that length of time.

The Lapua are under the leadership of Maj. Gen. Martti Wallenius, a former chief of the Finnish general staff. He became general secretary of the Fascist movement after serving a prison term for his connection with the kidnaping of former President Stahlberg.

The first spark in the rebellion occurred Saturday when armed Lapua broke up a Socialist meeting in Mantsala with machine gun fire. Yesterday the entire Mantsala district was fortified. Rebel leaders announced they would march on the Finnish capital with 20,000 men unless their demands were met.

GARY EMPLOYES HOPE TO GET PAY FROM GAS TAX

City employés of Gary and county highway employés of Lake county, Ind., were hopeful of getting pay checks when it was learned yesterday that the state of Indiana will distribute gasoline tax funds to municipalities and counties today. Gary expects $25,000 from the gasoline tax. With what is on hand there will be enough for the half month's pay, due today, but a council meeting is necessary to authorize the transfer of the $25,000 from the street improvement fund to the general fund, and then to authorize the use of it for salaries.

It was said the county may use its share of the tax so that all county employés expect to be paid today.

After today, however, there is general apprehension that there may be no more pay days until the taxes are paid early in May.

BANK ROBBERS HUNTED BY KANE COUNTY POSSES

A posse of fifty men, including state highway policemen and deputy sheriffs, were searching Kane county roads leading into Chicago for four robbers who obtained $1,000 in a holdup of the Burlington State bank at Burlington earlier in the day. One of the bandits is believed to have been seriously wounded by the fire of Edward Lawrence, a resident of Burlington.

The car used by the robbers was found abandoned in a gravel pit on a lonely road five miles southwest of Elgin. There was blood on the rear seat and a hole made by a pistol bullet in one door. Some of the searchers suspected that the unwounded robbers had killed the injured one and tossed the body out to prevent any delay in their flight.

It was discovered that the license plate on the car had been issued to Edmund Ronske, 126 Kenilworth avenue, Elmhurst. Police there were unable to find Ronske. They said he had not reported the car stolen.

While the robbery of the bank was in progress one of the four men patrolled the sidewalk outside, carrying a submachine gun. This was the man shot by Lawrence, who hid in a hardware store as he took aim.

ROBBER'S AUTO UPSETS IN WILD CHASE; HE FLEES

A wild chase after a bandit automobile through Oak Park and Chicago streets ended spectacularly early this morning when the fugitive car careened around a corner and overturned on the front lawn of Mr. and Mrs. John E. McCauley, 5825 Augusta street.

A few minutes earlier the automobile's occupant had held up Arthur Mallow, attendant in the oil filling station at Lombard and North avenues, Oak Park, and stolen $30. As the robber fled, Mallow called to Arthur Snyder, a private watchman, who was passing in his car. Snyder, a former Oak Park policeman, started after the bandit.

The pursuit led east in Le Moyne avenue, then south in Mansfield avenue, with Snyder firing at the bandit. At Augusta street the robber tried the sharp turn, and upset. He clambered out of the car. Snyder fired again. The bullet crashed through the front window of the McCauley home, striking a book rack a few feet from where the McCauleys were sitting. The robber escaped after firing a shot at Snyder.

PLAN TO MAKE MICHAEL KING OF POLAND AND RUMANIA REVEALED

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Feb. 29.—A plan to establish a monarchy in Poland, with the young Crown Prince Michael of Rumania as the prospective king of a united kingdom of Poland and Rumania, was discussed at a meeting of prominent pro-Pilsudski Conservatives, the Socialist newspaper Robothik revealed today.

A member of parliament, Prince Zdzislaw Lubomirski, was said to have assured the leaders of the group that the chances for a monarchy in Poland were now good.

Prince Michael could in time marry Marshal Pilsudski's 10 year old daughter, Jadviga, it was held, and thus mark the beginning of a Polish-Rumanian personal union. Until the prince came of age King Carol of Rumania and Marshal Pilsudski would act as regents of the two countries. The plan was seriously discussed.

The council adopted as its motto: "United we stand, divided the tax collector gets our property."

E. J. Lamb, insurance man of Wheaton and Naperville, was elected temporary president, and W. A. Gamon, of Wheaton, was named temporary secretary. Mark W. Pickell, of Naperville, secretary of the Federation of American Business, was the chief speaker at the meeting.

What a charming figure

But her skin, Tragic!

By Julia Foster ★

The first glimpse of her, a vision of loveliness, of perfect youthful grace. Only, her complexion ruined the illusion of youth. I tell you, it was ages older than the girl herself! Had she never troubled to consult anyone for this simplest of all beauty advice?

Why should any woman have a "tragic" complexion? You, for example. You can always keep your skin clear, supple, youthful. How? Beauty experts for years have told women to use this complexion care. It is retold here, so that you can use it, too.

Morning and evening, apply to face and throat a generous lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Work well into the pores with your hands. Then rinse thoroughly with warm water, and finish with a cold rinse. Hot water should never touch your face. After this, in the morning, your make-up. At night, if your skin is dry, follow with oil or tissue cream.

Easy enough, isn't it? And there's no secret why Palmolive is recommended. For years, more than 20,000 of the world's leading beauty specialists have recommended it above all other soaps for this foundation cleansing. The reason is told in full in the panel at the right, under the heading, "Beauty In a Test Tube". Please read it!

Bathe, relax, beautify!

Some day, soon, when you're so tired you feel like cancelling an engagement, try this instead! I learned it from a beauty specialist. It's a beauty treatment, as well as a perfect way to relax.

Shave up a whole cake of Palmolive—it's very inexpensive, you know—melt it by boiling in 4 cups of water and pour the solution into your tub. Step in, and for a minute or so, simply relax. Then massage every inch of your body, every pore, with rich lather from another cake of Palmolive. The olive and palm oils will benefit your skin. When you get out, you'll find fatigue, nervousness, gone! You won't want to cancel anything!

Tonight—try this restful beauty bath. And be sure twice a day to use the Palmolive facial treatment. You'll agree no other beauty treatment has ever given your skin such youthful softness.

PALMOLIVE

Keep that Schoolgirl Complexion

BEAUTY IN A TEST TUBE

Olive oil for the complexion! Always known to keep skin soft, supple, youthful. But can you get enough olive oil in soap? How much, actually, goes into Palmolive? Here is the exact amount of olive oil that goes into every ten-cent cake of Palmolive—in this test tube at the right. To this generous olive oil content can be directly traced Palmolive's great complexion benefits. It is the only large-selling soap made of vegetable oils exclusively. The only one using olive oil as a base. Other ingredients are simply oils from palm trees necessary to produce a richer, creamier, more workable lather. The color is the natural green of olive and palm oils—no artificial coloring.

More than 20,000 of the world's beauty experts have for years urged Palmolive Soap in preference to all others. Heed their advice!

NEW ULTIMATUM SMASHES HOPES FOR TRUCE—CHINA

Accuses Japan of Trickery in Peace Talk.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 29.—Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, Japanese army commander, issued another ultimatum to China today. It was delivered to Wu Tehchen, Chinese mayor, by Kuramatsu Murai, Japanese counsul general.

The ultimatum told the Chinese authorities that unless they ceased using their own railways for troop transportation, the Japanese would destroy all trains and tracks within fifty miles of Shanghai. The expiration date was fixed as March 2. This is considered significant, since it is the day preceding the meeting of the league of nations assembly at Geneva to consider the Sino-Japanese trouble.

Explodes Peace Talk—China.

Gen. Tsai Ting-kai's Chinese headquarters tonight issued a statement declaring that Gen. Uyeda's note explodes reports that Japan is ready to enter into a truce.

"Gen. Uyeda's ultimatum gives no time limit for a reply," the Chinese statement said. "The Japanese military officers make no secret of the fact that as soon as their reinforcements are in position they will begin a general offensive along the Miaohungchen-Kiangwan front. It is a well known fact that the Japanese general staff is still busy making ambitious plans to assure the capture of Shanghai.

"Japan's Intention Evident."

"Japanese reinforcements are still arriving to carry on military aggressions against the Chinese defense. Part of the 11th division has already arrived and the 14th division is expected at any moment, bringing the total Japanese troop at Shanghai to more than 80,000 men.

"In view of the undisguised intention of the Japanese forces, it is self evident that the Japanese report that Tokio is prepared to consider a cessation of hostilities was circulated all over the world to create a false impression in order to ease the tension of the situation and strike a decisive blow after the people have been thrown off their guard.

"Diplomats Are Powerless."

"The fact that these peace terms depend upon the extent to which the Tokio foreign office is able to gain the ascendancy over the Japanese military and naval commanders shows the absurdity of this report, because the Japanese foreign office has never been able to gain the ascendancy over the Japanese militarists."

Gen. Uyeda's ultimatum is of greater importance because there are only two railways running into Shanghai and both contain heavy British investments. They are the Shanghai-Nanking line and the Shanghai-Hangchow line.

If the Japanese threat is carried out it will mean that they will have inflicted serious damage to three Chinese railways containing British investments. The third railway is the Peiping-Mukden line in Manchuria which was repeatedly bombed and has now been taken over under Japanese auspices.

Text of Ultimatum.

The Japanese ultimatum said:

"According to authentic reports Chinese military authorities recently have caused military reinforcements from various points to be transported to this city, said reinforcements having been transported by means of trains.

"Such troop movements are considered sufficient to aggravate the present situation. If the dispatch of Chinese reinforcements is continued, the imperial Japanese empire in self-defense shall be compelled to take immediate steps, namely; after March 2.

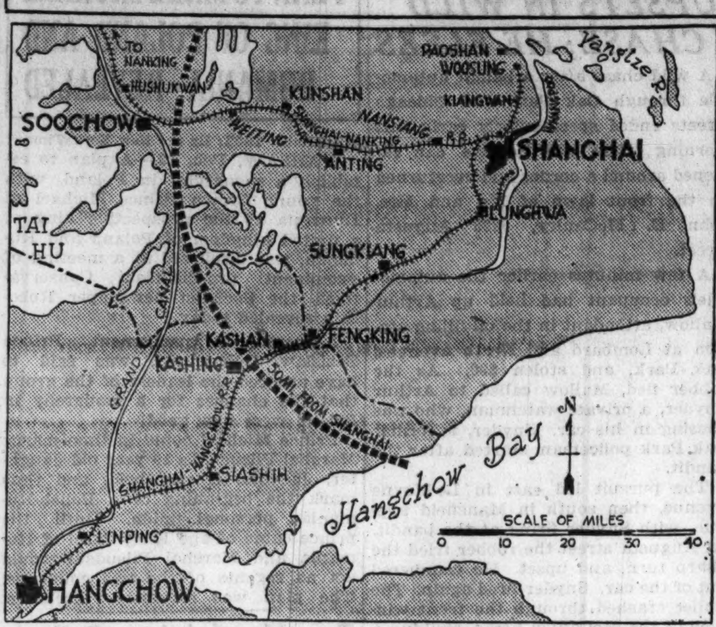
14 Cities Are Periled.

"It is planned to destroy all military trains as well as those sections of railway trackage between Shanghai and Kashing, on the Shanghai-Hangchow line, and between Shanghai and Soochow on the Shanghai-Nanking line, the distance being approximately 50 miles west and south of Shanghai and covering railway sections being used for military purposes.

"In order to prevent harm and danger to civilians along the lines we shall take steps to inform them, but at the same time you are requested immediately to notify the people living near the railway zones to the foregoing effect."

According to foreign military observers the ultimatum constitutes a warning to evacuate six cities on the Shanghai-Nanking line and eight on the Shanghai-Hangchow line. The population of these cities range from 5,000 to Soochow's 500,000. The total population of all the cities exceeds 1,000,000.

CHINESE RAILWAYS FACE DESTRUCTION



Shanghai's two railways face destruction tomorrow, if the Japanese ultimatum to China to cease troop movements to the war stricken metropolis is carried out. The Japanese commander said he intended to wreck the Shanghai-Nanking and the Shanghai-Hangchow lines to a distance of 50 miles from Shanghai if the terms of the ultimatum were not fulfilled. The heavily shaded semi-circle indicates the distance to which the lines would be blown up. British interests have a heavy investment in both railways.

JAPAN SPURNS PROPOSAL TO STOP FIGHTING

Tokio Declares China Can't Be Trusted.

state department is seen, the declaration said that the proposal is aimed only at the establishment of peace in the Shanghai area "without prejudice to or qualification of any position previously taken up by the league of nations or any power in relation to Sino-Japanese affairs."

Then Sir John, in his very precise manner, said that "Britain is resolved to support the league's action for maintenance of peace."

Then he said that there is another government whose citizens had interests in Shanghai and, looking out over the diplomatic box where a number of American diplomats were pretty well concealed behind secretariat employés and attachés of other delegations, he said:

"I am happy and able to announce that I have been in close communication with the United States and am authorized to communicate on behalf of the American government that it is prepared to associate itself with measures to be taken by the council and to invite its Shanghai representatives to coöperate entirely."

Eyebrows Are Raised.

People are very polite in that duplex goldfish bowl, but many an eyebrow was raised when Sir John spoke for Washington. These same eyebrows were raised even farther when Hugh Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, strode up to Sir Eric Drummond, league secretary, as soon as Paul-Boncour had brought down his gavel with a letter in which the United States government took upon itself to notify the league that it was "happy to associate itself with this effort at the establishment of peace."

Had Wilson's letter been received a half hour earlier, Sir Eric probably would have read it at the council table thus relieving Sir John of the rôle of White House spokesman. Norman Davis of the American disarmament conference delegation had informed Paul-Boncour of Washington's adhesion earlier in the day, and Sir John himself had conversed with Secretary Stimson over the telephone. Everybody knew this and so it is assumed that when Washington chose to let the British empire speak for it instead of having Sir Eric read Wilson's letter right out in meeting, it chose the lesser of two evils.

Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate, thanking the council meekly for its help, said that Nanking's understanding under the proposed truce is that the Chinese armies should withdraw from Shanghai and the Japanese armies embark.

U. S. MARINES IN SHANGHAI BATTLE MOB OF CHINESE

[Copyright: 1932: By the News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SHANGHAI, March 1 [Noon Tuesday.]—The first uprising among the refugees in the international settlement, which the authorities have been fearing, took place at 10 o'clock this morning, when several thousand Chinese attempted to rush the United States marines' station at the Markham road bridge. It became necessary to call out two more detachments of marines. Quiet was restored without a shot being fired, but free use was made of the clubbed butt-ends of the marines' guns. Five injured Chinese were taken to hospitals.

RUSSIA MASSES 100,000 TROOPS, JAPAN IS TOLD

Envoy Charges Soviets Make Poison Gas.

TOKIO, Feb. 29.—(AP)—The foreign office was informed today that 100,000 soviet Russian troops have been massed at Vladivostok in preparation for what is considered in Russia to be an inevitable conflict with Japan.

This information came from Japanese Consul Yamaguchi at Vladivostok, who reported that troops were stationed in that city and along the Ussuri railway near the border of North Manchuria.

In a telegram to the foreign office the consul asserted that an iodine factory at Olga Bay was being converted for the manufacture of poison gas and that fortifications at the entrance to Vladivostok harbor and on Russian island were being strengthened by new heavy guns and anti-aircraft batteries.

Building New Forts.

Basing his report on information which he said he received from a reliable foreign source, Yamaguchi reported that there were two army corps in the immediate vicinity of Vladivostok and that most of the troops were new arrivals from European Russia.

Munitions, foodstuffs, and military supplies of all kinds were being brought in day and night, he said, and three new ports were under construction at Sedanka, on Amur bay near Vladivostok.

The consul informed the foreign office that he had been told the Russians considered a Russo-Japanese clash to be inevitable—if not over Manchuria then over the fisheries question.

Red Youths Patrol Railway.

He reported that the principal troop concentrations were at Radolnaya, Ugolnaya, and Shkotova, north of Vladivostok, and in the Possiet bay district to the south. Communist youth organizations, he said, were helping to patrol the Ussuri railway.

Neither the foreign office nor the war office expressed any concern over the reported massing of Russian troops. A war office spokesman said that for some time it had been known that the soviet was concentrating its military forces.

CHINA TO LAUNCH WARFARE AGAINST NEW MANCHURIA

NANKING, China, March 1 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The government of China decided today to launch a punitive expedition against the new Manchurian-Mongolian state established under Japanese auspices. The foreign affairs commission, which reached this decision, also determined to resume diplomatic relations with the soviet government, which were broken off in 1929, when the Chinese and the Russians were fighting in north Manchuria.

Since the Sino-Japanese conflict started, Sept. 18, 1931, the Japanese have achieved domination over all Manchuria and parts of Mongolia. With the assistance of Japanese advisers, a government has been constituted to administer this territory. Chinese officials and military men, some of whom originally opposed the Japanese, have been brought into this government, which is to be headed by Henry Pu-Yi, the former boy emperor of China.

A diplomatic controversy developed between Russia and Japan during the last few days over Japanese military activity to suppress a rebellious movement against the new state. Latest dispatches from the far east reported the concentration of 100,000 soviet soldiers in the vicinity of Vladivostok and reported also the collapse of the rebellion against Manchuria, led by Gen. Ting Chao.

$50,000,000 U. S. LOAN REPORTED MADE TO CHINA

TOKIO, Feb. 29.—(AP)—Consul General Kuramatsu Murai telegraphed the foreign office from Shanghai today that an unconfirmed report emanating from Chinese sources there said Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese dictator, visited Shanghai secretly a short time ago to sign a contract with unnamed American interests for a $50,000,000 loan to the Chinese government. Sixty per cent of the loan would go for munitions and other military supplies, the report said. The consul general said he did not believe the report.

Bankers Minimize Report.

New York, Feb. 29.—(AP)—New York banking circles today were without information concerning a reported $50,000,000 American loan to China. Prospects of such an accommodation, even if overtures were made, were regarded as so remote as to be virtually nonexistent and bankers dismissed the rumor as "absurd." Several weeks ago it was asserted that banks here would not be interested in entertaining loan proposals to either China or Japan and it was pointed out that that position still prevailed.

Aviation Notes

A general reduction in passenger rates was announced yesterday by the American Airways, Inc., making fares between Chicago and points in the southwest approximate six and one third cents a mile. The announcement was made by W. T. Studebaker, Chicago traffic manager, who stated that in addition to the fare reduction a general tightening of schedules would mean a saving of from 30 minutes to 12 hours to passengers. Two divisions of the system operating out of Chicago were consolidated yesterday, with Col. Halsey Donwoody in charge of the new division. The two divisions are Universal and Embry-Riddle and will form the Central division.

Contracts to ship all out of town orders by airplane were signed yesterday by officials of the C. W. Beu Floral company and the Century Air lines, Inc. The floral company ships approximately 22,000 bunches of cut flowers on special days and most of this will be carried by air express, it was said.

ARMIES IGNORE TALK OF PEACE; FIGHTING RAGES

Fresh Japanese Troops Launch Offensive.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

SHANGHAI, March 1.—[Tuesday.]—A new Japanese offensive over a long line from the Chapei section of Shanghai and north to Kiangwan shoved aside talk today of an imminent peace.

Fresh Japanese troops poured ashore for 36 hours. They received their baptism of fire on the front when the attack was launched at 8:30 a. m., against tenacious Chinese still holding their positions with a scorching defense.

Japanese artillery, bombing planes, and machine guns carried the brunt of battle while infantrymen kept their rifles hot, but they stayed within their entrenched positions. The Japanese indicated that they planned to use a new and modern implement of warfare when aviators laid smoke screens over their Whangpoo flying field in a test of their devices.

12,000 Soldiers Land.

Twelve thousand more Nipponese soldiers came ashore today at a village called Chilingkow, slightly northwest of Liuho, on the south bank of the Yangtze river, 15 miles above Woosung, said the Rengo [Japanese] News agency's correspondent.

Chinese soldiers fled before their advance, the newcomers said, and they left Chilingkow in flames.

Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa, who has been expected to become commander in chief of the Japanese forces here, also was somewhere about, newly arrived on a cruiser. His staff landed at Woosung, at the confluence of the Yangtze and the Whangpoo, 16 miles below Shanghai.

Officers said the general debarked at another undivulged spot. Headquarters at the Kiangwan race course said he was expected to arrive there shortly.

No Knowledge of Truce.

At the same time the Japanese said they had no knowledge of negotiations at Geneva for an armistice.

A few hundred other Japanese soldiers stepped ashore from a transport at Woosung. Heavy artillery and horses came with them in large numbers.

The Chinese held their lines on the big front from Chapei to Woosung. Their machine gunners and riflemen kept up a running fire against the enemy, but there was only slight action from the Chinese big guns.

Japanese military headquarters were moved from a spot northeast of Kiangwan into the race course, placing Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, present commander of the expeditionary force, in a more central position to direct the greatly broadened attack that broke loose after the morning fogs lifted.

Use Smoke Screens.

Long tubes of smoke producing material shot thick rolls of fumes along the ground around Woosung as the Japanese apparently planned to envelop the Chapei and Kiangwan fronts with artificial clouds.

A visit to Japanese headquarters revealed great activity.

Reports of the Japanese landing near Liuho were surprising to observers here, who expected them to meet with difficulty at that point.

The Yangtze there is shallow. Ships of deep draft lie off shore at least a mile, while even small barges which might be used to land men were thought likely to scrape the sands that form vast bars thereabouts.

Face Bitter Opposition.

Furthermore, the Liuho community for days has been heavily armed and entrenched against the fear of just such a Japanese landing. Persons familiar with Liuho expressed a belief that if the Japanese were landing there they were destined to face sharp opposition from the moment they approached the shores, where Chinese rifles and machine guns awaited them.

From Liuho, which is 20 miles north of Shanghai, the entire countryside to the south into Shanghai was a maze of trenches alive with Chinese troops.

The American Seventh-Day Baptist mission, with headquarters at Ashaway, R. I., has a hospital at Liuho. The staff of several American men and women left two weeks ago for Shanghai. The hospital continued to operate under Chinese direction.

Chinese Attack in Chapei.

The first fighting today began at 2 a. m., when a wave of Chinese infantrymen swept across Chapei and by desperate fighting broken down the Japanese defenses in a surprise attack.

The Japanese called for assistance from their big guns and soon blasting shells stopped the assaulting infantrymen.

Then the Japanese re-formed their lines and put on a counter attack, in which they recovered most of the ground they had lost. The Chinese, however, held on to the Paitse bridge, north of Chapei. It was the fourth time they had taken the bridge since the fighting started. They armed it with machine guns and appeared ready to fight it out all day.

Japs Capture Cemetery.

In the fighting yesterday Japanese command announced that they captured a cemetery west of Hongkew Park and occupied positions near the American owned Southern Baptist Mission hospital.

The Baptist mission came in for additional damage when a shell tore a hole through the wall of one of the school buildings. The property, owned by the Southern Baptist church of Richmond, Va., has been damaged several times previously and on each occasion a protest has been made by American authorities.

HOME OF CHINESE PREMIER BOMBED; ESCAPES INJURY

SHANGHAI, Feb. 29.—(AP)—Police reported today that there had been a heavy explosion, apparently caused by a bomb, last night at the home of Sun Fo, premier of China.

Sun Fo and his wife were asleep, but they were not injured. Police said they had not been able to learn whether the bomb had been tossed into the garden or planted in the house.

GENERAL DEFYING JAPS VETERAN OF 170 CAMPAIGNS

Tsai Has Won Every War He's Been In.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 29.—Gen. Tsai Ting-kai, youthful and scholarly commander of China's 19th route army, is a veteran of 170 military campaigns, although he is only 39 years old.

Several years ago, in a public statement, Gen. Tsai said:

"These are my enemies: Communists, Chinese militarists, and Japanese imperialists."

Gen. Tsai has battled communists and won; he has met Chinese militarists and won; today at Shanghai he is facing the Japanese army confidently and predicts that he will win again—"in principle."

The young general was born in 1893 in the sunny province of Kwangtung, in southern China, and decided early to become a soldier. After attending elementary middle schools he became a student at Wuchow Military academy. He is the son of an obscure scholar and his early home influence has left an indelible stamp upon him.

There is nothing hard boiled or coarse about this "war lord." He is mild mannered, soft spoken, even almost shy, with delicate features and fine hands, one who works with his brain rather than with a bludgeon. He has no political ambitions and has turned down all offers of political honors with the remark:

"I don't wish to take advantage of military success to gain a job for which I am not fitted."

Rules Army with Firm Hand.

Nevertheless, Gen. Tsai is not lacking in firmness and he visits a swift and severe punishment on those of his soldiers who are guilty of infractions of the rules he has laid down. Six offenses are punishable by death in Gen. Tsai's army in time of war. They are looting, starting rumors designed to disrupt morale, endangering the lives and property of foreigners, gambling, cowardice, and laxity in the performance of duty.

Gen. Tsai is temperate and demands temperance of his men. Drinking samshu, the favorite Chinese intoxicant, is barred.

He is very popular with his men and his popularity is enhanced by his frequent visits to the front line. He likes to consider himself "one of the men." He dresses as simply as the humblest private soldier, scorning all gold braid and decorations.

Rise in Army Rapid.

The rise of the scholarly young officer was rapid from the time he joined the First division of the Cantonese army under Gen. Cheng Ming-Chu in 1914. He was quickly made a vice commander of the Second brigade and distinguished himself the next year in the suppression of the notorious insurgents, Chen Chuen-Min and Ling-Fu, at Canton.

For the next 17 years, up to the beginning of the present Sino-Japanese hostilities here, he was engaged almost constantly by the central government in keeping bandits, communists, and war lords under control. His campaigns have carried him to all corners of China. In 1926 he led the Cantonese advance into Honan province against the army of Wu Pei-Fu.

The task of suppressing the communistic régime at Canton in the winter of 1927 proved child's play to Gen. Tsai.

In 1929 he turned southward and defended the Kwangtung province borders against bandits from Kiangsi. The national army was then reorganized and he was made commander general of the Sixtieth division and vice commander of the Nineteenth army, which titles he now holds.

RUSH NEARLY ALL OF U. S. WARSHIPS TO PACIFIC OCEAN

Fleet Will Take Part in Spring Maneuvers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—The navy department today issued orders which will place most of the warships of the United States fleet in the Pacific ocean for the March and April maneuvers in the San Pedro area.

The new orders send the training squadron of the scouting force and the special service squadron, a total of ten new cruisers and destroyers, to the Pacific where they will join the scouting force in defense of the San Pedro area of the Pacific coast from attack by the battle fleet which leaves Hawaii on March 8.

Speculate on Ship Movement.

The arrival of the two new squadrons off the Pacific coast will result in the concentration of the largest number of fighting ships in that area since 1925 when the United States fleet engaged in maneuvers off Australia. A total of 141 warships of all types, including battleships, aircraft carriers, 8 inch gun cruisers, destroyers, and submarines will participate in the test of the Pacific coast's defensive power.

Three units of the fleet, however, will not be present. These are the battleships New Mexico, Idaho, and Mississippi, now undergoing modernization. In the event of a national emergency, these important cogs of the fighting fleet would not be available before 1933.

The sending of the new units to the Pacific, coupled with the disclosure that all the battle force now at Hawaii was to be sent homeward despite the critical situation in the orient, caused considerable speculation. Officials denied, however, that the situation in the Shanghai area had anything to do with the former move.

Pratt Issues Orders.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, issued the orders sending the training squadron of the scouting force and the special service squadron to the Pacific to participate in the spring maneuvers. Ships of the two squadrons will join the "black" force which, under the command of Vice Admiral Willard, will resist an effort on the part of a "blue" force to seize a foothold on the Pacific coast. The "blue" force, consisting of units of the battle force, recently engaged in joint exercises with the army off Hawaii. This force, consisting of ten battleships and several auxiliaries, will sail from Hawaii about March 8.

Admiral Pratt said the new units had been ordered to the Pacific so that all warships would have the advantage of the training.

High administration officials discussed a possible truce between Japan and China. They also reasserted their predictions of last week that the United States would not enter into any general boycott against Japan.

CANAL READY FOR FLEET.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA, C. Z., Feb. 29.—The United States special service squadron's flagship, Memphis, as well as the destroyers Philip and Wickes, have been ordered to the Pacific. They are being relieved here by the survey ships, Nokomis and Hannibal.

Canal authorities are preparing to rush the remainder of the Atlantic scouting fleet now in eastern waters to the Pacific, having received orders that virtually everything has been ordered to the Pacific via the canal.

The Fifteenth naval district here, which is the skeleton force more or less of the foreign service, has been ordered to stand by in readiness to go west. It includes the minelayer Sciota and planes and submarines at Coco Solo.

In recent war games more than 100 naval planes flew from the United States to Coco Solo and from there to San Diego, and it is believed that the planes here will follow this route to California and from there will fly to Hawaii.

MME. SUN YAT SEN.
[Wide World Photo.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 29.—(AP)—Mme. Sun Yat Sen, widow of the father of the Chinese republic, who has been busy with relief work ever since the Shanghai conflict started, suffered a nervous breakdown today.

With numerous other Chinese women, she has been assisting in caring for the wounded and for refugees from the war torn areas.

Almost 4,000 patients, most of them soldiers, are being cared for in the 33 temporary hospitals that have been organized this month by the Chinese Red Cross. Dr. R. S. Lyman, formerly of Hartford, Conn., is directing the work. Chinese physicians declare that Japanese aviators, who swoop low and open up with the machine guns, have been impeding the work of searching the battle fields for the wounded.

HAND THAT ROCKS CRADLE RULES 3 CITIES FOR A DAY

Men Take Back Seat for Leap Year Rights.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Women of Aurora, Joliet and Morris exercised their time honored leap year day rights in another direction besides that of romance yesterday. They took up city government to prove to the opposite sex that they could conduct the affairs of their home towns without help from men. The men gave way and for one day the word of woman was law in the three municipalities.

For the first time in the history of Joliet the city council, scheduled to meet at 10 a. m., actually met at 10 a. m., with every [pro tem] member in her seat. Mrs. Jane A. Shreeve, who left her real estate office for the day to act as mayor, had adjourned the council before most of the real members arrived as witnesses.

The acting Joliet police magistrate, Mrs. F. C. H. Arentz, president of the Joliet Woman's club, imposed fines of $3 each on 30 offenders charged with intoxication, disorderly conduct and speeding.

Aurora Women Police City.

The Aurora women who left their typewriters, drug store counters, law offices and, in a few instances, their kitchen sinks, to show the public their efficiency, were equally serious about it. They cleaned the streets, inspected plumbing, patroled police beats and adopted numerous resolutions in council meeting.

Only one of the many bouquets of flowers and boxes of candy which filled the mayor's office was sent by a man, the lady mayor said, adding that she was thinking of more important things than romance.

"Leap year rights for women have progressed," said the mayor, Miss Mildred Pratt, 35 years old, president of the Business and Professional Women's club and a secretary to the regular commissioner of accounts and finances. "Taking a part in city government and public life is certainly an advancement over marriage."

Police Chief Hunts a Hubby.

But the dark eyed chief of police for the day, Miss Dorothy Ward, 22 years old, employed in the credit bureau of the Merchants' association, said she thought it took as much intelligence to be a good wife and mother as to be a chief of police. If she found a likely matrimonial prospect, she indicated, she would put him under arrest and lead him to the altar.

Meanwhile Miss Ruth Cole, 22 years old, left her job in a drug store to pose for pictures dressed in the fire chief's hat and seated on the biggest fire truck in Aurora with a bevy of five other girls. The regular firemen remained on duty in the central station, however, and quit playing pinochle to watch the spectacle.

Late in the day competition with men was forgotten by the women in the face of competition among themselves. Chief of Police Ward claimed as her prisoner, whom she "arrested" on the street, John Livingston, widely known aviator and No. 1 on Aurora's list of eligible bachelors. He was locked up and given bread and water by City Jailer Mildred McDowell.

Chief Ward, however, was reluctant to leave her prisoner in the jailer's charge. To make matters worse, Police Magistrate Florence Atkins, in a new spring suit, successfully insisted that he be placed on trial. He was charged with being a bachelor, pleaded guilty, and was promptly proposed to by the magistrate.

"Your honor is beautiful, but I'll have to maintain my plea of guilty," he said.

"Then I fine you in accordance with an old leap year custom that when a man refuses a girl's proposal of marriage he must buy her a new silk dress."

The prisoner was released and purchased the dress—which fit.

Bachelors Fined in Morris.

In Morris, Mrs. Robert Decamp, acting as mayor, issued orders to spare no bachelor. The women police hauled them in off the streets and they were fined $1 each for living in an unwed state, the money to go to unemployed families.

Only one protest was registered in the three towns. A soft drink parlor in Aurora displayed this window sign in chalk: "The Hand That Rocks the Cradle Doesn't Rule here."

COUNTY'S MARRIAGE COURT HITS SLUMP ON LEAP YEAR DAY

The birth rate kept up to normal yesterday despite the bad birthday breaks in store for youngsters born on February's extra day, but in the marriage court at the county building business went into a decline.

Ordinarily at least thirty couples appear in the court on a Monday and insist upon being married. Yesterday Judge Charles B. Adams of Canton, filling in this week on the marriage bench, found only a dozen couples ready to take the marriage leap on leap year day. Most of them appeared to be shyly happy, and if the women had popped the question they were keeping that fact to themselves.

The first couple to be married was Albert Mortinsen, 21 years old, of 3247 Elston avenue, and Harriet Boyd, 20 years old, of 3078 North Troy street. Mortinsen said he had proposed four times and Harriet finally accepted him yesterday.

All over the city leap year babies were arriving, oblivious to the fact that their first birthday is four years distant. The Cook county hospital boasted six new babies before 10 a. m.

NEGRO RUNS WILD, STABS 2, CHARGES POLICEMAN, SHOT

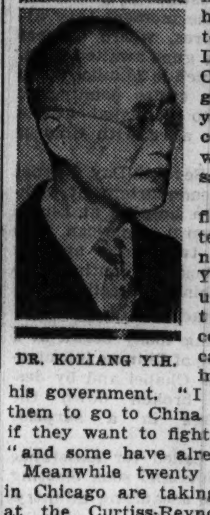
Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 29.—(AP)—A Negro butler at the Palm Beach winter home of A. T. Hardy of New York can amuck with a knife and a broken milk bottle today and seriously stabbed Capt. George Sheaf, master of the Hardy yacht, and a Negro maid.

A policeman finally shot and wounded the butler whose name was given as Chester Starks.

Starks was found by a policeman in a clump of bushes at the rear of the house. He was only half clothed and was reading a Bible.

The butler charged the policeman with a knife and was shot in the hip and arm. He was taken to a hospital and placed under heavy guard.

500 IN CHICAGO AREA OFFER TO SERVE CHINESE



DR. KOLIANG YIH.

More than 500 soldiers of fortune, world war veterans and unemployed in Chicago and nearby cities have volunteered to fight for China. Dr. Koliang Yih, Chinese consul general, revealed yesterday. "They come from all walks of life," said Dr. Yih.

Despite the flood of volunteers for the Chinese cause, Dr. Yih said, he is unable to offer them any encouragement because of lack of instruction from his government. "I can only advise them to go to China and enlist there if they want to fight," said Dr. Yih, "and some have already done so."

Meanwhile twenty Chinese youths in Chicago are taking flying lessons at the Curtiss-Reynolds airport in Glen View and at the ground school, 1338 South Michigan avenue.

Yoshio Muto, Japanese consul to Chicago, in a speech before members of the Junior Association of Commerce in the Hotel Sherman yesterday, charged that the present activities of the Japanese troops in Manchuria and Shanghai are directed by the "sheer necessity of circumstances."

71 Year Old Physician Found Guilty of Perjury

Dr. Otto Schukat, 2126 Clifton avenue, 71 year old physician, was found guilty of perjury yesterday in the court of Federal Judge John P. Barnes. He was sentenced to a year and a day in the penitentiary and fined $490. Testimony showed that Dr. Schukat furnished an affidavit in 1929 to prove that Clarence Chrysler, a war veteran, had tuberculosis in 1924. On this affidavit Chrysler received $3,500 from the government, and paid the doctor $500 for his services. It was shown that the affidavit was not true, and Dr. Schukat pleaded guilty half way through the trial.

NAVY SILENT AS NEW RAPE CASE STUNS HONOLULU

Chamber of Commerce Posts Special Reward.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Feb. 29.—Honolulu's reaction to its latest rape case, that of Mrs. Kathleen Hope, crippled wife of a machinist's mate in the United States navy who is away from home on fleet maneuvers, is quiet on the surface, but touches many angles in a tense situation.

The reorganized police department has been put to its first test. The Honolulu Chamber of Commerce is supporting the police and has offered a special reward.

Calls It "Sporadic Affair."

"I am disgusted and incensed," said Walter Dillingham, chairman of the Honolulu crime committee. "We feel, however, that we are doing everything that any community could and that this is a sporadic affair which does not indicate any basis for belief that the evil is getting beyond control.

"It is a peculiar ill fortune that this happened to a navy woman, as this man evidently was a robber with rape a secondary thought. He apparantly was looking for any unprotected home and committed his assault as a sort of punishment on the woman for disobeying his orders. It seems a pathological case, such as is likely to happen anywhere."

Naval circles are quiet, perhaps presaging some drastic action, as wives of 1,000 officers and men were left here as a result of the latest fleet orders. They objected strongly at the time Admiral Schofield issued the orders two weeks ago ago, but did not dare to make a public complaint.

Hawaii Split Politically.

It is felt now that their fears were justified and also that this rape justifies the attitude of the navy toward Honolulu. The situation has become almost political, with two parties, the navy and Hawaii, the first consisting of a group which feels that a sterner government is needed here, perhaps a commission form, while the second group is composed of those looking toward a more complete home government and eventually statehood.

The racial element has not entered the latest case yet, as Mrs. Hope is uncertain what her attacker's nationality is, although she thinks it "was some kind of oriental." At first she thought he was wavy haired, but now says that his hair was merely rumpled in his struggle with her.

Victim Aids Officers.

Mrs. Hope is quite calm after her experience and is aiding the officers all she can. Two suspects, one a paroled prisoner, and a Japanese, are held, and the homes of Mrs. Hope and of Mrs. D. W. Curry, the wife of a navy electrician who lives next door, are well guarded inside and out.

The peculiar irony of the assault is that Curry was on navy shore patrol duty Saturday night when the robber came to both homes. These houses have the same yard and are in a remote part of the city, five miles from town and near Waikiki beach. Window peepers and prowlers keep residents nervous in that section. Another navy man's wife had a peeper arrested last week.

The umpire of this entire situation, Seth Richardson of the department of justice, merely grins and says "I'll be damned."

His effort to find out whether the island needs a new kind of control will be influenced by police action and the court results of this case as well as the case involving Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue.

One suggestion made to him and which he considers interesting is for a territorial police department, somewhat on the order of the Canadian Northwest Mounted or the Texas Rangers. A few of the ablest men would be imported and would work with the native police, according to the proposal.

Husband to Return Home.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 29.—(AP)—J. H. Hope, a sailor whose wife reported in Honolulu that she had been attacked by an oriental, will arrive here tomorrow morning on his ship, the submarine S-28. Arrangements were completed today for him to return immediately to the Hawaiian islands aboard a commercial vessel.

WALSH ESTATE BEQUEATHED TO HER DAUGHTER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, estranged wife of Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, was named today as chief beneficiary of the estate of her mother, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, who died several days ago. The will of Mrs. Walsh, widow of the late Thomas F. Walsh, millionaire Colorado mining magnate, was filed for probate today, but the value of the estate will not be known until a petition for probate is filed.

The document was executed June 22, 1928, and modified by a codicil of November, 1928. It gives her personal effects to her daughter and provides legacies of $1,000 to Mrs. John Allen Dougherty and a nephew, Monroe Lee of Hollywood, Cal.

Miss Virginia Mott of Leesburg, Va., is to have $600 and Miss Lillian Whiting of Boston $200.

The remaining estate is left to Mrs. McLean with the request that she provide certain life annuities. Frances Osborne, Coronado Beach, is to receive an income of $150 a month; Jennie Krusemark of Los Angeles, $100 a month, and Mrs. Alice Campbell of Denver $50 per month. By the codicil, Mrs. Dougherty is to have an annuity of $150 per month in addition to the $1,000 bequest of the will.

HOOVER DEMANDS MORE LAWS TO DRY UP CAPITAL

Asks Congress to Revise Bankruptcy Act.

United States Supreme court to prescribe uniform rules of practice and procedure in criminal cases for all proceedings after verdicts in the district courts and for the Circuit Court of Appeals, so as to shorten the time between conviction of prisoners and their incarceration in federal penitentiaries.

2. Laws permitting an accused person to waive the requirement of indictment by grand jury when the accused admits his guilt.

3. Legislation making valid all grand jury indictments where at least twelve eligible grand jurors vote for indictment, regardless of whether ineligible jurors voted.

4. Passing of legislation limiting the time for making motions to quash indictments because of disqualifications of grand jurors.

5. Legislation enabling the attorney general to forego prosecution of children in the federal courts and to return them to state authorities to be dealt with by juvenile courts and other state agencies.

6. Legislation supplementing the prohibition law for the District of Columbia.

7. Amendment of the bankruptcy laws to give debtors protection of the courts in certain cases, to remove cumbersome sections of the bankruptcy laws, to require examination of every bankrupt by a responsible official and numerous other reforms.

8. Legislation creating additional judgships and federal court personnel to relieve congestion.

Criminal Cases Increase.

The President disclosed that the number of civil and criminal cases in the federal courts have shown a big increase during the last few years. He pointed to an increased federal prison population as an indication of industry on the part of enforcement officers. In this connection he disclosed the fact that the number of federal prisoners now held under some form of federal restraint almost has doubled since 1928.

The total number of prisoners under some form of federal restraint was 39,900 on June 30, 1931, as compared with 22,600 on June 30, 1928.

In discussing the growth of the prison population, President Hoover made no mention of the effects of prohibition on the number of federal arrests. His only indirect reference came when he said that the extent of crime "is by no means confined to the violation of new criminal laws." Evidently referring to the dry laws.

"Criminal cases commenced have increased from 1928 to 1931, but the number pending shows a decrease from 30,400 at the end of 1928 to 27,900 at the end of 1931," the President said. "In 1931 alone 4,000 more criminal cases were disposed of than commenced, showing a definite gain in this field.

"The results attained show a greater percentage of convictions and a lower ratio of dismissals and acquittals. In 1928 78.3 per cent of criminal cases terminated were by verdict and plea of guilty, while in 1931 this ratio had increased to 84.2 per cent. In 1928 21.7 per cent of criminal cases were terminated by dismissal or acquittal, while in 1931 this figure had fallen to 15.8 per cent.

"Final results of the more effective work of the federal agencies for enforcement of criminal laws are evidenced by increase of prisoners. The number of federal convicts in prison institutions and on parole increased from 19,110 at the end of 1928 to 27,871 on June 30, 1931. During the same period the number on probation increased from 3,500 to 12,000."

CAPONE CONVICTION SCARES GAMBLERS INTO PAYING TAXES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—The conviction of Al Capone as an income tax violator prompted hundreds of other gangsters and law violators to file returns with the treasury department, Commissioner of Internal Revenue David Burnet disclosed tonight.

"In one collection district, where this phase of the situation was looked into," he said, "it was apparent this activity had pricked the conscience of many taxpayers who had failed to file returns or to make honest returns. Since the publicity given the Capone case, the government income from taxes has been increased in this district by hundreds of thousands of dollars. It came from delinquent and amended returns from taxpayers, many of whom were engaged in gambling and other illegal businesses."

She Wins at Poker; He Pokes Her; So She Sues

Mrs. Dorothy Parsons, 4137 Drexel boulevard, knows her poker better than her husband, Kermit, 716 Oakwood boulevard, she alleged in a bill for divorce filed yesterday in the Circuit court. When she was able to top his full house with a straight flush he became angry last Jan. 25, she charged. When he dropped out of another hand after her successive raises and then discovered that she had bluffed him with a pair of deuces, he slapped her and knocked her across the room, her bill declared.

Frances Willard Hospital Named in Foreclosure Suit

The Francis Willard National Temperance hospital yesterday was named defendant in a foreclosure suit filed in the Superior court by Cyrus F. Campe, successor trustee of the Garfield State bank, which closed last Aug. 12. The bill alleged that the hospital had defaulted in the retirement of $11,000 worth of first mortgage bonds due last Oct. 1, and had failed to pay interest on $396,000 of bonds still unmatured. The bank, according to the bill, held $75,000 worth of the bonds.

EXPECT CAPONE TO WAIT IN JAIL A MONTH LONGER

Al Capone, it appeared yesterday, will remain in the county jail for at least another month before being taken to a federal penitentiary to serve his eleven year term for income tax dodging.

United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and his assistants had been considering the propriety of requesting the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which on Saturday affirmed Capone's conviction, to issue a mandate for the gangster's immediate transfer to the penitentiary. But after a conference late yesterday, Mr. Johnson issued the following statement:

"Government's counsel do not expect to take any action until defendant's counsel have made clear their course."

This course was made clear by Attorney Michael Ahern, who said he would file a petition for a rehearing within the twenty days he is allowed by the Circuit court. District Attorney Johnson was not officially apprised of this determination, but in view of the defense plans it was regarded as unlikely that the prosecution would take any action until after the motion for a rehearing was acted upon.

Ten Perish in Flames at Swedish Home for Aged

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 29.—(AP)—Nine aged inmates and one boy employe were suffocated to death today in a fire at a home for the aged at Svaerdsjoe, Sweden.

GILDAY'S TRIAL FOR SHOOTING MAY BE DELAYED

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Jones, attempt to commit burglary, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas Taylor Jr.

Amos Cole, Robert Johnson and Felman Taylor, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in the Pontiac reformatory; Frank Brigando, John Mundo, Sam Rosen and Conrad Lenzo, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the Pontiac reformatory; Joseph Stasiak and Joseph Siercynski, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the Pontiac reformatory; and John Stroud, assault to murder, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Although the trial of Daniel L. Gilday, gun toting reformer and superintendent of the Englewood Law and Order league, is scheduled to start today before Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court, a change of attorneys may result in a delay. Gilday is charged with shooting Herman Knol, 17 years old, when the latter attempted to direct Gilday's wavering steps on the night of Nov. 29.

Attorney William Scott Stewart has been retained by Gilday. Gilday previously had pleaded not guilty and indicated that he would waive a jury trial. Attorney Stewart announced yesterday that the defense would ask for a jury trial today. In that event it is expected that the trial will be delayed for several weeks. Judge Fisher has been hearing only nonjury trials.

Attorney Stewart said he would move to suppress as evidence the moonshine whisky, star, and tear gas fountain pen that Gilday was carrying on the night of the shooting.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

PACIFISTS RUNNING AMUCK.

The great American sport of minding everybody's business but your own has the mobility of a bat in the gnat season. It's evidently a sport. Its addicts get more satisfaction out of it than they could out of an art or a profession. Thus there pops into being the "American Committee on the Far Eastern Crisis," a group with headquarters [Hotel Commodore, New York], letterheads, and a director [Raymond T. Rich]. Snappy work. Mr. Stimson may or may not feel relieved.

The immediate purpose of the committee is to threaten Japan with a boycott, to utilize economic measures to "bring nations to reason." This is proposed by President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, President Harry A. Garfield of Williams, President Livingston Farrand of Cornell, President Ernest Hopkins of Dartmouth, and President Alexander G. Ruthven of Michigan.

The advantages of a higher education are reflected in the cerebration of the heads of the institutions of higher learning. Probably not enough emphasis is put on football and too much on the lecture room. It would be worth while to try Eddie Casey as president of Harvard. The Ph. D.s, the Litt. D.s, and the D. D.s, assisted by directors extemporizing organizations by combinations of the ever ready little groups and big groups, propose to hustle the nation into a war whether it has a stake in one or not.

A boycott is more than a moral shudder. It is an abandonment of neutrality. It is the exact equivalent of presenting a bayonet at the throat of an opponent and demanding his surrender, with the difference that the threatened opponent is not deterred from reaching for his gun. It is a threat at his existence without being in itself an immediately constraining influence. It makes him just as mad as if his ports had been bombed without giving him immediate reason to know that resentment, resistance, and retaliation are out of his power. Incidentally, if a boycott were applied, without bringing war, it would make such a market for contraband as would delight some exporters in the boycotting nations while ruining others.

As between Japanese militarists and American pacifists it is difficult to pick the class which is most disturbing to the peace of the world, but easy to know which threatens the peace and security of the United States. It is composed of the Ph. D.s and the pacifists.

THE DOMESTIC SCENE IN THE PRIZE RING.

Willie Stribling [Young Stribling, meaning that he is younger than Mr. Stribling, his father, who works in his corner] was handed a blue ticket Friday night in the ring by Ernie Schaaf, a comer. Another old-young practitioner in one of the hardest professions apparently has neared the end of the short road which pugilists travel. The spectators gave one cheer for the winner and twenty for the loser. A hopelessly game battler was on his feet at the finish.

Ring fighting has been Willie Stribling's business almost from his infancy and he brought the business to its highest development as a family affair. The domestic note was touched in the profession years ago when Mrs. Fitzsimmons at the ringside encouraged her husband with shrill references to Mr. Corbett's slats. Mrs. Fitzsimmons was not aware at the time, nor was any one else, of what she was doing, in its fullest consequences. She was making prize fighting a polite profession and preparing it for state sanction, the milk fund benefits, the million dollar gate, the patronage of gentle ladies and a literary incumbency in the championship. A mother's prayer could follow a son in the business.

Our own Maxwell street Kingfish Levinsky has his sister as manager, but Willie Stribling's entourage consisted of his father, his mother, his wife, and his young son. The son already has the gloves on. They were put on before he was off the bottle and he may pick the great prize his father so narrowly missed.

THE RIGHT TO BE A FOOL.

State inspectors have been irritating the local followers of a love wave expert and healer who professes a mystic sovereignty over certain ailments. When the inspectors drop in to observe a love wave rolling out to cheer up a night mail air pilot, a lonely policeman, if such there be, or a street car conductor, the partisans show their resentment. John Law seems to think that the healer will step over into the unlicensed practice of medicine.

Our civilization has emphasized the custodial, the paternal or guardian functions of authority. Others have been built upon the theory of caveat emptor. Let the buyer beware. As in most affairs of life each of these doctrines can be overdone. The paternalistic system of authority tends to destroy individual competence by standing between the person and his foolishness and its consequences. It thus impairs the individual's judgment and common sense, his responsibility and obligation and ability to protect himself by making sensible decisions and selections. The other system is too rough on helpless members of society, children, for instance. Moreover, the complexities of modern life make it doubtful whether the prudent and intelligent person can protect himself at all times, can always detect, for instance, deleterious preservatives in food products. There must, however, be a middle course.

An adult should be allowed to make certain decisions for himself even if they bring a painful experience on him. If an adult is not seeking a physician but a love waver and knows he is getting a love wave for whatever ails him it is a question if society cannot better let him have his way rather than stand between him and the consequences. When the child is concerned it is obviously a different question, but the doctrine that a mature person should never have a chance to make a fool of himself is too far removed from the beneficent processes of nature to be sound public policy.

It is becoming the theory of American paternalism, illuminated by the radiant bureaucracy at Washington, that the only unqualified license a citizen has to be whatever kind of an idiot he wants to be is in the elections establishing the government which, thus established, is to keep him from being any other kind of an idiot.

ECONOMY PLEDGE.

Every candidate for congress in the coming election should be given the opportunity to give or refuse a definite pledge to work and vote for drastic retrenchment of federal expenditure. It may be admitted that pledges may be plausibly evaded, especially in a matter so indefinite as public economy. Even a clear mandate of law to which a legislator subscribes in taking the oath of office has been notoriously evaded, as in apportionment of representation in Illinois and elsewhere, and the economy pledge will have its validity only in the sincerity or sense of political expediency of the pledge giver.

Nevertheless, a pledge phrased as definitely as possible should be put before every candidate by representative bodies of his constituency. Whether enforceable in detail or not, they will emphatically indicate to our lawmakers that responsible citizenship is awake to the vital need, the paramount issue of public economy, and is determined to get it. At the present stage the public is face to face with the stubborn resistance of political and bureaucratic self-interest. It is a remarkable phenomenon in a nation supposed to be self-governing, but it will not be broken save by the maximum effort of the people's will.

RACKETEERING IN VETERAN RELIEF.

Representative Patman of Texas is preparing a bill for the issue of two billion two hundred million dollars in United States notes with which to pay off the remainder of the veterans' bonus certificates. About one billion four hundred million dollars already has been advanced on loans.

Mr. Patman says his measure has the support of representatives of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Disabled Veterans of the World War and will be enacted by an overwhelming majority over the President's veto.

We doubt it. That it has the approval of members of the Legion and other veterans' organizations we do not doubt. But there are men who would vote for any government handout to themselves. The men who support Patman's measure do not represent self-respecting veterans or veterans who have the intelligence to realize what the result of such a measure would be upon the nation. The measure will not pass unless congress goes loco, but if it is seriously pressed and not repudiated by responsible veteran organizations, by the Legion especially, it will react against all veterans' measures.

Veterans have been most loyally treated by the American people, who have been glad to show their gratitude substantially. Loans to the extent of nearly a billion and a half dollars. Special hospitals have been established for the care of those disabled. The amount spent last year alone for war service and relief was one-ninth of the entire sum expended by the government for these purposes since the beginning of relief in 1790, a hundred and forty years.

As for the veterans of the late war, only about three hundred thousand were in active service at the front. Less than two million were sent out of the country.

But racketeers are making use of public sentiment to back repeated exactions upon the American people allegedly in the cause of patriotism and in the interest of veterans. These exactions increase in size and recklessness as their justification diminishes. The veterans themselves should repudiate them, for they are injurious not only to the good name of the citizen soldier but to his own material welfare. These enormous sums cannot be piled upon the backs of the American people without serious consequences to the prosperity of the whole nation and therefore to the service men themselves.

COOK COUNTY RETRENCHES.

[The Peoria Transcript.]

The county board of Cook county grumbled and growled but finally voted to eliminate 499 county employés from the pay rolls on March 1. It is expected that this elimination will save a million dollars in the year ending March 1, 1933. A 15 per cent cut in salaries is also in effect, so that another million six hundred thousand will be saved during 1932. The combined savings, however, will not be enough, according to President Emmett Whealan of the board of commissioners. Cook county is broke as well as Chicago.

"Either you're going to make a business budget or you're going to quit!" Whealan shouted at the board members.

In many forms, similar statements are made throughout the country by harassed politicians and officeholders who know that tax revenues have declined with tragic speed and consequences. Cook county's experience is not unique. It merely represents Chicago's problems extended to the Chicago area without some of the Chicago bunk. County governments, as a rule, are more readily understood than city governments. The reason is not far to seek. County services are comparatively few. Municipal services are complex. In the counties fewer persons are involved and fewer services are considered part of the community life.

Thus, the troubles of Cook county are not bound up in fire protection, police protection, garbage collection, and street inspection. Cook county is poor. It can save money only by cutting off its employés. This it has done. Other counties may follow suit. Peoria county is running in the red.

IT WAS DAM NEAR TIME.

Melvin A. Traylor's friends have written a booklet about him to advance his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the presidency. As we read that little Mel was born in a humble log cabin on a hardscrabble farm in the hills of Kentucky, how he went barefooted and didn't have much in the way of clothes until he was almost grown, we are reminded of a story Opie Read used to tell. There was a man rode into a little town high up in the hills of Kentucky one night and was immediately aware that something most unusual was taking place. Men were running here and there and shouting: "Thar he goes, thar he goes; head him off before he gits to the mountens!" "Look out, now, he's doubling in his tracks; git him if he comes thisaway!" and "Thar he is now 'way up towards the big timber!" Then the stranger heard somebody shout: "Hyer come the coon dogs; put 'em on the trail; now, sic 'em, boys!"

The stranger turned to the one native around him who was standing still and said: "What's all the excitement? Are you lynching somebody?" "Nope," said the native, "that hain't hit. Squire Jefferson Griggsby's son Lee is twenty-one years old today, and we-all air a-runnin' 'im down to put clothes on him."

EIGHT HUNDRED AND FIFTY MILLION DOLLARS is the sum favored by the President for a power and immigration project in the Columbia river. And lots of us income tax payers can't imagine such a colossal sum as eight hundred and fifty millions of dollars. And, more than that, they never heard of the Columbia river. But, wherever it is, it must be awful long and wide and deep to be able to swallow all that money.

ADOLPH HITLER, the w. k. Fascist leader of Germany, asks in a letter to President von Hindenburg that the new election campaign be conducted without mud slinging. Oh, Herr Hitler, a political campaign without mud slinging! There is no such animal.

SECRETARY HYDE down in Washington protests the $132,500,000 passed by the Democratic house as a pork barrel stunt because he says the new auto roads would benefit only 35,000 people directly. Ah, more than that, Mr. Hyde. Think of our hundreds of thousands of hitch-hikers.

THE HOUSE PATENTS COMMITTEE, charging the dramatic critics of this great nation with "knowing nothing and ruining the legitimate theater by posing as know-it-alls," has invited the critics to come down to Washington and explain what the committee calls their destructive criticism. We hope the critics will go and that while they are down there they will write a few reviews of the performances given in the senate and house. They'd probably write something like this: "The performance was very dull, the jokes were a hundred years old, and none of the people on the stage seemed able to get their stuff across. It was one lousy show."

JAPAN EXPLAINED at Geneva yesterday that the present campaigns in China were "really punitive expeditions." Not exactly that; they seem to be rather more punytive than punitive.

SPEAKING OF WE THE PEOPLE of these United States, Cal Coolidge in his anti-hoarding letter yesterday said, "If they will not save themselves no one can save them." Maybe not, Cal; but you'd be surprised how many are willing to try—Gov. Roosevelt, Mr. Hoover, Mr. Garner, Mr. Borah, Gov. Ritchie, Mr. Smith, and oh, so many others! And, Calvin, don't you really think you might be able to save us yourself?

THE PUBLIC BE DAMNED.

The Library cannot buy new books. The magazines are gone,
But the tired staff, at wartime wage, gallantly carries on.
The janitors who run the schools get big pay for their labor,
The County Board that accomplishes nil is a great little money saver.
The License Bureau personnel is big and sleek and fat;
The City clerks, to count them all . . . one hasn't time for that.
BUT: "Let's fire the firemen, nurses, and cops!
Close the schools! Shut down the flops!
Picket property! Then they'll kick in!
Come on, fellows, let's begin!
What? Lower wages? Cut the costs? Say, maybe you think you're funny,
We'll raise the taxes and make 'em pay! The people are rotten with money!"

IT SEEMS A MELANCHOLY FACT that as soon as Secretary Stimson announced he would write no more notes to the Japanese they immediately made a truce with the Chinese. The Japs probably felt as we did, that if all the fun was to be taken out of the war, what was the use of going on with it?

BUT LISTEN NOW for the league of nations telling how it stopped the war. But it's more probable that the war stopped because the cunning little Japs grew quite tired of ramming their heads up against a stone wall.

AND ALSO the Japs probably ran out of money. Over here we find that it's pretty hard to carry on peace without money, let alone war. R. H. L.

TESTS FOR POOR CIRCULATION.

It is no longer necessary to take a patient's word for poor circulation, cold feet, susceptibility to drafts, and other symptoms of that great group of discomforts about which we talk so much and do so little. In times past when a patient went to a physician to pour out this line of woes, the doctor listened with a professional appearance of patience, but did little or nothing.

There are tests now through the use of which the physician can form a pretty good opinion as to how much of the symptoms are due to the natural "complainingness" of the patient, and how much is justified by demonstrable conditions. What is more important still, these tests make it possible for the physician to get needed information about the dangers of gangrene in diabetes, Buerger's disease, Raynaud's, and some others; also, as to where amputation should be done in these diseases, when amputation is necessary, and what are the conditions in milk-leg, phlebitis, varicose veins, and varicose ulcers.

These tests are several. Among them are skin tests with histamine, the use of the oscillometer and of a delicate surface thermometer, and the reactions to hot and cold baths. This story deals with only one of these—the histamine skin test.

Histamine is one of that group of about twenty amines that combine to make what we know as protein albumin. This substance is used for more than one test purpose. For instance, physicians use it to test the capacity of the stomach to secrete digestive juices. The skin test is made somewhat after the fashion of vaccination. Many people know the method of skin testing that is called the Shick test, others know the Dick test, and still others know how skin testing is done in hay fever, asthma, and nettlerash. The method of histamine testing is substantially the same as these.

By using this test on persons with Buerger's disease Dr. Geza De Takats has been able to amputate much lower down than he had planned before taking the test. In other cases he has been able to tell the patient that amputation was not necessary. Using the test, he has been able to advise diabetics as to how much danger they were in from gangrene and how strenuously they should carry out precautions to prevent it.

In varicose veins the circulation of the feet is very poor. The best proof of that is the frequency of varicose ulcers and the difficulty in curing these ulcers. The skin test is of service in guiding the physician in the service rendered in these cases.

These are matters that greatly interest physicians. The general run of people are more interested in learning certainly whether they have poor circulation, or is it that they only think they do?

SEVERAL CAUSES POSSIBLE.

B. B. B. P. writes: The condition of the wax in the ears of my 11 year old daughter does not seem to me to be a healthy one. It is dry and seems to fall out in flakes not unlike tissue paper. The hearing is apparently normal, and there are no other unusual symptoms about the ear, nose, or throat that I can detect. Is this a normal, healthy condition?

REPLY:

The skin lining the external ear canal is subject to several diseases. It may be the seat of eczema, psoriasis; or yeasts, molds, and fungi may grow on it.

If there are no symptoms other than those you give, there is probably no reason for doing anything.

TRAINING IS NEEDED.

Mrs. T. writes: Could you tell me why a child of 4 years cries all day long? I have tried spanking him, but it does not seem to do any good. He plays out of doors every day. He eats and sleeps well.

REPLY:

This child should have a thorough physical examination, unless this has been attended to. Probably there is nothing physically wrong. If so, the problem is one of behavior and the need is for training. Probably what is needed is that the child be left alone. If no one listens when he cries he will stop.

NONE KNOWS THE CURE.

S. E. H. writes: What is the cause of the skin disease known as ichthyosis? Is it readily curable, especially in the less severe stages?

REPLY:

Ichthyosis goes by the name of "fish skin." It is a chronic disease. No one knows what causes it or how it can be cured.

B. S. writes: Please print this for the benefit of sufferers from winter itch, bath itch, or any burning or redness of the skin:

4 ounces glycerin.
2 ounces rose water.
2 ounces camphor water.
10 to 12 drops carbolic acid.

TERMINATING LEASE.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have leased an apartment for one year and intend to vacate at the expiration of the lease. However, I should like to know how many days' notice [30 or 60 days] are required before the lease expires. Does this notice need to be written or is verbal notice sufficient? 3. Does the old lease need to be canceled on moving and are there any chances of lessor holding one for another year? A. R.

Sec. 12 of the Illinois landlord and tenant act provides: "When the tenancy is for a certain period and the term expires by the terms of the lease, the tenant is then bound to surrender possession and no notice to quit or demand of possession is necessary." Hence, whenever either party wishes to be in a position to count on the ensuing year, it is proper for him to ask the other party for an agreement and if it is refused to make other arrangements. If the lease contains an express renewal clause, the effect will depend on the wording.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

I. O. U.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can an I. O. U. written on paper not witnessed five years ago be collected by law? 2. Does this I. O. U. mean the same as a note? 3. If it can be collected by law, can you charge interest on same? F. M.

1. The limitation period on written contracts is ten years
2. It is similar but not identical.
3. The maximum that can be stipulated for by contract is 7 per cent per annum in ordinary cases. In absence of agreement as to interest 5 per cent is allowed after due on notes or other instruments in writing, on money loaned, on accounts settled, on money received to use of another and retained without owner's knowledge, on money withheld by an unreasonable and vexatious delay, and on judgments. Pawnbrokers may charge 3 per cent per month, and licensees of state board of trade and commerce may charge 3½ per cent per month on loans of $300 or less. An agreement to pay more than the legal rate is usurious and only the principal can be collected. Under 1929 statute the 7 per cent limit does not apply to collateral loans exceeding $5,000.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

LONDON, Aug. 17.—A Shanghai dispatch says the Japanese fleet which has been searching for the Chinese squadron came in sight of it on Aug. 15 and bore down upon it. The Chinese admiral, however, declined to give battle and steamed into a harbor northwest of Chefoo. The Japanese made no attempt to attack Chefoo, but the vessels of the fleet are cruising off that port. Another dispatch from Shanghai says that the Japanese government has authorized a loan of $50,000,000. Torpedoes will be laid at the entrance of Tokio and Nagasaki harbors early next week.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—A Seoul dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette says that a remarkable fact was revealed upon the occasion of the battle between the Chinese and Japanese troops at Asan when the Chinese were defeated. A number of Corean soldiers, by special order of the king of Corea, accompanied the Japanese troops. Some of the Coreans fled when the fighting began, but the majority fought with the greatest bravery. According to this dispatch, this has high political significance as showing the king of Corea sides with Japan.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—A Shanghai dispatch says that it is reported that instead of a large Chinese army, only a small force was routed by the Japanese in the battle at Asan. The remainder of the army, it is said, has gone north to join the northern forces. Skirmishes are reported to have taken place at Pingyang and a great battle is expected to be fought there shortly.

SHICEI-JEN, Corea, Aug. 3.—[Delayed.]—A bloody battle has just been fought at Songhwan and won by the Japanese. This is the headquarters of the Japanese general Oshimi. The Chinese had strong fortifications at Songhwan and 17,000 troops are said to be stationed there.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 1, 1904.

ST. PETERSBURG.—A report throughout the city is that the Japanese have made a great combined attack by sea and land on Port Arthur, that the battle is still going on and that there have been further naval losses.

YINKOW.—Fifteen Japanese warships appeared at Port Arthur this morning and opened a furious bombardment. The Russian crusers Novik, Askold and the Bayan, with four torpedo boats, steamed out to meet the attack but were forced to retire. The Askold was in a sinking condition and the Novik badly damaged. After two hours' bombardment the Japanese fleet withdrew in perfect order.

LONDON.—The report of the naval engagement at Port Arthur is significant of one thing. It says that the Russian cruisers, Askold, Novik and Bayan came out of the harbor to meet the Japanese fleet. Every report of naval operations at Port Arthur within the last ten days refers to these cruisers. No mention is made of three big battleships known to be at Port Arthur and not known to have been injured in any of the five engagements. This leads naval experts to suspect that the Japanese succeeded in partly blockading the narrow entrance to the harbor.

ST. PETERSBURG.—Lieut. Gen. Carl Stoessell, commander of the garrison at Port Arthur, practically concedes that Port Arthur is invested by land and sea. He admits that Port Arthur is in desperate straits.

SEOUL.—Japan's rule in the Corean government is now supreme. Only supporters of Japan are in the cabinet. The complexion of the government has completely changed and all Corean officials presumed to be Russophiles have received intimation that their presence is undesirable.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 1, 1916.

CHICAGO.—Seven of the "Rebel Nine" aldermen triumphed over the mayor in yesterday's bitter primary battle. Two of them, Ald. N. A. Stern [3d] and Frank Ray [13th], were defeated. The seven who won are Dr. Willis O. Nance [6th], John N. Kimball [7th], John Kjellander [23d], Frank Link [25th], Oliver Watson [27th], N. J. Dempsey [28th], and George Pretzel [26th]. Ald. John Toman, wet leader in the council, declared the result is a stinging repudiation of the mayor's Sunday closing policy. The mayor lost his own ward. In the Democratic primary the Sullivan regulars cleaned up all over the city where the issue was raised definitely as between the Sullivan faction and the Harrison-Dunne combination.

LONDON.—The German crown prince has thrown his army into a sudden attack on the French lines to the east and southeast of Verdun and has made some gains there. The official report in Berlin says the Germans have captured Manhueller and Champlon, which are a few miles to the southeast of Verdun. The Berlin report also said German troops captured a small armored works northwest of Douaumont. Germans also made new attacks in the Champagne region, where, the French war office admits, they penetrated French first line trenches at several points. Verdun itself is under bombardment. Paris reports say that twenty-one persons of the civilian population were killed by shells which fell in the city. The advances of the Germans were made only by terrible sacrifices in life. More than 45,000 Germans have been killed in the assault on the Verdun positions, according to a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam.

NOTES OR SHIPS?

Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 26.—The rôle of peacemaker has always been a dangerous one. Generally the peacemaker gets the worst of the fight and very often he deserves it. That is what will happen to the U. S. A. in China if we don't watch out, and if Mr. Stimson does not quit writing notes.

The Japanese are a high strung people and we have affronted them more than once. All the more reason why we should keep hands off in the Manchurian row, even though the Japanese are plainly in the wrong. The American people will not tolerate being inveigled into another war. We have been fools long enough. We started it at the Washington conference in 1922 when we scrapped the two finest battleships this country had ever built, though it would have cost less to finish them than to scrap them.

We did this because we were hoodwinked by England. President Harding was easily hoodwinked. Any one with an ounce of red blood in his veins or an ounce of common sense in his head who saw those wonderful ships could not but exclaim at the folly of it.

Ever since the Washington treaty we have been tangling ourselves up in pacts and notes, meddling in European affairs, assuming an attitude even in the orient of "If the Almighty does not guide you, the United States will." Worst of all, we have been steadily scuttling our navy while wasting billions of dollars on so-called prohibition.

The first thing this country ought to do is to stop up that prohibition hole down which our much needed dollars are being poured and use those dollars to set our men to work to build ships.

BEDTIME STORY.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—About thirty-five years ago my wife accused me quite often of snoring. One night in the wee small hours I woke up and could not get to sleep. Then my wife commenced to snore and it kept getting louder, and I thought, go to it, old gal; see if you can make the grade. Finally she gave a double snore that woke her up. She gave me a poke in my ribs with her elbow, with a "Johnny, turn over on your side and quit snoring."

I laughed and told her what had happened. From that night I never snored. If I did I never got a jab in my ribs for it. J. E. MILLER.

WHICH COMMISSAR?

Chicago, Feb. 12.—I read in Monday morning's TRIBUNE about the Moscow soviet health authorities seeking suggestions how to kill bed bugs. I know of two sure ways, but don't know where to send them. I will be grateful for some information. NELLIE RYAN.

THE NEEDY EMPLOYED.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—You can imagine with what consternation I read that Gov. Emmerson has released $20,000,000 for the relief of the needy unemployed and then allowed the legislature to recess without doing anything for the relief of the needy employed, notably the teachers. ELEANOR W. MOSSMAN.

GEOGRAPHICAL CONSIDERATIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—It should be obvious to all that of all departments of our government the one where the caliber of personnel counts the most and political or geographical balance the least is our federal Supreme court. This talk of geographical representation is sheer nonsense, as is amply shown by the fact that in the midwestern state Supreme courts, where geographical balance is carried to absurd extremes, there is not a single judge who in ability, achievement, character, or reputation for scholarship, honesty, and integrity can approach within striking distance of Benjamin Cardozo. Our geographical balance of power is preserved in congress. Let us strike a balance in our courts between liberalism and conservatism and stop there without examining creed, prejudice, politics, or domicile of candidates for this high office. FRANK C. BERNARD.

THE FRENCH REVOLUTION.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Your editorial in SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE regarding Senator La Follette's need of studying history in order that he might learn the causes of the French revolution is just another one of your expressions of hatred toward any one who is earnestly striving to better the grave conditions which exist in our country today.

Inasmuch as you want La Follette to study history for the causes of said revolution it would not be a bad idea if you would get out your history and learn well what actually happened during that great upheaval.

It seems that when any of our real Americans want to do something for their fellow countrymen and are especially anxious to help the needy and unemployed you brand them as "radicals" and pour out columns of poison against them. You would render a far greater service to humanity if you would quit criticizing those who would help their fellow men, and instead of such criticism write some editorials of help and benefit in these trying times. P. C. GRAVES.

BY WAY OF EXPLANATION.

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 22.—THE TRIBUNE contends that Chicago is entitled to a majority of the legislature. People outside of Chicago will never approve of this, for when men of the type of William Hale Thompson and Len Small can secure 3 or 4 hundred thousand votes it would be nonsense to intrust Chicago with a majority. Chicago today is reaping the result of former Mayor Thompson's squandering the city funds, and yet this man presumes to come forward as a saint, and Len Small will soon have his campaign picture taken of himself 25 years ago emblazoned upon billboards as a person who will bring about prosperity to mankind.

MRS. CARRUTHERS WINS A DIVORCE, $98,432 IN CASH

Also $6,000 a Year from Fugitive Mate.

MRS. CARRUTHERS.

Mrs. Grace Carruthers, 441 St. James place, a great-granddaughter of a lord mayor of London, was granted a divorce yesterday from her husband, Arthur S. Carruthers, wealthy real estate broker and financier, on grounds of adultery and desertion. The decree was granted by Superior Judge Harry B. Miller, and provided for a property settlement of $98,432 and annual alimony of $6,000 for Mrs. Carruthers.

Years of Litigation.

The court decision brought to an end four years of litigation since Carruthers disappeared in 1928 with his secretary, Polly Dwyer, leaving his wife penniless in their gold coast home. Evidence produced during the trial disclosed that the broker and Miss Dwyer made an automobile camping trip in Mrs. Carruthers' expensive sedan and then settled on an Arizona ranch, where they have been living under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Daly. He still is a fugitive.

In making his ruling Judge Miller said: "This defendant has seen fit not to present himself in court, not to present his side of this case, nor to give the court the benefit of any evidence of his worth at the present time. Under these circumstances we must accept the evidence which has been introduced to the effect that he was the possessor of between four and five hundred thousand dollars' worth of property.

Wrongdoing Not Denied.

"When the defendant married this woman he set her up in a beautiful home, lived with her for many years, maintaining her in affluence. She seeks a divorce for his wrongdoing, which is not contested by his own counsel. The court must go as far as possible to keep the complainant in the style to which she was been accustomed."

$10,000 for Attorneys.

The settlement given under the decree includes $10,000 for attorneys' fees to Lloyd S. Whitman, David H. Jackson, and the law firm of Cook & Albert, who represented Mrs. Carruther during the various phases of her suit.

War Veterans Risk Injury to Save Crippled Pigeon

Two unemployed war veterans abandoned their apple stands at Clark and Madison streets yesterday and risked injury in the traffic at the busy intersection to save a crippled pigeon which had fallen to the pavement from its nest on a nearby window ledge.

The apple venders were Aniello Petrellese and Harlan Wolf, both of 347 North Clark street. The bird they rescued, they explained, was their friend, one of a flock which flutters to their stands daily for food.

KILLS BANDIT

EDWARD A. COHEN.

DRUGGIST OF 73 SLAYS ROBBER IN GUN BATTLE

Edward A. Cohen, 73 years old, proprietor of the Reliable Drug store at 456 East 37th street, was held up nearly a year ago and robbed of $400.

When he reported the stickup to the police he told them:

"Business is not very good and I am an old man with little to live for. After this, when robbers come in I'll have a pistol and I'll fight."

Last evening two colored robbers entered the store with drawn pistols. Cohen, who had chased bandits out twice since the $400 holdup, seized his own weapon and started firing. The fire was returned and the owner was struck in the left arm.

Disregarding this, he pursued the Negroes to the street. There he was shot in the abdomen and fell through a window, breaking it. His assailants fled, but a little later a Negro was found seriously wounded in the Huntington hotel, 649 East 37th street, and was identified as one of those who fled from Cohen's bullets. He died of his wound at the Bridewell hospital after giving his name as Clarence Pickett, 21 years old, 3136 Ellis park. Cohen was taken to the Lakeside hospital, where his condition was said to be critical.

10% WAGE CUT ON 4 ELECTRIC LINES FOR 2,000 TODAY

A 10 per cent wage reduction will go into effect today for approximately 2,000 union employés on four electric railways in the Chicago area. The employés voluntarily accepted the reduction, which will be effective for one year.

The four roads are the Chicago, North Shore, and Milwaukee, the Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin, the Chicago, South Shore, and South Bend, and the Aurora, Elgin, and Fox River.

The voluntary cut is not technically a reduction in the basic wage rate. It will be in the form of pay check deductions. At the end of the year all employés will return to the present rate for one year.

MACHINES SET UP BY U. S. TO TEST CHICAGO SMOKE

Survey Is Undertaken at Request of Congress.

A variety of instruments to give information as to the amount of soot, dust, and foreign substances in Chicago's smoke pall were set up yesterday on the ninth floor of the Federal building by Wirt A. Gill, assistant chemical engineer of the United States public health service.

Included among the instruments are automatic air filters, which register the amount of air pollution every fifteen minutes; the Rentschlaer meter, which determines the quantity of ultra-violet rays seeping through the smoke blanket, and a jet dust counter, which will record the dust particles.

Result of New York Tests.

Similar tests in New York City revealed that residents there are confronted with two tons of soot in every cubic mile of air.

The survey is being carried on at the request of congress in fourteen large cities. Mr. Wirt will stay in Chicago a week and then move on to Pittsburgh. The air filter machine will remain here for two years, and C. A. Donnel, principal meteorologist for the Chicago area, will send in weekly reports to Washington, D. C.

Summoned by Chambers.

While the federal government was evincing an interest in the Chicago smoke situation, Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, summoned twenty-two persons and business concerns to appear at his office today on complaints that dense smoke had been noted issuing from chimneys on their properties. Those called are:

Kessinger Through with Politics; Going to Russia

State Senator Harold C. Kessinger of Aurora, who withdrew his candidacy for the Republican nomination for his office on Saturday, announced yesterday that he was definitely through with politics. He is going to Russia, he said, to spend two years studying the soviet government and then to write a book about it. He is also planning to write a novel of midwestern life. Mr. Kessinger, who is 41 years old, has been a state senator since he was 25.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

DEMOCRAT FOES JOIN IN VOLLEY AT STATE WASTE

Horner, Campbell, Igoe Swing Into Campaigns.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The mushroom growth of governmental extravagance and the tax spending orgy furnished the theme last night for the three chief Democratic contenders for the governorship nomination—Judge Henry Horner, Michael L. Igoe, and Bruce Campbell — as their campaigns for the April 12 primaries started off with a flourish.

Judge Horner tore into the pyramiding costs of state government, saying they have doubled in 12 years. He addressed faculty members of the University of Chicago. Mr. Igoe at Rockford ripped into the growing taxes as an Old Man of the Sea riding the property owners' necks. At Lawrenceville Mr. Campbell, whose Chicago headquarters were opened at the Great Northern hotel, assailed governmental waste and general tax strikes.

Horner Hits 106% Increase.

"In 1919, the last year of the Lowden administration, the ordinary expenses of the state government were only $62,109,030," said Judge Horner to the University of Chicago professors.

"Since then this expense has steadily increased until in 1931 the ordinary cost of the state government was $128,105,650. It was an increase in twelve years of $65,996,000, or 106 per cent.

"These figures, enormous as they are, do not include the cost of building roads, work on the highways, the retirement of bonds and interest payments. They do include, however, the appropriations for state employés' salaries, and these show an even greater increase than do other expenses of the state.

"In 1919 the payroll was $14,293,277. In 1931 the figure was $29,948,270, an increase of 109 per cent.

"During the same time, the bonded indebtedness of the state has increased from practically little to $191,648,500. It must be apparent to even the most casual observer that the limit of state expenditures has been reached and that there must be a change in our state financing.

"It therefore becomes important that the Democratic nominee should be a man who shall be free to act in the interest of the taxpayer and not of the tax spenders. In accepting the indorsement voted me by the Democratic state and county committees, I declared myself emphatically on the question of state expenditures.

"There must be the most stringent economy."

Campbell Urges Horse Sense.

Candidate Campbell declared that government expenditures need a good application of "solid horse sense."

"Expense of government is too high," he said. "Extravagance and waste are rampant. Jobs should not be created or continued simply to make positions for political workers. Pay rolls should not be padded. Unnecessary employés and expense should be eliminated and wastefulness and extravagance banished from our government."

On taxes Mr. Campbell remarked:

"General tax strikes are never justified. Those able to pay their taxes should do so. Of course, every citizen has a right to contest in the courts all or any part of a tax which he believes illegal or based on improper assessment.

"However, to avail himself of such right the taxpayer ought honestly to believe in the justice of his objection and ought to pay the portion of the tax that he cannot honestly and conscientiously contest.

Igoe Prepares for Tour.

The Igoe camp prepared yesterday for a platform invasion of southern Illinois forthwith. Mr. Igoe, candidate for governor; Truman A. Snell of Carlinville, candidate for attorney general, and Scott W. Lucas of Havana, who seeks the United States senatorship, are to take the field together.

United States Senator Otis F. Glenn was indorsed for renomination in the Republican primary by more than 300 persons who attended a meeting of the 44th Ward Republican club at 2315 Lincoln avenue last night. The club is a Deneen organization.

GROUP OPPOSING U. S. IN BUSINESS TELLS AIMS TONIGHT

Plans of the Federation of American Business, the announced purpose of which is to "combat encroachment of government upon business and increasing taxation," will be explained tonight at a meeting at St. Columbanus hall, 71st street and Calumet avenue.

Bernard W. Snow, director of the organization, and Attorney Edward J. Hess will be the speakers. The meeting is the first of a series to be held in Chicago neighborhoods, to which both property owners and tenants will be invited.

"Our government is breaking down in an orgy of high taxes and wasteful spending," the call for the meeting states. "Your public officials suggest nothing except more taxes. Property and homes are being confiscated and yet the federal and state governments continue to seek new forms of taxation. Unless citizens understand what is the real trouble, and unitedly protect themselves by intelligent and practical action, the greatest country in the world will be bankrupted."

BAIL BOND LAW IS EXTOLLED IN REPORT OF L. V. L.

Records of Cook County Members Estimated.

JOHN A. SWANSON.

Three measures sponsored by State's Attorney John A. Swanson and the Chicago Commonwealth club to cure the bail bond evil in the crime situation are deemed the "most valuable work" of the 1931 regular session of the general assembly by the Legislative Voters league.

This conclusion was voiced last night by the league in presenting its report on outgoing members of the legislature from the west side and north side legislative districts. The report on downstate districts was published in yesterday's TRIBUNE, and last night's final installment completes the league's findings in its biennial review of the assembly.

In condensed form the league's analysis of the records of members from the nineteen districts in Cook county whose terms expire, is as follows, Republicans being indicated by [R] and Democrats by [D]:

SENATORS.

2d District: Joseph Mendel [D]—Is not well equipped for legislative work; made poor record in most respects.

4th District: Frank McDermott [D]—Has forceful personality and is well liked by his associates; attentive to business; usually exhibits good judgment in voting; has shown decided independence in meeting important issues.

6th District: James J. Barbour [R]—Throughout sixteen years in the senate he has shown fearlessness and unusual fighting ability, which he has used to prevent much bad legislation that would have been extremely costly to the taxpayers.

REPRESENTATIVES.

1st District: George W. Blackwell [R.]—Gave close attention to work and made creditable voting record. Harris B. Gaines [R.]—His work was creditable. John Griffin [D.]—Died during his term.

2nd District: Albert J. Mancin [R.]—Mixed record but deserves credit for helping to pass the bills to reorganize the tax assessing machinery of Cook county. John M. Bolton [D.]—A bad record. Frank Ryan [D.]—Substantially improved his record.

3rd District: William E. King [R.]—Record was decidedly creditable. Charles J. Jenkins [R.]—His work was pretty fair for a new member. George Garry Noonan [D.]—Record distinctively bad.

4th District: Michael A. Ruddy [R.]—Poor record; is in no way qualified for work of a legislator. Thomas J. O'Grady [D.]—Ending his sixth term, in which he was in Springfield only a part of the time, having been elected to Chicago city council. James P. Boyle [D.]—Ending seventh term with improved record.

5th District: William J. Warfield [R.]—Attentive to work but did not show much activity; introduced objectionable bill to enable Chicago alderman to hold over for two years. Josephine Perry [R.]—Closely attentive to work; voted independently; did very well for a new member. Michael L. Igoe [D.]—Minority leader; showed his usual powers of leadership; sharply criticized for opposition to bill to reorganize tax assessing machinery, but won warm praise by leading successful fight for emergency unemployment relief measures.

6th District: Ralph E. Church [R.]—Served public with same courage and fidelity that have characterized his entire career as a legislator. Arthur E. Fischer [R.]—Failed to show he was qualified. Joseph H. Donahue [D.]—Attentive and showed substantial qualities that should make him increasingly useful.

7th District: Anna Wilmarth Ickes [R.]—Her record is excellent. Frank E. Foster [R.]—Failed to show that he possessed much legislative ability. Emmett McGrath [D.]—A fair record.

9th District: Henry Sonnenschein [D.]—Secretary to the mayor of Chicago. Showed decided legislative ability; general record was good. William J. Gormley [D.]—Was absent too much and made a colorless record. David E. Shanahan [R.]—Speaker for the sixth time; finishing his nineteenth term, a record of distinguished service unprecedented in the history of the Illinois legislature; as usual, tremendously valuable to public in preventing vicious and wasteful legislation.

11th District: David I. Swanson [R.]—One of the most useful and upstanding members of the assembly. John M. Lee [D.]—Finishing fifth term with good record. George A. Fitzgerald [D.]—Has served two terms with fair record.

13th District: Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R.]—Won fresh recognition of his unusual ability and qualities of leadership. John G. Garriott [R.]—Gave effective service. William W. Powers [D].—Colorless record.

15th District: James Curran [R.]—Bad record; no signs of legislative capacity. Joseph Perina [D.]—Rather a colorless record which he improved at the special session by supporting bill to reorganize tax assessing machinery of Cook county. Edward Skarda [D.]—Mixed record.

17th District: Charles Coia [D.]—Improved his record. Anthony Pintozzi [D.]—Rather a mixed record. Roland V. Libonati [R.]—Poor record; attentive to work and showed some ability but exerted it in a wrong way.

19th District: Solomon P. Roderick [R.]—Good record; rendered energetic and effective service. John O. Hruby [D.]—Did pretty well for a new member. John R. McSweeney [D.]—Applied himself earnestly and materially improved his record.

21st District: James W. Harris [R.]—Gave little evidence of legislative capacity. Thomas J. O'Brien [D.]—Showed legislative capacity; record was creditable. Joseph L. Bategan [D.]—Showed usual independence and effectiveness; record was excellent.

23d District: William G. Thon [R.]—One of the most hard working and useful legislators. Edward M. Overland [R.]—Died during his term. Thomas P. Keane [D.]—Now a member of the Chicago city council.

25th District: Edwin B. Bederman [R.]—Active in opposing undesirable measures; good record. Benjamin S. Adamowski [D.]—Showed sound judgment and talent; made exceptionally promising record for new member. Raymond T. O'Keefe [D.]—Appears to lack sound judgment.

27th District: A. O. Galvin, [R.]—Has some capacity but is a good deal of a political adventurer; deserves credit for voting for Chicago tax relief. A. L. Auth [D.]—Rather easy going, but record has shown improvement. Joseph P. Rostenkowski, [D.]—Was absent a good deal as he is now a member of Chicago city council.

29th District: Michael R. Durso [R.]—His undesirable affiliations were more in evidence than previously; record poor. Lawrence C. O'Brien [D.]—Now in Leavenworth penitentiary. Robert M. Woodward [R.]—Independent, courageous, hard working; made an outstandingly fine record for new member.

31st District: James J. McVicker [R.]—Attentive; showed increased activity and independence; materially improved his record. Mason S. Sullivan [D.]—Active; showed capability; should become increasingly useful. Pierce L. Shannon [D.]—Not particularly active; did fairly well for beginner.

SMITH BACKERS PLAN DRIVE FOR DELEGATES FROM NEW ENGLAND

New York, Feb. 29.—[Special.]—An intensive campaign in New England to elect delegates pledged to Alfred E. Smith for the Democratic presidential nomination was forecast after a series of conferences with his supporters today.

Decision to make a contest for the election of Smith delegates in Vermont was reached after a discussion by Mr. Smith and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, with James A. Kennedy of Burlington, who came here to offer to lead the Smith forces in that state.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Hague, who has general direction of the Smith campaign, discussed the New Hampshire situation with John J. Curtin, who had returned from a visit to his native city of Manchester. Mr. Curtin reported that two Smith delegates were almost assured in the Manchester district and Smith had an excellent chance to win the delegates-at-large. All of New Hampshire's eight votes have been claimed by the Roosevelt forces.

Taxes Can Be Reduced

Two figures in the reports of the railroads for 1931 afford a striking contrast.

One is net income: 89 million dollars.

The other is taxes: 308 million dollars.

The tax collector thus got $3.46 of railway revenue to every dollar the owners themselves received.

Taxes can be reduced — for everybody — in only one way. That is for governments to spend less.

Railroads are taxable property, but other forms of transportation use property created by spending taxes.

Thus taxes make the railroads' rates higher and their competitors' rates lower.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. Downs
President, Illinois Central System

Chicago, March 1, 1932.

Illinois Central System taxes exceeded $20,000 a day throughout 1931.

This information concerning a serious disease problem is sponsored by the Public Health Institute as a public health measure.

EXPERIENCED MEDICAL CARE IS IMPORTANT

It takes years of training in medical school and in hospitals under expert supervision, as well as modern laboratory facilities, to enable physicians to make a correct diagnosis of either syphilis or gonorrhea. Without this expert advice patients cannot know definitely whether they are infected or not. It is easy to mistake syphilis and gonorrhea for other diseases. This is particularly true of syphilis. It is often called the "Great Imitator," since it appears so frequently in the guise of other ailments. Because of this aspect of the disease an incorrect diagnosis may prove a disaster to a patient who has acquired it. Not only his own health but that of his family is threatened. At the same time it is almost as great a misfortune to mistake other conditions for one of these diseases. In such cases the patient suffers severe mental strain, believing he has contracted a serious, perhaps fatal, disease and is a danger to his family and friends.

AVOID THESE DANGERS

Individuals can avoid these dangers by seeking reliable and experienced medical care. In this community adequate medical service is available to all. Those who cannot afford the services of a private physician can find good medical care at several low cost clinics, including the leading medical schools and other recognized health agencies. Free treatment is available to those without funds.

The Public Health Institute is incorporated for public service, not for profit, under the laws of the State of Illinois. It is an institution dedicated to the object of combating venereal diseases in this community—through organized effort of all social agencies dealing with this problem. Its main clinic for men is located at 159 North Dearborn Street, between Randolph and Lake Streets, a branch clinic at 129 East 31st Street, and the women's and children's clinic at 72 East Randolph Street.

BRITAIN SNUFFS OUT FREE TRADE ERA WITH POMP

Ushers In Tariff Reign at Stroke of Midnight.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 29.—Three lords commissioners, wearing quaint little cocked hats and picturesque ermine robes, took their seats before the throne of the house of lords tonight.

As one official read the title of the government tariff measure, "Import Duties Bill," and another recited in old Norman French "Le roi le veult"—the king wills it—the three lords commissioners solemnly raised their hats. Thus royal assent was given following the time honored custom and the measure became a law of the land and brought to an end Great Britain's 85 year era of free trade, and heralded the reign of tariffs.

The historic house was crowded to witness the drama of the last moments of free trade. Peeresses crowded their galleries and the public crowded the chambers. The debate on second reading and the passing of the measure through all of its remaining stages occupied the entire day.

Snowden Opposes Passage.

Just before 11 p. m. the second reading was carried by 129 votes to 12. The feature of the debate was the opposition of Viscount Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer in the old Labor government, who is still as determined a free trader as ever. He made a gallant attempt to convince the national government's supporters that they were the victims of illusion.

The drama closed when messengers of the house removed the covers draping the throne in the absence of the king and the "black rod" was dispatched to the "faithful commons" to require their presence. In obedience to the summons the speaker of the house of commons appeared at the bar of the house of lords, accompanied by Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, the leader of the Labor opposition, George Lansbury, and other members. The warrant which authorized the commissioner to convey the king's assent to the measure then was read and the act actually came into operation at midnight.

Ships Reach Port.

While a furious northeast gale whipped the North sea and the English channel an armada of ships, stuffed to the gunwales with merchandise, raced toward to beat the 5 p. m. deadline.

The race was spurred by wireless messages from shippers urging their masters to cram on every ounce of steam in order to slip through before the 10 per cent tariff is imposed tomorrow.

Customs officials said the crush and excitement was the greatest in history. Forty ships bound for London passed the south end of the Thames estuary in one hour. Similar conditions existed at Liverpool. Sixty-one vessels arrived at Liverpool between Saturday and early today, more than double the usual number. There were also sprints to reach Bristol and other channel ports.

Every preparation was made in the port of London to deal with the rush of goods. Two hundred channel and river pilots were kept on duty.

WAGNER ASSAILS U. S. COURT RULE ON 'YELLOW DOG'

Argues for Passage of Norris Measure.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—Political freedom must be matched by economic freedom if American civilization is to survive, Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] declared today in arguing for the passage of the Norris anti-injunction bill now pending in the senate.

"By permitting labor to organize freely and effectively," he said, "we can convert the relation of master and servant into an equal and coöperative partnership shouldering alike the responsibilities of management and sharing alike the rewards of increased production."

The policy of the federal courts through recognition of the "yellow dog" contract, Senator Wagner asserted, had been to repress organized labor.

With the exception of Senator Wagner's argument today's debate on the bill narrowed down to a discussion of whether the bill should permit courts to issue labor injunctions where threats against property had been made or whether the courts' authority should be limited to action only in cases where overt acts had been committed.

An amendment was finally agreed to including cases of threatened damage, but confining the injunction to persons actually uttering the threats or approving or ratifying them.

Woman Owner of a Drug Store Held on Rum Charge

Mrs. Mae Keenan, owner of a drug store at 7108 South Shore drive, and Henry J. Sowa, a clerk there, were held to the federal grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on charges of selling and possessing liquor.

DR. MESIROW'S JAIL SENTENCE IS SUSTAINED

The Appellate court yesterday upheld a six months' sentence for contempt of court imposed on Dr. Maurice E. Mesirow, husband of Irene Pavloska, Civic Opera singer, for failure to pay alimony to his first wife, Mrs. Eda Mesirow. The court expressed a suspicion that Dr. Mesirow was purposely decreasing the income of his practice in order to evade payment. He has a $1,000 appeal bond posted on which his ex-wife may levy for payment of the alimony. Therefore, lawyers say, it is not likely that he will have to go to jail.

Dr. Mesirow married Mme. Pavloska on Dec. 29, 1929, the same day that his first wife divorced him on a charge of desertion. The contempt citation was issued Dec. 31, 1930, by Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude, on Mrs. Eda Mesirow's representation that her ex-husband owed her $675 in alimony and $435 in solicitor's fees.

His attorney, Harvey Levinson, filed a petition for a rehearing yesterday.

NEW NIGHT BOND COURT OPENED TO END BAIL ABUSES

Swanson and Sonsteby Attend Hearing.

In the presence of State's Attorney Swanson, Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court and a score of other officials, the night bond court, which is expected to eliminate long standing evils in the granting of surety for police prisoners, was formally opened last night in room 1128 of the City hall.

Judge Sonsteby, attended by his bailiff and a few friends, was the first official to arrive for the ceremonies, which had been scheduled for 8 p. m., the time set for the nightly opening of the four hour court session. Ike Roderick, secretary of the First Ward Democratic club, a professional bondsman since the days of the 22nd street red light district, was on hand to offer greetings.

Sonsteby Gives Out Rules.

Judge Sonsteby distributed copies of the new Municipal court rules for granting bail, "by the enforcement of which such evils as the taking of bail by a judge upon the street can be abated, assuming the judges will not disregard their own rules." Then Judge Freeman L. Fairbank, selected to preside on the opening night, arrived.

The bondsman in the first case, Caesar Benvenuti, proprietor of the Victory Bonding company, 2710 South State street, stepped forward to schedule a brick bungalow at 5115 North Christiana avenue, valued by him at $15,000. Mr. Benvenuti announced he was seeking the release of Steve Stevenson, a Negro held at the Pekin police station on a charge of peddling tickets in a policy game. His fee, Mr. Benvenute stated, would be $5.

At this moment the absence of the state's attorney was noted and Judge Sonsteby suggested a recess. Mr. Swanson hastened in at 8:35 p. m. from a political meeting at the Palmer House.

Photographers Hold Stage.

The room, filled with smoke from the cigarets of prosecutors and spectators, echoed to the boom of photographers' flash guns.

Judge Fairbank accepted the bond offered by Benvenuti.

Another grouping was arranged for the cameramen, with Judge Sonsteby in the foreground in the high backed judicial seat, Judge Fairbank beside him in a common office chair, and Mr. Swanson and the city prosecutor, Michael Rosina, before the bar. From the fringe of the crowd of spectators in the background a middle aged man edged into range of the cameras.

"Who are you? What are your duties here?" Judge Fairbank inquired. The man mumbled something.

"He's a janitor in the coroner's office," said a voice in the crowd.

"Yes, I'm in the coroner's office and I want to get my picture in the paper, too," the man said thickly. The flash guns boomed once more.

"Well, I don't think the occasion calls for any speeches, but I do believe we got off to a good, business-like start," Judge Sonsteby remarked in conclusion. The session continued to midnight.

METHODISTS DISCARD HYMNS OF WESLEY, FOUNDER OF CHURCH

New York, Feb. 29.—(AP)—A goodly number of the hymns written by the Wesley brothers, John and Charles, will be deleted from the hymnal and psalter of the Methodist Episcopal churches, north and south, because of opposition by the younger generation of church goers, the Rev. Dr. John W. Langdale, secretary of the commission on revision, said today.

Forty-four of 120 songs from the pen of the Rev. Charles Wesley tentatively are slated for omission, he told a meeting of New York ministers, and six of 19 composed by John Wesley, father of Methodism, are listed to go. The committee will meet March 8 in Cincinnati to make a final decision.

Dr. Langdale said "imagery of blood" and promise of "everlasting bliss" in many of the hymns had become offensive to the youth of the church. He illustrated by reciting a stanza of "Time and Eternity" and "Welcome Sweet Day of Rest."

Eddie Gribbon of Films Guilty on Liquor Charge

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—Eddie Gribbon, movie comedian, and his wife, Loretta Gribbon, actress, were found guilty of possessing liquor at the time police raided their home last Feb. 3, but both were acquitted on charges of drunkenness before Judge Clement Nye today. They will be sentenced tomorrow. Police, in raiding the Gribbon premises, answered a "wild party" call turned in by neighbors and testified that they found Gribbon hurling bottles and dishes about his apartment.

CZECH 'DREYFUS' READS 2 YEARS IN DARK CELL; BLIND

State to Allow Ex-Leader Medical Care.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRATISLAVA, Czecho-Slovakia, Feb. 29.—After being held in solitary confinement at the dilapidated old state prison at Leopoldau since Oct. 5, 1929, Dr. Adalbert Tuka, former professor or jurisprudence at Bratislava university, now fast becoming known as the Dreyfus of Czecho-Slovakia, has been brought here to see if anything can be done to save him from complete blindness.

Prison doctors explained that Dr. Tuka had practically lost his eyesight from diligent reading and writing in the darkened "solitary" prison cell.

President Masaryk, who was to the old Austro-Hungarian empire what Dr. Tuka is to present-day Czecho-Slovakia—except that the Austrians did not imprison Masaryk—is said to be responsible for the transfer of Dr. Tuka to Bratislava. The prison here is fairly modern and sanitary and the university will be allowed to furnish expert medical attention.

Masaryk Favors Dr. Tuka.

President Masaryk, his friends say, has always opposed the incarceration of Dr. Tuka and has even expressed a desire to pardon him, but the intrigues of Foreign Minister Benes and other rabid Czech Nationalists have always prevented it.

The arrival here of Dr. Tuka, a pitiful wreck of a man in contrast to the picture of one of the most brilliant young educators in the country which he presented before his imprisonment, again served to rouse public indignation in Slovakia against a juridical injustice which threatens to make the case similar to the French "Dreyfus affair."

Dr. Tuka, his friends charge, was "railroaded" to jail on unsupported charges by Czechs that he conspired against the safety of the Czecho-Slovakia's republic and that he really was a dangerous irredentist in the pay of Czecho-Slovakia's dangerous enemy, Hungary. On Oct. 5, 1929, he was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment by a court of three judges—he was refused a jury trial—and since that time he has been living in solitary confinement and has been treated like a common criminal even to the point of having his head shaved.

Reads Most of Time.

Jailers say he has spent most of his time in his dark cell poring over bulky volumes on international jurisprudence, in which field he is an authority, or in writing bulky volumes on the same subject. It was this, they say, which brought about his eye trouble. The Czechs claim that he was not sentenced to solitary confinement but chose it as a means of shortening his sentence. Every year spent in "solitary" counts for a year and a half of ordinary imprisonment.

Dr. Tuka's real "crime," of course, was that he was a fiery and able Slovak leader in the parliament at Prague. His specific crime was advocating that Slovakia had a perfect legal right to withdraw from the Czecho-Slovak state.

Dr. Tuka declared that in "treaties" between Czech and Slovak societies, it was stipulated that the Slavaks could legally withdraw from the Czecho-Slovak state after ten years. The ten years was up on Oct. 28, 1928, and in January of that year Dr. Tuka wrote an editorial in his paper, Slovak, stating that on that date Slovakia had the legal right to withdraw from the union.

He did not say that it would withdraw. It is known that he desired no such thing. He merely used the argument as a wedge to drive a political bargain with Prague by which Slovakia could attain some sort of autonomy. The Czechs were not slow to seize the opportunity of charging him with conspiracy against the state and Czech judges, taking their orders from Prague, were no slower in getting him to prison. Since then the Czechs have completely dominated Slovakia, crushing the Slovakian autonomist movement by typical Balkan terrorist methods.

BEGIN REPLACING OLD BRIDGES IN JOLIET TO OPEN WATERWAY

Work of replacing five old fixed bridges in Joliet with modern bascule spans, to enable shipping to pass on the Illinois waterway, was started yesterday when the Jackson street bridge was closed to traffic.

Workmen started wrecking it immediately. Wrecking operations will start on the Cass street bridge on April 1 and on the Jefferson street bridge on May 1. Meanwhile a temporary bridge has been thrown across the canal at Van Buren street to accommodate street car and vehicular traffic.

The new Jackson street bridge will be completed, it is expected, by Sept. 15. Two other fixed bridges in Joliet are to be replaced next year.

Joliet citizens assert that when three of the five bridges connecting the two halves of the city are closed the two remaining and the temporary Van Buren street structure will not be sufficient to handle traffic. They have made representations to Col. D. I. Sultan, war department engineer who is supervising the work, and to Illinois congressmen and senators, seeking to have the replacement work done at a slower rate.

WHERE DOES SHE GET HER PEP?

She doesn't look seventy. Nor feel that old. The woman who stimulates her organs can have energy that women half her age will envy!

At middle-age your vital organs begin to slow down. You may not be sick, just sluggish. But why endure this condition of half-health when there's a stimulant that will stir a stagnant system to new life and energy in a week's time?

This remarkable stimulant is perfectly harmless. It is, in fact, a doctor's prescription. If you are tired of trying every patent medicine that comes along, tell your druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a little of this delicious syrup every day or so, until you know by the way you feel that your liver is active, and your bowels are poison-free.

Men, women, and children who are run-down, who tire easily, get bilious spells or have frequent headaches, are soon straightened out when they get this prescriptional preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh laxative herbs. (Syrup pepsin is all the help the bowels need, and you do not form the very bad habit of always taking cathartics.)

Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin in the house, and take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. It is all that a great many people ever take to keep strong and vigorous, and absolutely free from constipation.

Meeting the Test

Life Insurance, the great stabilizer of human welfare, carries on

PEACE OF MIND, with which to face the present and plan for the future, never has meant more than it means today. These are trying times. It is difficult to believe that anyone has escaped the effects of a world-wide deflation of values, contraction of enterprise, social change.

That life insurance companies, during the past year, have been able to show an increase of insurance in force is indeed a tribute to the high purpose which these institutions serve. It indicates a growing national consciousness of this reliable form of financial protection.

Life insurance is, in a real sense, an investment in peace of mind, with interest payable in future comfort. It paves the way to education; to replacement of earning power cut off by death; to establishment of credit; to liquidation of indebtedness; to estate creation—to these and other family or business objectives.

BUYING ACTIVITY FOLLOWS SELLING EFFORT

Buying activity follows selling effort! Great masses of consumers, today, are waiting for the leaders to show their confidence by aggressive sales effort.

Courageous advertising of real values can do much to stimulate buying and restore public confidence.

Merchandise stocks are lower than they have been in many years: Manufacturers' stocks, wholesalers' stocks, retailers' stocks,—and on down to the modest stocks on the housewives' shelves.

Every one needs almost everything! Half a million families in Philadelphia have more than a billion dollars' worth of wants that have to be filled this year.

Philadelphians live in individual homes which require extensive upkeep and repair. Their food and clothing bills total hundreds of millions of dollars.

Their incomes are higher than average and their employment is more stable because of Philadelphia's varied industry.

And selling effort is simplified and economical here. One newspaper—The Philadelphia Bulletin—reaches nine out of every ten homes at the lowest cost of any single newspaper in America.

558,184 net paid daily circulation. Two and one-half times the circulation of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper. More than the total of all morning newspapers combined.

A growth founded upon the respect and confidence of Philadelphia homes; a growth which avoided sensational handling of news, and premium or contest circulation. A growth which insures productive circulation for advertisers.

And a rate of sixty-five cents a line—$1.16 per milline—

That is what The Philadelphia Bulletin offers for economical selling to stimulate 1932 buying.

The Woman Hater

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Chapelle is the owner of Flaxen's Casino, near the water front of Port Bai, which was established by her first husband of dubious color, who had fathered her daughter Aya, and was the refuge of her second husband of dubious morale though unimpeachable antecedents, who had brought his little daughter Faire to the island and remained there until his death.

Malice Bookes, aid de camp of Sir Philip Persian, governor and commander in chief of the Tama islands, Bai and St. Rosario, obtained an invitation for Mrs. Chapelle and her daughters to attend the government house ball. Faire's pride makes her reject the belated honor because the Chapelles had until now been left out of the ball list. Mrs. Chapelle and Aya believe it is because she doesn't want to go in their company. Faire admits to herself, with misgivings, the truth of their accusations. She prefers to remain in the casino, where she and Aya had been trained to work by their mother.

INSTALLMENT II.

A WITNESSED RENDEZVOUS.

Faire glanced aside and saw in the doorway, tall and slender, lordly, the governor's aid de camp, Malise Bookes.

"We go on?" Mantigua asked in her ear, very perturbed.

"We go on!"

"Not long, please, miss. I better go and see what that Joe is serving there at the bar. What has this fellow come for?"

"I don't know."

She felt Mantigua's arm tighten round her to compel her eyes to his. She glanced at him and did not mistake his sly smile.

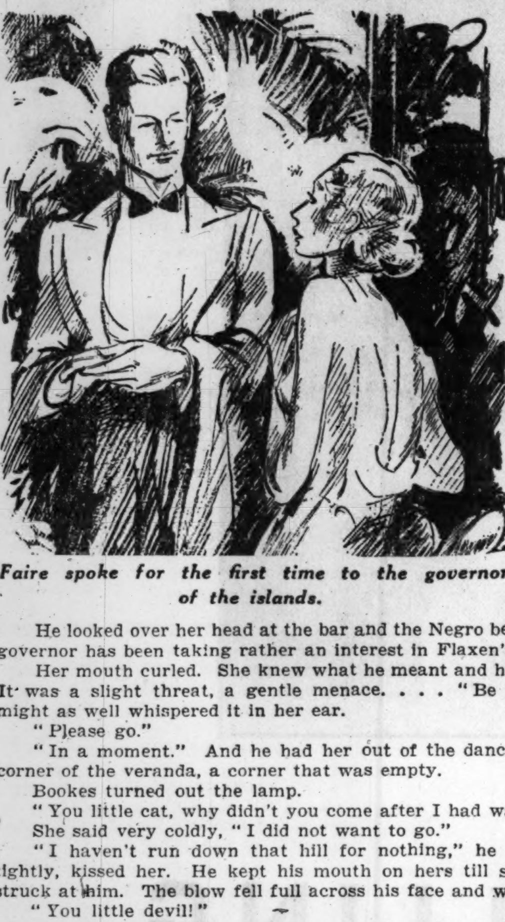
"I hope he comes for you, miss; and not to see what Joe does."

"If Joe is not doing anything wrong——"

"Ah, miss!"

Mantigua felt the girl's flexible waist stiffen, lose response to his hand. She signed the band, who finished the tango, and broke into a fox trot. "Well, go and see!" she ordered. And then through the men and girls who were hurrying onto the floor she found Bookes beside her.

He put an arm round her without asking and she moved off with him in the fox trot. The Negroes in the band were scared, Joe, the barman, was scared, and Mantigua was scared, for there had been, some months ago, the faint but definite sign of an alarm from government house.



Faire spoke for the first time to the governor of the islands.

"What are you doing here?" she made herself smile up at Bookes.

"I came to dance with you, since you would not come to dance with me."

"Surely you ought not to be here."

"No, you little cat, I ought not. But I shall not stay five minutes and it is all your fault."

"Please go."

"How wonderfully you move! I have no partners like you up there."

"Mr. Bookes, how will you excuse yourself to the governor?"

He looked over her head at the bar and the Negro behind it. "O . . . the governor has been taking rather an interest in Flaxen's for some while."

Her mouth curled. She knew what he meant and her heart rose against it. It was a slight threat, a gentle menace. . . . "Be nice to me now." He might as well whispered it in her ear.

"Please go."

"In a moment." And he had her out of the danceroom into the further corner of the veranda, a corner that was empty.

Bookes turned out the lamp.

"You little cat, why didn't you come after I had wangled the invitation?"

She said very coldly, "I did not want to go."

"I haven't run down that hill for nothing," he said, and, holding her tightly, kissed her. He kept his mouth on hers till she wrenched free and struck at him. The blow fell full across his face and wiped the smile from it.

"You little devil!"

She slipped into the danceroom again and into the ready arms of the French petty officer with whom she had danced first. As she danced past Mantigua she made the sailor pause while she asked: "It was all right, of course?"

"Joe says he's not sold anything he shouldn't, miss."

But Mantigua's eyes shifted from hers. She thought: "He's in it with mother . . . and Joe."

Yet neither she nor Aya had actual cognizance of any furtive work, and Aya had not so much as guessed that there was anything to know.

Faire did not attempt to reason with herself why this evening of all the evenings she had lived at Port Bai should suddenly illumine to her the sordid and tawdry existence that she had to lead with Mrs. Chapelle and Aya, with the café and the dance hall, and the gambling, and the queer customers who strayed in from queer ships; the familiarity of Mantigua and the hidden ferocities of the grinning barman Joe. Up the hill in the lighted white house were other women—so near and yet set worlds apart from her. There were men who thought of her if they thought at all—and they did—as one of the café girls down on the shore.

She said suddenly to Mantigua: "I'm through for tonight. Carry on without me."

It was as if he were relieved to see her go. Well, it was a hectic evening. There had been a bad quarrel in the poker room. The bar had almost been drunk dry. And with a sick, angry, high hearted revulsion from it all, she left Flaxen's and returned to the house. It had a quite exaggerated effect of desolation—empty, and the doors standing wide. The houseboys were helping with trade. She went into the room she shared with Aya and looked into the glass. Her face seemed to blaze out at her. A clear definite thought came.

She combed back her hair, straight away from her face. Bleached but also burnished by the sun of ten summers here, it dropped in thick curls on the nape of her neck. She powdered her face. Her mouth had never looked more crimson nor more stormy; her eyes had the fire of black opals. She thought to herself, "It's the lovely dress," but it was not the dress bought from the American from Florida who had auctioned her most beautiful clothes for some banal sort of bet. It was she herself who blazed under the thin dress as if the fire of her would burn through.

Her window looked, not over the sea, but up the hill. The austere low outline of government house, in the late seventeenth century one of the Spanish missions, grown to luxury by the tastes of successive governors, was gracious to the eyes. She heard the beat of the orchestra up there, faintly. She went out again, taking a path worn simply by the traffic of many feet, upward through palms and cactus. She came soon to the confines of the spreading gardens of government house.

Poor foolish mother, poor foolish Aya to go there! To smart under the supercilious glances of women and the blank unrecognizing aloofness of men who unbent to them at other times!

And now Faire came to the sound of water, the tinkle of natural lilliputian waterfalls, that dripped over a wall of rock, and she knew she was near to the maze of the governor's famous rose gardens. And she found herself screened in a kind of little grotto of roses and heliotrope and bougainvillea dropping down like veils. There was a seat there and she sat down.

What did she want? Only to listen, to look, to feel, to say to herself: "But I might have been there if things were different."

Through the veils of bougainvillea she could see, across the lawns, the wide flung windows opened down the whole length of the ballroom. It was a look into a new world, splendidly formal. There were jewels that flashed here and there as brilliantly as the fireflies in the gardens. Men and women came out, sauntered, stood, talked, laughed. Servants hurried. The avenue of mahogany trees was lined with cars. She stared toward the ballroom, trying to see the figure of one man.

But Sir Philip Persian was not in view.

But then suddenly there were two people near her, hurrying very silently down a path that led—she knew it—towards the orange grove with which government experts were experimenting. This man and woman were furtive, whispering low. She held her breath lest they should change their direction, slip into the grotto where she sat hidden. The moonlight was full on their faces. They were Mira Worcester, that haggard beauty, and young Robert Grand.

They paused for one moment because of the young man's importunity and she saw them kiss. The kiss seemed strangely and shockingly to flame through her as it flamed through them. They went on. They vanished.

She might have thought: "Little bit of scandal that. Will please mother and Aya!" But she did not think thus. She was trembling with what seemed to her to be the beauty of that kiss; illicit, guilty kiss, but beautiful.

A step—no furtiveness this time—came down the path; it was quick, it was determined. A voice called quickly and resolutely: "Mira! I have your shawl! Are you there?" She sprang up. It was the voice for which, aware or not, her ears were attuned always. And the footsteps stopped, the veils of bougainvillea were parted, and he stood there, tall and lean, moon gleaming on his decorations. He saw her instantly—she knew it—as she stayed there quite still in the dusk. He said in a low voice whose hardness would have made any woman flinch: "Well, here you are, Mira! I have brought a shawl as an excuse; I hope it's yours. Are you waiting for Robert? Come out of it quick, you fool!"

Faire Chapelle spoke for the first time to the governor and commander in chief of the Tama islands:

"It is a mistake, Sir Philip."

Persian dropped the veils of bougainvillea again so that as before the moonlight only filtered through. He was staring at the girl's dim figure, and listening to crashing footsteps that followed his own.

"Sit down!" he ordered.

Rock Gardens, Like People, Are of Many Types

BY PAUL POTTER.

Those who have the good fortune of visiting the hundreds of unusual garden spots in the Chicago area must all have come to the conclusion that there are just as many types of rock gardens as there are types of people. No two of them are alike.

No matter how unpretentious the site or materials available, some gardeners seem able to produce a truly natural and individual nook where others have plainly bungled the job. To some a rock garden means only a mixture of rocks and plants without apparent reason for their assembly. Unless it can be kept simple, natural and be made an actual and important part of the design of the home grounds, a rock garden or pool might better be omitted.

The simplest project of all is one made by treating a terrace slope or building up one corner of the lot with rocks and plants instead of leaving it a grassy area. A stepped wall may be made by using flat rocks or rough edged concrete slabs in such a way as to form wide tiers of irregular design. Or the face of the slope may be covered with rocks between which liberal chinks of dirt form the beds for plant life.

The finest rock gardens we see have been made by those who study the natural formations of rock quarries or hilly slopes and preserve the graceful curves that occur in nature. When possible there should be steps and paths worked in. Irregular paths are most interesting, with walks following the little valleys.

There is a balance between rock and dirt to distinguish the good from the bad rock gardens. A heap of rocks with little earth or plants protruding can scarcely be called a rock garden, while a heap of dirt with a few rocks is just as objectionable.

The complete rock garden provides for many different conditions of soil and drainage, and holds a good variety of plants. If a water course trickles through it, the plants requiring most moisture should be near the base of the stream, while the more arid plants protrude from ledges at the sides and top. The alpines and taller plants should form an informal outline for the entire picture, at the rear and sides.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight")

Determination is usually rated as one of the cardinal virtues and it seems to play a considerable part in the game of contract bridge.

In yesterday's play-a-problem East and West determined that they were going to make a little slam. And a little slam they made in the face of all the rules laid down by the bridge scientist. This was the hand:

NORTH
♠—K,J,10,5,3
♥—A,J,7,4

WEST
♠—8,2
♥—9,8
♦—K,J,9,7

♠—A,Q,9
♦—A,Q,2
♣—Q,7,4

SOUTH.
♠—7,6,4
♥—10,6,2
♦—10,8,5,3
♣—J,9,8

East dealt and bid two no-trump. South passed and West took out with three clubs. North bid three spades. East bid four no-trumps. South passed. West went six no-trumps which closed the bidding.

You will note that East and West between them had only a no-trump count of 30—19 in East's hand and 11 in West's hand. However, you must grant them a little more than pure determination to buck the law of average. In the first place, West had followed my general theory in showing a strong minor rather than raising the partner's no-trump, when that minor is headed by at least one high card trick and is at least five cards in length. This enables East to see that holding the Q and two small clubs the club suit should set up and he should have two low card tricks in the clubs, and it is very likely that he has a full five tricks in clubs.

In addition to this, North's defensive bid of three spades showed East where at least the ♠ K was located and very likely the J and leads East to be reasonably sure that he has two top tricks in spades. It also allowed East to tell West that he had the spades stopped at least twice and at the same time he could take the first trick in spades or he would never have ventured the slam suggestion made by a bid of four no-trump. West can then safely assume that East not only holds the top diamonds but holds strong top hearts since he, himself, has the top in the club suit and half the diamond tops.

South opened the ♠ 7, dummy played the 2, North the 10, and East took the trick with the Q. East now proceeded to cash in his club suit by leading the Q on which dummy laid the 3 and following with the lead of the ♣ 7 which dummy overtook with the K. Dummy then played the ♣ A and followed with the ♣ 10 and 5. On dummy's ♣ 10 and ♣ 5 East discarded the ♠ 9 and the ♥ 3. To the seventh trick West led the ♥ 8, North played the 7, East the K, and South the 2. Declarer then led out the ♦ A and Q and to the tenth trick the ♦ 2 which West [dummy] overtook with the ♦ J. To the eleventh trick dummy led the ♦ K on which East discarded the ♥ 5 and then led the ♠ 8 which East took with the ♠ A. The thirteenth and last trick was captured by North with the ♥ A. East and West made six odd a little slam.

Here is tomorrow's play-a-problem:

NORTH.
♠—8,6
♥—K,Q,9,7,5
♦—10,9,5,4

WEST
♠—K,J,7
♦—A,Q

EAST
♠—10,9,5,4,3
♥—3,2
♦—8,3,2

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—A,Q,2
♥—A,J
♦—K,J,7,6
♣—A,K,4,3

Bid and play the hand and compare your result with that printed tomorrow.

Allowance Is Child's Own Due Like Toys, Food

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

When the matter of the children having an allowance comes up for consideration, there is always a trailer subject. And that is the one of children earning money. Some people tie up the two—earnings and allowances. Should we?

We buy clothes, food and toys for the children and call those things their possessions, because children have to be economically dependent. Why not give them an allowance and let them call that their own, too? Money is no more sacred than food or toys.

Yet, as soon as money is up for notice, many parents feel it is a different matter entirely. Money has always a capital M in some personal dictionaries.

"He should learn that if he is to have money he must earn it." But why? All though his youth a child has to be dependent. Money, though he may not always see it change hands, is what goes to buy the things that eventually he calls his own. He's allowed to say, "My shoes. My books. My playthings." He's not expected to earn those. Why should the comparatively trifling matter of an allowance be so different?

We say, "Here's a pair of jolly red woolen gloves I bought you today." Is it so very different to say, "Here's 25 cents for your allowance. It's your very own."

I see no more reason why a child should be expected to earn his allowance than that he should be expected to earn his clothes. His allowance is given to him so he can learn to use money intelligently, as part of his education as a person.

Let us keep clear in our minds why we give the children an allowance. It is for educational purposes. The question of earning money is an entirely separate one, so we'll talk about it separately tomorrow.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My niece, 5 years old, likes her mother's baking very much and refused to hear it belittled.

One day she was eating some pie which her mother said was a little tough.

"O, no, mother, it isn't tough," said the child.

She left the crust on her plate and her mother said: "It is a little tough, isn't it, dear?"

"No, mother, it isn't," replied the child, "only I haven't good teeth."

New Vicki Baum Novel Termed Good Scenario

Book Far Short of Her "Grand Hotel."

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"And Life Goes On," by Vicki Baum. [Doubleday-Doran.] Published today.

ANY writer with "Grand Hotel" to equal in her (or his) next novel has no mean task set out for her (or him) self. Vicki Baum wrote a superb melodrama in "Grand Hotel." The world has stood outside her window ever since then begging for more. The crumbs which she has thrown to the hungry birdies in "And Life Goes On" have none of the rich nourishment that "Grand Hotel" offered to the public.

VICKI BAUM.

Vicki Baum's latest novel is a swell scenario for a movie or a third or fourth rate serious novel. It has none of the quality of "Grand Hotel." It isn't even convincing mellerdrama.

"And Life Goes On" is the story of a drudge—the wife of a provincial doctor who was very unpopular, the story of a sleepy village in Germany where nothing more important ever happened than the various phases of the feud between the landowner and the owner of the factory. The high moments of Elizabeth's life were the very rare evenings when she and the local (and unpopular) Jewish merchant played piano and violin duets. The low moments—and most of them were low—were when she was emptying the waste baskets filled with cotton, washing towels, or preparing the endless diet of the human experiment which her husband was conducting. Her child was the victim of her husband's "idea"—brought up to show no affection, no timidity, conditioned against life by exposure to illness and misfortune.

Then Fate Enters This Dull World.

Into that almost supernal dullness fate thrusts emotions of the most dazzling and harrying order for the principal characters. A motor accident hurls into the town the leading cinema actress of her day, the boxing champion of Germany, and one of the richest men of the country.

Take a cosmic spoon and do your own mixing—after the formulas of the better cinemas—and you will have the result which Vicki Baum chronicles. To the little drudge there came a romance which she had never dreamed could be, to the cinema queen there came threatened ugliness and eventual triumph, to the doctor there came final recognition of his skill, to the little unpopular Jewish merchant love . . . to everybody something that he didn't expect.

I suppose that "And Life Goes On" will leap into the best seller lists today just because "Grand Hotel" was such a success. And there will be those tens of thousands who will find it a perfect anodyne for the life that ails them. But to the person who can appreciate a good shot of literary morphine as well as the next —and who, after six or seven books a week needs any little literary hypodermic that's available—"And Life Goes On" is just a wee bit on the dull side, despite the fact that things happen in it the way that the balls burst in a roman candle. My suspicions are that Vicki Baum is a one-book woman, that in "Grand Hotel" she did such a superb job of plot knitting that nobody cared whether the writing was awkward and dull or not . . . The writing in "Grand Hotel" was NOT awkward. Vicki Baum's lack of literary finesse was perfectly suited to the material in "Grand Hotel." In "And Life Goes On" the material demands finesse. "And Life Goes On" is the March choice of the Book of the Month club.

Elizabeth Herbert Visits Chicago.

Elizabeth Hamilton Herbert of Detroit, whose "Happy Sinner" was one of the most popular first novels of last year, has been visiting her brother, David Hamilton, who is one of our most prominent (and delightful) local literati. Her new novel is to be published on Thursday. "House of Wives," it will be called. "It is about divorce," she said, "and my publishers and I couldn't agree about the book. I say it is a tragedy, and they think it is a comedy, so we have compromised and it is called a 'tragi-comedy.'" . . . It must be great fun having a brother or a sister who writes books . . . or just having a brother or a sister, so far as that goes. This being an only child, having 'not even a brother of any sort' as Ernest called himself in 'The Importance of Being Ernest' is beginning to get on my nerves. I wish I had been even one of the 'Five Little Peppers'!"

Pola Negri Scores Big Success in Talkie—'A Woman Commands'

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

My guess is that Pola Negri's performance in "A Woman Commands" will bring to her door movie czars bearing contracts.

Miss Negri as Marie Draga, a cabaret singer who, for a brief period becomes queen of Serbia, is a wholly alluring personality. She radiates that unforgettable charm which made her "Du Barry" an outstanding characterization. Her voice, when she speaks, is honey, and when she sings, it is as rich, sweet and seductive as hot butterscotch on vanilla ice cream. (ThereI gomakingmyselfhungrywhenI'mtrying tostaythin!) When she whistles—it is enough to make a nightingale bow its wings with humiliation. Yes, Pola should have been in talkies long before this!

"A Woman Commands" is a lavishly staged and costumed production with a story that is taxing on the credulity, though they do say it is founded on fact.

The action moves rather slowly and theatrically and none of the characters supporting that of Marie Draga are sharply drawn. Basil Rathbone does the best job of the lot as the soldier lover of the heroine. But she nobly gives him up—for his own good—in the early sequences, and his later appearances, somehow or other lack savor—due to direction, I imagine.

In my opinion Roland Young as the amorous king whom Draga weds, is a perfect example of miscasting. Here you have a twinkling-eyed little man —whose dry, offhand wit is the delight of audiences when projected from the sidelines to color and lend zest to dramatic episodes—cast as a Byronic lover who, until he spots Draga, goes from the arms of one woman to those of another and, preferably, is embraced by two pairs at the same time. Enters Draga, and he must portray a tempestuous adorer in the throes of a grande passion! Poor little devil!

The audience of which I was one, simply didn't know what to make of him. They were sure that everything he did was intended to be funny, and they laughed often, half-heartedly and out of turn, except on one occasion when Roland for a moment became the Roland they knew and understood.

On this occasion, the generals are arguing with the king re: his prospective marriage with Draga. They are in a terrible stew over the matter.

"Your father will rise in his grave!" shouts one of them.

"Eh—put a stone on him," says Roland. It is the old Roland speaking —not the rococo king—and we all just howled. . . . And kept on hoping for another good laugh, but it was one of those hopes that maketh the heart sick. From that time on poor Roland was shrouded and gagged by his rôle.

The picture's ending is just too good to be true.

Ah, well—"A Woman Commands" has served two purposes. It shows what Pola CAN and what Roland CAN'T—do.

See you soon!

King George Declines American Stamp Gift

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—(AP)—Dr. Walter F. Shenton, professor of mathematics at American university, offered to do King George of England a kind turn, but met only with an appreciative "no thanks." An enthusiastic stamp collector, Shenton fixed up a complete set of the new Washington bicentennial stamp issue, with first day cancellations, for the British ruler, who also is a philatelist. His offer evoked a letter from the king's private secretary pointing out, with thanks, that the monarch collects British stamps only.

Stylish Hose in All Shops at Low Prices

Colors Important Factor in Selections.

By RHEA SEEGER.

NEW spring hosiery, new lacy patterns, new dull, sheer, nonshining effects, and new low prices for such necessary twin accessories for the fashionable costumes . . . are now on display in all Chicago shops.

Unappreciative souls may smile, but the average woman's idea of hosiery bliss is quite literally dozens of pairs of hose, all guiltless of runs and holes, a complete assortment of colors, shades, and tones, a luxurious array of various weights, from sturdy service chiffons to exquisitely sheer wisps of almost nothing at all for evening. This hosiery heaven can be entered this spring . . . even by the most modest budgeteer, because, along with all a lot of other nice things, hosiery prices are comfortably deflated. This season you can be thriftily extravagant and buy three pairs for the same sum as you used to spend on one.

Smart women are not hosiery hoarders . . . buy them, and wear them in rotation, and surely every woman knows that hose will wear twice as long if they are washed in clear water before you put them on. But the most interesting and important thing to know about hosiery is color, the certain right colors to wear with fashionable clothes, for sports, daytime, and evening wear.

Hosiery Color Important.

The many new lace meshes have an airy disregard for size and shape . . . but quite the sheerest, loveliest mesh for afternoon dresses are new fine delicate lace patterns that are as fragile and cobwebby as the lace they copy . . . but don't let this fragility frighten you away because they will grace your ankles for a surprisingly long time with a small amount of extra and careful rinsings when they are laundered.

Wide open spaces are appropriately correct as sporting propositions for your sports clothes . . . and you can ankle into any smart evening festivity with hose of similar large hole-d specifications, thanks to some understanding hosiery authority . . . and for those who are cautious and correct the medium sized meshes are obligingly sized for daytime, afternoon, and sportswear.

There are some new stockings so designed that they will keep thousands of busybodies working and whispering overtime telling that most exasperating information, "You have a run in your stocking." For once in a lifetime this can be gleefully laughed off, for those stunning new hose are all runs . . . and aside from the impish joy that is possible when you tell all well meaning informers that "they are made that way" . . . these sheerib stockings are divinely slenderizing and flattering on your ankles. Sheerib hosiery is very sheer and is worn for daytime with tailored suits and dresses.

Hints for Color Conscious Shoppers.

New shades for color conscious shoppers are:

Light beige, worn light beige and pastel colors and black and white.

Brown beige . . . a medium beige with a yellow cast, suggested for costumes in the new shades of yellow and beige.

Matin . . . a deep taupe with a rose cast, to be worn with black, the new blue shades, and all medium colors.

Ming . . . a taupe with a gray cast, worn with black, blue, and medium colors and the new prints.

Smoketone . . . a deep gunmetal with a suggestion of brown, very smart with black, black and white combinations, and all the darker colors for street wear.

Nassau . . . a deep suntan, which is ideal with brown and white combinations as well as medium colors.

Maude Adams and Otis Skinner Given Welcome; They Earn It

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Maude Adams, returned to the stage after thirteen years of retirement, and Otis Skinner, her senior as a star and ever faithful to his harness as a trouper, brought their staging of "The Merchant of Venice" to the Studebaker theater last night—she as Portia, of course, and he as Shylock. They met with a warm and well earned welcome, for the passage of time has not yet dulled the edge of their skill nor put a damper upon their ardor. The two veterans gave a vivid and winning account of themselves.

The word to be passed about Miss Adams in this phase of her career, which is probably its epilogue, is that she is still Maude Adams. That is to say, in the rôle of Portia she expresses her personality—familiar and beloved by the older generation of playgoers—by the method that was characteristic of her well remembered parts. It is a method that was established in and colored by the plays of J. M. Barrie.

The old charm is still eagerly at work. She is still the jaunty and laughing comedienne, often speaking through ripples of quiet but deepseated mirth. Here is an animated and gay Portia, with quizzical, teasing eyes, with head held high and frequently tossed in blitheness of spirit, and with a romantic intensity in every attitude.

She has aged even less than might have been expected, and in nervous force, in the dashing release of energy after a moment of repose which was a part of her technical equipment, she has not aged at all. The contour of the head, the coiffure, the profile, are the Maude Adams that we used to know and dote upon; and her hands—where veteran actresses are most sadly betrayed—are truly young.

Miss Adams reads Shakespeare, in whose works she is not highly practiced, with grace and skill, in a diction that has been her most characteristic trait. She has, to be plain, a definite accent, which can only be described as the Maude Adams brogue.

She acquired something like a permanent Scotch burr when she started on her long march down the years with Barrie's heroines of Scotland; and it has remained with her—an odd, tightened, droll method of speech that has been one of the factors of her charm, although it has often caused the purists to mutter in remonstrance.

In the rôle of Portia, probably because Elizabethan English has a lilt like that of the citizens of Dublin, Miss Adams occasionally sounds almost Scotch-Irish. Such a word as "sentences," for example, comes out as "sintinces," and "one" sounds almost as if it had been written, in the Mr. Dooley dialect, as "wan." A close study of Miss Adams' phonetics would, I feel, make a jolly little essay.

To pass from Miss Adams, who is the news interest of the première, to Mr. Skinner, who has the dominating rôle in the production, it may be said that here you will find a picturesque, sound, and dynamic study of the character of Shylock. He gives a rich and sober dignity to the Venetian usurer in appearance, and treats his emotional storms with fine theatrical effect. He sentimentalizes the character, according to the general modern tendency; he is a weeping Shylock in effective contrast to the laughing Portia.

Being a gentle soul, never strong in the moods of bitterness and cruelty, Mr. Skinner does not attain much menacing potency in the Jew's malignant clamor for his revenge. However, the characterization rates, as it has for many years, as one of the fine Shylocks of the American theater.

The other rôles are fairly well cast, when the shortage of Shakespearean actors is taken into consideration, and the staging is satisfactory in the routine manner—a manner, that is to say, which used to be routine, but which is now almost extinct.

The last word on Miss Adams is that she is not one of the great Portias, but is still a great lady of the theater and a vivid personality.

Woman's Exchange Has Spring Party After Week of Cleaning

Many Improvements Are Made in Arrangement and Decoration of Shop.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Woman's exchange, after a topsy-turvy week of cleaning and redecorating, had a regular spring opening party yesterday at luncheon time. The combined shop and lunchroom, newly outfitted in pale green and coral, is now one of the most attractive and cheeriest places in the row of smart shops on upper Michigan avenue.

A partition or two has been knocked down, the cashier's cage moved over to a less conspicuous corner, and display cases pushed into more convenient nooks, with the result that the place seems to have become appreciably larger.

All of the walls, the staircase, and the little glass topped display tables have been painted a pale green and the windows and the door are draped in filmy coral hangings. The luncheon tables have covers of peach colored oilcloth bound in black.

The new arrangement makes room in the rear of the shop for a bigger display of negligees and children's garments. The shop's attractive stock of linens, dishes, boudoir accessories, lamps, and numerous other articles looks lovelier than ever in the new spic and span surroundings.

All of the decorating, except the painting, was done by the women of the shop's own staff. They made the draperies and the table covers, trimmed the windows and showcases, and took inventory during the upheaval of last week.

Among those who were serving at the buffet luncheon table yesterday were Mrs. Champ Carry, Mrs. Henry W. Farnum, and Miss Helen Gurley, and Mrs. Frederick W. Keith, Mrs. Sangston Hettler, and Mrs. Harold Beacom will be there today. The young women who do this work for the exchange are very conscientious about their work and they never allow other engagements to interfere with their days at the exchange.

Many Interesting Affairs Today.

On today's calendar are several interesting affairs; a two piano recital by Harriet Lowden Madlener and her guest from Boston, Charlotte R. Smith, for the benefit of Grant hospital, the recital to be given at 3 o'clock at the Nurses' home, 536 Webster avenue; a lecture this morning at 11:30 o'clock in the Diana Court salon by Mary Hastings Bradley for the benefit of the Lower North Community council; the third of five lectures for the benefit of the Chapel Guild of the Cenacle, at the residence of Mrs. William Roy Carney, 3400 Sheridan road; Mrs. Anthony French Merrill's first talk on current events and recent books at the Woman's Athletic club at 11 o'clock; a meeting of Le Cercle Français at 2 o'clock, with an unusually nice program; a meeting of the Junior Friends of Art at 2:30 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Illinois Women's Athletic club, and the first of a series of teas given Tuesdays at the Illinois Women's Athletic club.

Today's tea from 3 to 5 o'clock will be for Dr. Hugo Ferdinand Simon, consul general of Germany, and Mrs. Simon. Dr. Vernon B. Herbst will show motion pictures taken in India at the Junior Friends of Art meeting, and his wife, Mae Rosenwald Herbst, will sing a group of songs. Mrs. Arthur Byfield, Miss Polly Gerts, Miss Dorcas Perrenoud, and Mme. Rachel Descoubes will give the program at Le Cercle meeting, which will be followed by a reception for the new French consul, M. Weiller, and Mme. Weiller.

The Rev. Robert Howard Lord will talk on "The Peace Conference of Paris—Thirteen Years Afterwards," at Mrs. Carney's residence.

The woman's auxiliary of St. James' church will hold its monthly meeting this morning at 10 o'clock; Mrs. Percy Cook will talk on "The Church Home for the Aged." Mrs. Robert F. Hill is president of the auxiliary.

Rummage Sales This Week.

The Mount Vernon Seminary alumnae have been busy for weeks collecting "white elephants" for their annual rummage sale for the benefit of Northwestern settlement and now they are getting the things marked and ready for sale on Thursday.

Miss Katherine Street is Winnetka chairman, Miss Margery Riach and Mrs. John Merriman are Evanston cochairmen, and Miss Isabel Gordon, Miss Susan Wegener and Mrs. William M. Walker Jr. have been in charge of the Chicago collections. They all will assist at the sale which will be held at 1565 Sherman avenue, Evanston.

The junior auxiliary of the Children's Memorial hospital will have a sale of spring hats at the Rummage shop, 27 East Ohio street, Friday. Mrs. Woodberry S. Agar Jr. is president of the auxiliary and assisting her at the sale will be Miss Elizabeth Drake, Miss Katherine Drake, Mrs. William Drake, Mrs. James Vaughn, Miss Beatrice Borland, Miss Marion Clow, Miss Lyla Woodruff, Mrs. Howard H. Bartling, and Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell.

Future events of interest include an illustrated lecture on "The Forbidden City" by Benjamin March, curator of Asiatic art at the Detroit Institute of Arts, under the joint auspices of the Orientals and American Friends of China. The lecture will be given in Fullerton hall of the Art institute on March 9 at 3:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Murry Nelson is planning a tea for Miss Alice Conway of the national field staff of the Girl Scouts and Mrs. Walter Cavanaugh, regional chairman, on Friday at the Woman's City club. Among those assisting will be Mrs. William S. Monroe, Mrs. A. F. Callahan, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, and Miss Martha Sarver.

There are only a few reservations unsold for the sightseeing trips to the World's Fair buildings and to Chinatown which Mrs. Frank Hibbard is sponsoring tomorrow and Thursday. The buses which will convey the passengers will leave Conveniences, Mrs. Hibbard's office, at 106 East Oak street, at 10:15 o'clock each morning. Proceeds will go to the charities to which Mrs. Hibbard turns over the profits from the services handled at her little office.

Baby Just Misses Leap Year Birthday.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Williamson's newest grandbaby just missed being one of those little boys who only have a birthday once in four years, for he was born late Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. John Bancroft Hammond [Betty Williamson] at the Toronto General hospital. Mrs. Williamson will be going to Toronto very soon to see the new baby and to visit her son-in-law and daughter in their brand new house in Peterboro, a delightful little place not far from Toronto.

Mrs. Otho Fisher Ball, who is convalescing from a brief illness, hasn't made any definite plans about her annual trip to Europe because her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wellesley of London, are contemplating a voyage to South America in April, and Mrs. Ball is hoping they will fly north for a visit with her.

If the former Betty Ball and her new husband do decide to come to Chicago in the spring, we're sure her old friends here will welcome them with a deluge of entertaining. Dr. Ball has been in New York for about 10 days and had a visit last week-end with his son, Peter Ball, who is at Williams college.

Mrs. Arthur Cutten and Mrs. Allan M. Clement have arrived at Miami Beach after a stay at Palm Beach. Among other Chicagoans at Miami, which is at the height of its seasonal gayety just now, are Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. McCulloch, Mr. and Mrs. James Norris, and Mr. and Mrs. Perry H. Kenly.

Mrs. Daniel Peterkin of 199 Lake Shore drive and her daughter, Miss Jeanette Peterkin, sailed on Saturday for Europe and won't be back in these parts until May, when it will be time to close the family's town apartment and move to Lake Geneva for the summer.

More News of the Travelers.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Miller of 233 East Delaware place have left for a three weeks' holiday in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthiessen of 181 Lake Shore drive, who have been wintering at their residence in Beverly Hills, Cal., spent several days last week at Coronado Beach.

Mrs. Jefferson Jackson and Mrs. Welch Dickinson are in Los Angeles, after a sojourn in Phoenix.

Dr. Julia C. Strawn and her sister, Mrs. Ida Strawn Randall, are motoring to Florida. They will visit the gardens at Charleston and Savannah on their way back and then stop at Washington and at Virginia Hot Springs.

Miss Martha Borland, the Chauncey B. Borlands' subdeb daughter, who's studying at Dobbs Ferry, spent last week-end with her mother in New York. Mrs. Borland is to remain in the east for about 10 days.

Stuart Logan, who went east last week with Mrs. Logan to visit his son-in-law and daughter, the Joseph Terbells, in New York, has returned to Chicago. Mrs. Logan is prolonging her visit with the Terbells.

Mrs. Donald S. McWilliams of 5836 Stony Island avenue will open her residence on Thursday afternoon for a lecture by Princess Marina Wolkonsky entitled "Reminiscences of My Life in Russia" for the benefit of the infant welfare work of the Kenwood Social Service club.

Studio Exhibit of Alice Bradley Wins Approval

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The younger generation is already making itself felt. An exhibit by Alice Hastings Bradley, daughter of Mary Hastings Bradley, the explorer and writer, opens this afternoon in the studio gallery, Increase Robinson director, Diana Court building. The exhibit includes drawings and water colors made by Miss Bradley on her last journey through Africa.

They would be interesting coming from a mature hand. When one realizes that they are the work of a girl who will be sixteen next August, they become extraordinary. Mrs. Bradley says her daughter was born with a pencil in her mouth instead of a silver spoon, and has been using the pencil ever since. At the age of eight and again at ten Alice Bradley illustrated a book for children. Last autumn a series of her drawings appeared in the New Yorker. Although she is still a schoolgirl her reputation is being made as an unusually gifted person.

There are in the current exhibit a few drawings typically illustrative in character and there are others which are distinctly art, that is, made for no other purpose than to carry their own individual message. You will enjoy the portraits of the "Black Queens." One of these has a glittering come-hither look in her eyes which is delightfully intelligible. Evidently women are sisters under the skin whether they come from the jungle or the city street. We have seen the same glance in many a sketch of an enterprising occidental flirt.

Miss Bradley shows us a tired giraffe whose long neck and feeble legs are most amusing. Her sketch from a car of a number of Cameroon babies is clever. She hits off the little black children with a sympathetic pen. Her larger sketch of a mother and child is solid, sensitive and beautiful. The man chopping is another remarkable study. These natives of hers are real people. The "Hausa Stallions" are full of fire and spirit; the drawing is one of the best. An oil of a native woman dressing another's hair is excellently handled.

The exhibit will continue only through Friday of this week. It is worth seeing, if only as a forecast of an American artist who will undoubtedly be heard from in her generation.

String Quartet Is Success in Debut Program

Unusual Voice Is Another Musical Event.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

A newly organized string quartet, the Philharmonic, made its first public appearance in the foyer of Orchestra hall last night and seemed to have rather decisively converted a debut into a success. Its component parts are members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra; John Weicher, first violin; Elmar Swanson, second violin; Walter Hancock, viola, and Richard Wagner, cello.

These are talented and highly trained individual musicians. They would seem to have worked together until they have become a talented and highly trained ensemble. There were times during their performance when they appeared to be striving, perhaps a bit unduly, after a big tone. Generally, however, their balance was excellent, their combined tone of fine quality, and the give-and-take among the instruments of a flexible and expert order. These are the qualities that make good ensemble playing.

Their program was a blend of the classical and contemporary. It began with the quartet in C, opus 37, by Karol Szymánowski of Poland, a composer who carries the banner of modernism among the most radical and has something to say of real interest and musical value while he carries it. It continued with a serenade by Leo Sowerby of Chicago, who was inspired with a light hearted, though not light minded, idea of graceful humor when he wrote it, and developed the idea into a friendly and persuasive composition, one of his best. Finally the Philharmonic turned back to music of another era and closed its program with the Beethoven Quartet in G, opus 18, No. 2. It should be heard again and frequently.

A voice of range so unusual as to soar far beyond what composers have been in the habit of writing for it was heard at Kimball hall last night. It classifies as soprano, it belongs to Virginia LeRae, and it made its first Chicago appearance on this occasion.

What can be said of a voice that sings the B flat above high C, having previously sung the B flat below middle C and thus covered three full octaves? That was done on the first number, "Ernani, involami" from Verdi's opera, "Ernani." The high note, of course, was an interpolation. Later she was announced to sing a C, a tone higher, but the presence of the Philharmonic quartet prevented its hearing.

Rather curiously, Miss LeRae's voice in its ordinary compass does not in the least belong in the freak category. Such a thing might have been expected, but her voice is full toned, resonant, and highly effective. The lofty B flat was considerably thinner in quality than the rest of the register, but it was legitimate and pure.

Miss Le Rae's principal need just now is stage management. A feat of that sort needs preparation and encouragement. Then the audience would realize what an extraordinary thing is happening. She is fully deserving of all possible acclaim, even the manufactured kind, because she is a singer as well as the possessor of a marvelous compass.

Fashion Furnishes a Coiffure Style for Every Type of Girl

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you've noticed any of the recent publicity from hairdressing quarters you'll see rows upon rows of "sausage" curls. Fat 'uns they look, in the illustrations, and running anywhere from above the ears in front to the nape of the neck.

I wonder if they'll catch on! I've got my doubts, time being what it is for most women—and money what it hasn't been for a couple of years. However, coiffures are akin to the millinery adaptations of a season. You wind up wearing what you think is most becoming.

In all my experience I have never known a time when so wide, so charming and so varied are the coiffure styles. If a woman cannot get a "knockout" in hair arrangement this year, it's her own fault. There are simple arrangements, almost plain arrangements, softly girlish coiffs and eccentric ones—all kinds of suggestions for your locks to follow, in fact.

But out of the maze of styles I'd pick the wide waved, medium bob as the winner. The hair is but a couple of inches long in back, just long enough to turn up or under gracefully. The waves are very, very wide. There is little if any wave atop the head. Or, in the case of long hair—the simple, well thinned out underhair and the neat roll at the nape of the neck seems best.

There's a Palm Beach bob featured in one of the hairdressing trade papers which has a lovely cap-like silhouette, its ends not more than an inch below the hairline in back and these softly waved or curled, with the curls well combed out.

The top of the head is almost straight and sleek, the waves appearing just beneath the crown in back and at the ear on the sides. Small tendrils of hair, curled at the ends, give the new note of interest. They call this an adaptation of the English "mingle" bob.

The long, fluffy bob seems to have had its death knell sung in hairdressing style circles, even though it has many adherents still. It does not seem to fit the style of clothes now. Watching the screen appearance of a well known movie star playing a queen rôle, in her most imperial moments appearing with a long, untapered, gaminish bob, the effect was ludicrous. The style of dress has to be taken into consideration with coiffure arrangement.

CARLSBAD SALT

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid Arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Men Shy Away from the Girls Who Chase 'Em

They Want to Be the Ones Who Pursue.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Speaking of leap year as a young English writer and lecturer does in one of the current monthly magazines, you'd better not speak of it. You girls had better forget that your opportunity comes once in four years, for what may look like opportunity to you may be just another boring year to the man you plan to corner and drag a "yes" out of. Another year to him, a bit more hectic, possibly, of running for dear life in the opposite direction.

What's wrong with the whole girl menagerie, it appears, is that in the intervening years between last leap year and this and a previous similiar stretch of time they never dropped the leap year idea. They've taken the pursuing job completely out of male hands. And the men hate it. They want the old-time duty back again. And until they get it, leap year as going to be to them just another year of wishing the aggressive creatures would go back to their knitting and let man experience again the joys of a hunt "for a wild and swift limbed quarry," as the writer referred to puts it.

The knitting implied is done with the exercise of "reserved" charms, as we interpret it. Instead of reaching for the powder puff, tilting the chin, batting the eyelashes and forcing a compliment, the process recommended is to wait for the cue from the man; wait until he is in the mood for lovemaking.

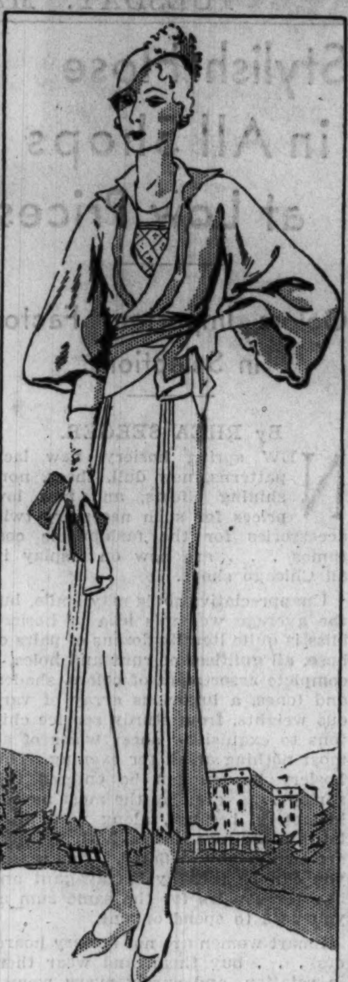
Girls, it appears from the complaint, have developed a one-track mind and a one cable action. They fail to realize that there are moments when men would talk, when men would dream, sing, do anything but make love. They won't learn that charm in a woman is not injecting her personal self into every discussion, every theater play, into every occasion of companionship. The trick is not in trying to force attention but awaiting the psychological moment when a man is in tune, himself, with the well known love melody. Then the girl may turn on her charms full blast and believe that hers is a conquest of the primeval male.

The capacity for forgetting love instead of the constant exhibition of an omniverous capacity for love is the course suggested for more voluntary male coöperation in the big marriage idea, leap year or any other year. So sayeth the male!

Paris Silk Suit Designed for Spring May Camouflage Itself as a Dress



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Silk suits are ticketed for chic this coming spring and summer. They are logical successors to the smart tailored suit of cloth that is being worn early in the season. There is, however, a big difference in the effect of the silk and the cloth suit. The latter is tailored and simple, while the former frequently has a picturesque aspect. Louiseboulanger is making suits that camouflage themselves as dresses, having jackets which look more like blouses.

One of these suits is shown in our sketch. It is made of brown charmeuse, and the jacket has the big sleeves that Louiseboulanger is featuring. These sleeves are worn pushed up to the elbows as shown, or they may be let down to full length.

The body of the jacket is just like that of a surpliced blouse, and it ties around the waistline and is knotted on the left side. Bands of coral colored charmeuse border the closing and the sash. Double pointed revers are placed at the sides of the neckline of this jacket. There is no collar.

The brown charmeuse skirt is plaited in clusters at the sides of the front and the back.

Under the jacket is a short jumper blouse of brown charmeuse embroidered all over in a crossbarred and flower pattern worked out in coral and gold thread.

Ewing Sisters Enjoy Teaching at Hull House

Realize Ambitions of Childhood.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

WHENEVER Charles Hull Ewing asked his two small daughters a few years ago what they would rather do than anything else, nine times out of ten they replied, "Go to Hull house."

They liked the ride in father's high, open door automobile; they loved to roam through the great big old fashioned mansion, and most of all they enjoyed watching their little Italian, Jewish, and Greek brothers and sisters act on the settlement stage. "Some day," Katherine would say to Helen on the way home, "I am going to live in Hull house." And Helen would answer, "So am I."

Today they are realizing that childhood ambition and at the same time giving expression to their "best" hobby—acting and helping others to act. Last November Katherine and Helen Ewing forgot about the luxuries of their Lake Forest home to take up residence at Hull house, where they had obtained permission from their friend, Jane Addams, to assist in teaching dramatic art to all the little Thespians of the tenement neighborhood.

Family Interest in Settlement.

"And it's been the grandest experience we've ever had," Katherine told enthusiastically yesterday. "In a way it has been amusing, for we had expected to see a good deal of Miss Addams, whom we have known for years, and as it has turned out we haven't seen her at all because of her illness. Now she's going down to Florida to visit our family there. But it is her influence here and the atmosphere she has created that make living in the settlement such a joy."

The association between the Ewing family and Hull house has always been an intimate one as Mr. Ewing has been a member of the board of trustees for almost 40 years. Then, too, Charles J. Hull, the original builder and owner of the house that was taken for the settlement, was a cousin of Mr. Ewing and Miss Helen Culver, who had inherited the property from Mr. Hull and gave Miss Addams free leasehold in 1889, was the great aunt of Katherine and Helen.

"It was this relationship and father's interest in the settlement that prompted the family to dress us in our best ruffles and take us to the the west side when were little," Miss Katherine explained. "Best of all I remember our Christmas trips, for the holiday season was never complete without seeing the cantata at Hull house. Helen and I were always impressed that they used real babies in the performances."

In discussing her work at the settlement, Miss Ewing stressed the creative genius of the foreign children and the contributions made by Miss Edith De Nancrede, director of dramatic art.

Finds Children Very Clever.

"When I talked to Miss Addams last summer at Bar Harbor about coming to Hull house, she said I must remember it wasn't like teaching north shore children," Miss Ewing went on to tell, "and it isn't. All of the youngsters come here voluntarily—it is their outlet, their means of expression. They are so much more natural—so much more clever than many of our 'best' children."

Congress Summons Dramatic Critics as Destroyers of Stage

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—(AP)—Critical dramatic critics were called today by the house patents committee to appear in person for a lambasting on charges that they have made a financial tragedy of the legitimate theater.

The storm broke on their absent heads with the suddenness of a coincidence in an old fashioned melodrama. Chairman Sirovich, who wrote a play himself not long ago, said more harsh things about them than they ever did about a show with a lisping ingenue.

Three newspaper men and three committee members sat rather listlessly at a routine hearing of the committee, but they sat up as the chairman called the "destructive" critics "graduate describers of prize fights and horse races."

The committee members agreed with Sirovich.

He insisted—and the committee members agreed—that adverse criticism of plays was responsible more than any other factor for the fact that four out of five legitimate dramas are financial failures.

The chairman said he thought dramatic critics should have a license.

BY MARY MEADE.

Although cabbage is one of the earliest known vegetables, it has come to be considered plebeian food in American homes. Yet, many years ago the Egyptians worshiped this modest vegetable as a god, and it was the first dish on their banquet menus. Later on the cabbage strayed into Roman and Grecian menus and was again treated with reverence and respect. The Romans attributed medical powers to it—in fact, the learned Cato announced that cabbage had given his family immunity from serious illness. That's a lot of credit to give one humble vegetable!

We are not advancing any such claims for cabbage to you, Cato to the contrary. Inasmuch as cabbage has some proven virtues of which to boast, you may decide for yourself just how frequently it will grace your table. Cabbage is, primarily, of value to you for a bulk food. It has calcium, phosphorous, and iron value which, together with its splendid vitamin C and B content, should make the lowly cabbage of peerage rank! Remembering that cabbage is alkaline in reaction is another strong point in its favor, for we have a tendency to eat a larger percentage of acid forming foods.

A palatable and healthful way of serving cabbage is to cook it for seven minutes in boiling water, drain well, and serve hot with butter and light salt and pepper seasoning. Count the cooking time as beginning when the cabbage has attained the boiling point, and then count the seven minutes by the clock.

Baked cabbage with cheese, scallop fashion, or baked with bacon and diced onion make excellent luncheon dishes, or supper entrées. When it is baked with strips of bacon, cook the cabbage first, and then drain it thoroughly before placing it in a casserole. Begin with a layer of cabbage, then a layer of thin bacon strips, and a teaspoonful of chopped onion. Season each layer as you progress with a sprinkling of sugar, salt, and pepper. Pour over the whole about one cup of cooking wine for each four cups of cooked cabbage, and bake in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees Fahrenheit] for forty-five minutes.

This is a dish which should be served right from the casserole in which the food was baked. Sometimes an apple is pared and diced and added to the layer of onion and bacon strips for additional flavor. If the apple is tart, be a little more generous with your sprinkling of sugar.

Since this is our year to be thrifty, let's do it with grace, and with—cabbage, among other things. The stalks of cabbage make a delicious dish when they are properly seasoned in their cooking. Instead of discarding them use the stalks as follows: Trim the outside to remove the tough part of the stalk. Then place the stalks in boiling water and cook them rapidly until tender. Remove from the water and drain. While they are cooking make a medium white sauce with two tablespoons of butter, two of flour, and one cup of milk. Add the stalks to the sauce. Season to taste with salt, pepper, and paprika, and serve piping hot on white or whole wheat toast. The stalks for this method of cooking should be cut about four inches long.

If You Walk in Desert

Miss Maryln Young of New York shows the proper style for walking in a desert. She is pictured at Palm Springs, Cal., a desert resort. The outfit is a yellow knit ensemble and the pajamas are held up by suspenders of broad web. A turban completes the outfit.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Feb. 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Frank N. Doubleday, will start for Palm Beach tomorrow to remain until April.

Mrs. Herbert Pulitzer is expected back on Wednesday from Kingstree, S. C.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken, Gen. and Mrs. Ivor Thordgray, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Van Vleck Jr. gave dinners this evening in the seaglade of the St. Regis before the first in a series of eight opera nights with Rafaelo Diaz.

Mr. and Mrs. David T. Dana and David T. Dana Jr. have returned from Pinehurst.

Dietrich Orders Full Dress Suit of White for Song Act

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 28.—Marlene Dietrich is offering a new thrill for her admirers. In "Morocco" she caused a sensation with her costume in the café, a man's full dress suit with a silk hat, when she sang her song. Now she's had a new white full dress suit ordered from her pet tailor, who also tailors Garbo's mannish clothes, and Von Sternberg's abstracted look these days is probably due to his anxiety to find a hit song for her that will top "Falling in Love Again" so she can wear the white suit when she sings it.

Jack Gilbert is a man of parts. He not only is an actor of consequence but for years earned his living as a scenario writer and director before becoming the hit in the "Merry Widow," etc. Now he's sold a story to his studio in which he will be starred and to prove he's a regular intellectual he is fast becoming the toughest chess player in Hollywood. Not that he would have much competition here, but they do say he's very good at it.

Phil Scheuer, who reviews films for the Los Angeles Times, cracks one worth reprinting. His description of a typical program picture: "Millions for offense but not one cent for repute."

Rex Ingram is returning to Hollywood to direct films for Fox. This means Rex has deserted his studio at Nice and all the pleasant living conditions there which he used to say he would never give up. A flop company in London ate up his money and now it is necessary to make some more.

The sum that Jack Pickford settled on Mary Mulhern during their rapid fire business-like and uncontested divorce here last week is unofficially told me to be "somewhat in excess of $20,000."

Joan Bennett is riding again. Riding a horse that her director in "She Wanted a Millionaire" told her to stay off cost her a broken hip last July 28 and about six months in a hospital.

CAPITOL ECHOES TO A POMMELING OF REPUBLICANS

Friends of Garner Turn On the Noise.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—Answering the beckoning call of June and the conventions, politics blossomed in congress today. The sprout that was sought to be trained up was the candidacy of Speaker John N. Garner, the Democratic Texan.

Over in the senate Gardener Tom Connally, also Texan, also Democratic, cultivated the soil with a reply to Republican George Moses' week-end attack on the speaker. He hoed and hacked away at President Hoover, the administration's record and Republicanism in general, until in the end Mr. Moses of New Hampshire was led to remark that:

"There has beat upon my devoted head for an hour and a half a storm of sound and fury which gives color to the prevalent belief that in the senate one speaks without limitation of time and no relation to the subject before the house."

Cites New Hampshire.

But this remark and an added taunt about Texas having gone for Hoover in 1928 served but to revive Mr. Connally's waning enthusiasm. It served to recall to Mr. Connally the recent congressional election in New Hampshire in which despite Mr. Moses' eloquent stumping for the Republican candidate the voters decided on a Democrat—the second such overturn since the civil war.

Over in the house, meanwhile, another tiller of the political soil was at work—Representative John McDuffie [Dem., Ala.], a new recruit to the ranks of the Garner gardeners.

Another deadlock like that of the Democratic convention of 1924, said he, in a prepared statement, would be disastrous; the thing to do, of course, was to select "a man whose qualifications and availability would assure his election."

In Mr. McDuffie's judgment, Speaker Garner is "such a man."

Slams Administration.

But the McDuffie eulogy was not to be compared for vigor with the Connally tirade.

Now that the administration has got its relief program through, Senator Connally insinuated, it is ready to abrogate its peace pact with the Democrats, throw over its former allies, and destroy "any one who becomes prominent in the Democrat party and who may be possibly a candidate or nominee of the party for President."

"If any one led us into the panic or backed us into the panic it was the President and the Republican senate and house," said the senator.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart interrupted to ask how the Democratic party stood on the farm question, prohibition, power and unemployment. Senator Connally ducked the Iowa radical's question, but retorted:

"If the Democratic party does not follow its leaders any better than the senator from Iowa follows the leadership of the senator from New Hampshire we shall not be able to get very far with any sort of program."

"The senator from New Hampshire doesn't lead me," protested Senator Brookhart.

Aairs Brookhart's Politics.

"The senator from Iowa is a Republican in name only," Senator Connally went on. "He is just as bitter an antagonist of the present administration as any Democrat dare be. Yet he is afraid of anything that happens to bear the Democratic label."

"I'm only afraid of jumping from the frying pan into the fire," answered Senator Brookhart.

"O, I'll grant," Senator Connally shot back, "that the senator from Iowa is in one or the other most of the time."

Senator Connally blamed the administration for extravagance, lauded the Democratic leadership for economy. He wondered why Republican leaders who had helped pump up the inflated bull market of 1929 now thought it a crime to speculate on the short side of the market.

Just to complete the day, Representative L. C. Warren [Dem., N. C.] took a swing at Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, who yesterday criticized the passage by the house of the Democratic 132 million dollar road bill.

"It is a piece of unmitigated gall," he remarked, "for Secretary Hyde to upbraid the Democratic house for passing the first piece of legislation that will give a job to a single human being when his own party sat by impotent, suggesting nothing."

PATMAN RENEWS MELLON ATTACK IN HOUSE DEBATE

Hoover Like Roosevelt? Democrats Laugh.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—Charges that Andrew W. Mellon, while secretary of the treasury, had forced contractors to use aluminum rather than steel or wood in the construction of government buildings were repeated in the house today by Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.] during debate on the treasury and postoffice department appropriation bill.

Representative Patman, author of the impeachment charges recently brought against former Secretary Mellon, asserted that in practically all government contract specifications upon which contractors base their bids the treasury department insisted that aluminum be substituted for other materials wherever possible.

The Texas representative pointed out that "the Mellon interests" had a virtual monopoly on aluminum in this country and then launched into a heated denunciation of the former treasury secretary which ended with the statement that his removal from the treasury portfolio to the ambassadorship to England was a result of rising sentiment against him.

The administration was attacked on another point during the day's debate when Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.] rose in opposition to the appropriation of $116,299 for the White House police guard. Mr. Blanton declared 48 officers were not necessary to guard the executive mansion.

The Democratic side of the house burst into laughter when Representative Stafford [Rep., Wis.], in answering Mr. Blanton, referred to President Hoover as a "dynamic leader, comparable to Roosevelt."

SEIZE TAILORING CO. HEAD AFTER FIRE; 4 INJURED

Meyer Goldstein, 35 years old, owner of the Thompson Tailoring company, was arrested last night in his home at 1252 South Keeler avenue, shortly after fire of alleged incendiary origin broke out in the company's establishment at 189 West Madison street. He was seized on the order of Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan.

The blaze, which caused about $1,000 damage, resulted in injuries to Chief Anthony Durkin of the 1st fire battalion and three firemen, William Binacola, Edward Corrigan, and William Sagert. They were cut by falling glass. Chief Durkin requested an inquiry. He said gasoline had been sprinkled about the floor.

Later Golden Suggs, 4537 St. Lawrence avenue, Negro watchman in the building, told Attorney Sheehan that he saw Goldstein and two other men emerge from the tailoring plant just before the fire broke out. The other two men are sought. Goldstein is being held at the detective bureau.

CAPTIVE FREED ON BONDS.

Clarence Sipple, 47 years old, who was arrested Saturday at the Morrison hotel, was released in bonds of $2,500 by Judge Donald S. McKinlay yesterday pending action on a charge that he stole a $1,000 diamond ring from Miss Alice Dickerson in Cincinnati.

CHAMPIONS OPEN BATTLE FOR GOLDEN GLOVES

NORTHWESTERN QUINTET DEFEATS OHIO STATE, 26-19

WILDCAT RALLY IN SECOND HALF BRINGS VICTORY

Purdue Overwhelms Illinois, 34-19.

Columbus, O., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—Northwestern's basketball team eliminated another obstacle in its path to the Big Ten championship tonight by defeating Ohio State, 26 to 19.

The Wildcats were completely outplayed during the first half and held scoreless for eight minutes, while the Buckeyes were scoring 8 points.

Through Reiff's basket and free throw and two free throws by Farber, the Wildcats brought their total score up to four for 17 minutes of the first half.

Wildcats Tie Score.

Here the Buckeyes began to weaken and Mattison's basket brought the score to 10, ending the Ohio scoring for the period. In the three remaining minutes, however, the Wildcats rallied to tie the score at 10 all at half time. This was brought about by a long basket by Smith from far past the middle of the floor and a short shot by Johnson. A free throw was contributed by Smith. The guarding throughout the first half was nearly perfect. The work of Capt. Hoffer and Mattison of Ohio State and Farber and Smith of Northwestern stood out.

Coming back at the half, Ohio scored first on Brown's free throw, but Northwestern took the lead with McCarnes' basket. The Buckeyes then went ahead with Hoffer's basket, and the score was tied by Farber's penalty toss.

N. U. Takes Lead.

Here the Wildcats took a lead they never relinquished, with two baskets, by Smith and Reiff. With the score at 17 to 13, the best Ohio could do was add two baskets by Brown and two fouls, by Lively and Hoffer, while McCarnes, Johnson, and Reiff scored and four free throws were added.

PURDUE, 34; ILLINOIS, 15

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—Purdue retained its leadership in the Big Ten basketball race here tonight with a second half attack that caught Illinois flat-footed in the second half and enabled the Boilermakers to secure revenge for an earlier defeat, 34 to 19. The game marked Purdue's fifteenth win in sixteen games so far this season, and as a result of Northwestern's victory over Ohio State tonight, the Big Ten title hinges on the Purdue-Northwestern battle at Evanston Saturday night.

IOWA, 46; CHICAGO, 28

Iowa's basketball team thrust the University of Chicago five firmly into last place at the Midway fieldhouse last night. At the end of an hour of dashing hither and yon, in which both teams shot freely and guarded feebly and a total of 42 personal fouls were in the books, Iowa was ahead, 46 to 28.

Of the fouls, which were perhaps the chief feature of the match, Iowa was charged with 23 and Chicago with 19, each converting 16 points from the penalty line. For Chicago, Captain Ashley, Jim Evans and Harold Wegner were banished and for Iowa, Moffitt, Bennett and Riegert.

Parker Bennett, 6 foot 4 inch Hawkeye center, was the Maroon nemesis. Bennett counted five goals and six free throws to lead the scoring and controlled the ball easily on tipoffs and under the basket. He was also effective in the hole position on the foul line. Score:

MICHIGAN WINS, 33-13

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—Michigan trounced Wisconsin, 33 to 13, in a listless Big Ten game here tonight. The Wolverine attack functioned both with the regulars in and also after Coach Cappon had inserted nearly a complete second team, while the Badgers were able to make good on only four of many tries from the field. Capt. Daniels of Michigan scored 13 points to bring his total for the season to 111.

M-M-M-DO YOU WANT TO TAKE A WALK? SOX DON'T

Fonseca Lures 2 Fat Boys Into a 12 Mile Hike.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mineral Wells, Tex., Feb. 29.—Manager Lew Fonseca of the Chicago White Sox used this extra day of the year to give his protégés a little extra work at their spring training didoes. Being a player-manager, he even got into the spirit of things by putting on a rubber shirt and was the only man so clad on the training field.

The players had been so zealous in writing testimonials for the magic qualities of the waters hereabouts and the soothing rhythms of the bath rubbers' tom-tomming on their torsos, that the manager decided that maybe a few old fashioned aches and pains wouldn't do them any harm. Tonight the boys are writing naught of magic waters, musical massages, and calming lotions, though all still hold to the belief the bathhouse innovation is one grand idea.

Two of the Boys Take Stroll.

The manager really gave warning of a more arduous program Sunday evening when he came upon two of his plumper gentlemen, Frank Grube and Hal McKain, lolling about with undue comfort.

"Want to take an auto ride?" Lew asked in his most cheerful manner.

"Sure," responded Frankie and Hal.

So the auto ride started. Twelve miles the gay little group rode. Then a squeaking of brakes.

"Now," said the manager, "you two eggs get out and walk home. And I'll be patrolling the road to see there is no hitch hiking."

There was large squawking from Frankie and Hal, but they hoofed it every foot of the twelve miles and, moreover, were the first on hand at the baseball drill this morning.

What an Arm, Folks!

Smead Jolley worked with both squads during the two drills today and confined his efforts to catching in front of the cage. Smead, anxious to bust into full bloom as a catcher at the earliest possible moment, asked for a chance to practice throwing to second from a squatting position, as Jimmy Archer used to do. No one ever has been able to do that stunt as Jimmy could do it, but Smead was able to toss a few sitting down that sent Vic Frasier scampering from the center of the diamond in fear of his life, so great was the speed of Smead's shots.

Ted Lyons, whose tabulation of wins shrank from 22 victories for a seventh place club in 1930 to 4 victories for a team only one peg lower in 1931, because of a shoulder injured in spring training last year, today gave his arm a first test by throwing 50 or 60 balls from the pitcher's mound. He reported afterwards that his shoulder seemed perfectly normal.

Tells Ted to Take His Time.

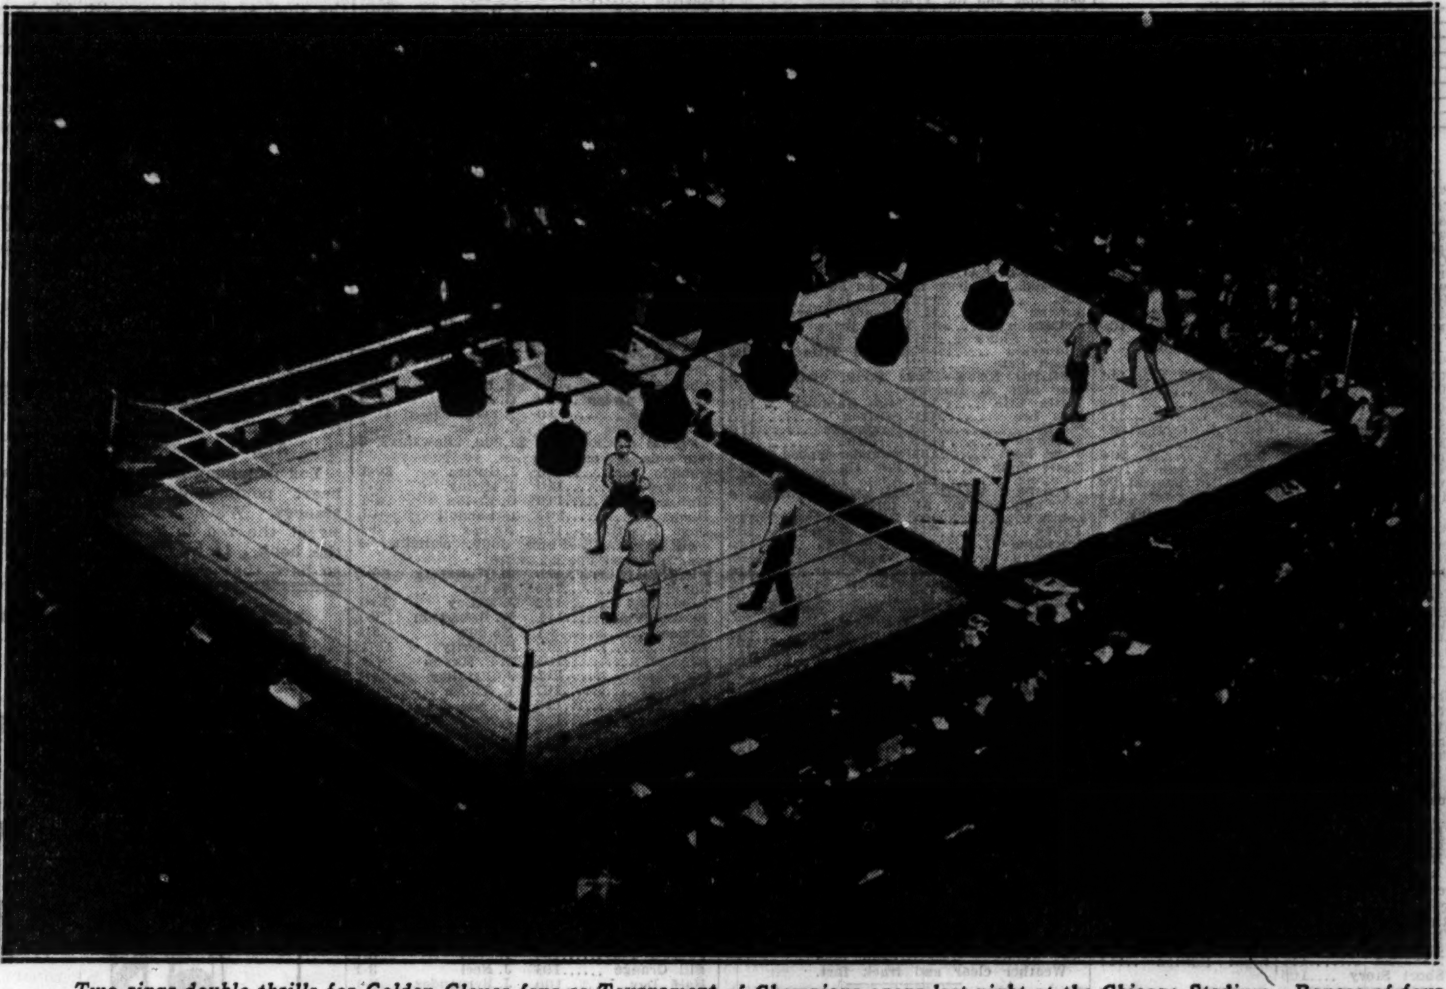
Following the performance Manager Fonseca urged Ted to exercise the greatest caution.

"You're to do no pitching until we break camp at San Antonio and not much before the season starts," Lew told Ted. "Don't fret about getting ready for the first home series and you won't make me mad if you don't pitch a game in the American league till the middle of May."

While Lyons doubtless is grateful for this consideration, those who know him doubt that he will bow to any such placid and patient procedure. It wouldn't surprise us, for one, to see Lyons pitch the season opener.

Wandering Luke Appling, the lone tardy fellow this year, got his bearings over in East Texas some time last night and wandered into camp at daybreak this morning. He was not suffering from exposure and seemed in good physical condition generally.

FIRST NIGHTERS CHEER BOXING'S GREATEST SHOW



Two rings double thrills for Golden Gloves fans as Tournament of Champions opens last night at the Chicago Stadium. Boxers of four heavier classes from three Chicago sections and 20 other cities will fight tonight. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

BennyLeonard BeatsM'Mahon in Ten Rounds

New York, Feb. 29.—(AP)—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, outpointed Billy McMahon, young Irishman, in ten rounds tonight to win the most important struggle so far in his comeback campaign. Leonard, who retired undefeated in 1924, weighed 151¾ pounds; McMahon, 149. There were no knockdowns.

All of the scenes of Leonard's former glory were brought back as a crowd of 3,600 of Benny's admirers jammed the tiny arena and applauded his every move.

Benny Wins Easily.

Leonard won rather easily, occasionally ripping right hands to the Irish kid's head that hurt, while his marvelous defense, slowed somewhat by his 36 years, still was enough to ward off most of McMahon's heftiest punches. One left hook raised a lump under Leonard's right eye in the second round, but he kept McMahon away from the tender flesh the rest of the way.

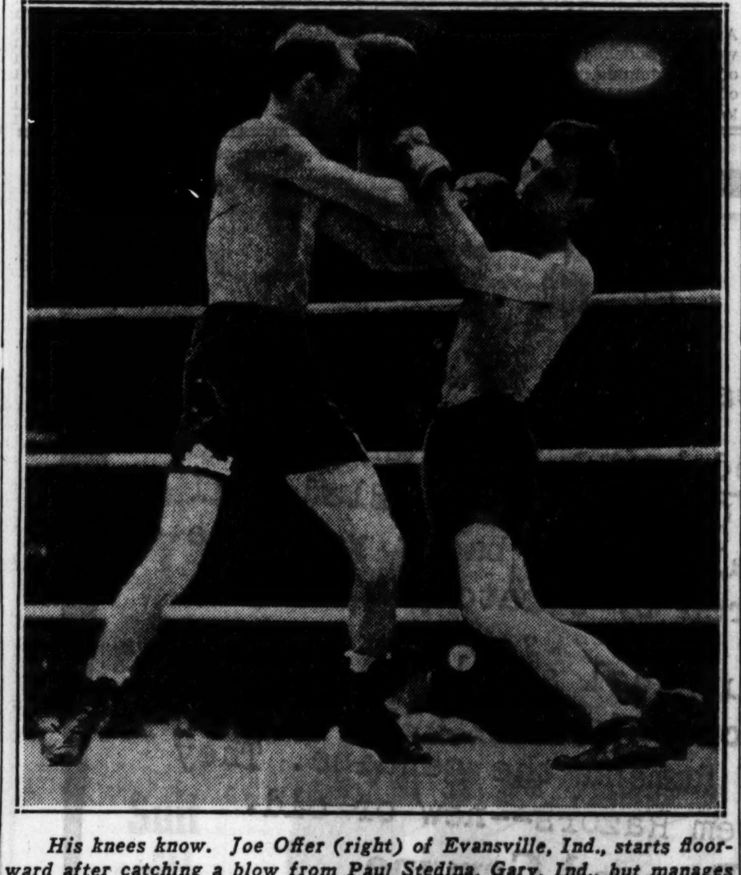
Benny retained enough speed to win at least eight of the ten rounds. McMahon did his best punching in the seventh and eighth rounds, when Benny rested.

The crowd was treated to two pictures of Leonard they never saw before, in the sixth and ninth rounds.

Nearly Falls from Ring.

Benny led with his right hand like the greenest of novices in the sixth, and as McMahon stepped back Leonard sprawled his full length on the canvas carpet. In the ninth he stumbled over his own feet in his own corner, skidded on a wet spot, and tumbled half out of the ring, the lower rope barely keeping him among those present.

There was a great crowd of old timers around the ring to wish Benny luck, among them Lew Tendler, with whom Leonard, in his last great fight, drew a $450,000 gate, to compare with the $6,000 in the house tonight.



His knees know. Joe Offer (right) of Evansville, Ind., starts floorward after catching a blow from Paul Stedina, Gary, Ind., but manages to keep his feet. Stedina won a three round decision.

IOWA ATHLETIC BOARD SILENT ON FOOTBALL COACH

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 29.—(AP)—University of Iowa athletic officials tonight were keeping secret their plans for the next move in negotiating for a football coach.

The only information which members of the athletic board vouchsafed after a long meeting was a repetition of the statement given to newspaper men Saturday, which asserted that "the board has a definite plan which will be worked out."

Dr. E. H. Lauer, athletic director, is ill with a cold and did not attend the meeting.

SPRING MUST BE HERE; BABE RUTH HITS A HOME RUN

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 29.—(AP)—Led by Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, the New York Yankees put on their first full spring drill today for the benefit of some 5,000 nonpaying fans, a full battalion of photographers, and a corps of experts. The experts consider the Yankees the one most likely to dislodge the Athletics from the American league peak this year.

Just to make the opening ceremonies official, Ruth, in uniform for the first time, almost punctured the high water tower with a foul ball, pounded a home run into the palm trees bordering the lake beyond center field, and easily dominated the whole affair.

The De Paul team jumped to a 26 to 11 lead at half time. Heine Coan dropped in shots from all angles. He led in scoring with five field goals.

Capt. Joe O'Connor, forward received an ovation in the game which ended his collegiate career. He has been outstanding on the De Paul team since a sophomore. He not only directed the offensive, but scored three baskets.

Dublinsky, Young Firpo Fight to 10 Round Draw

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 29.—(AP)—Young Firpo of Pennsgrove, and Harry Dublinsky of Chicago battled to a draw in 10 rounds tonight. At the start of the ninth round Firpo laid the Chicagoan on the canvas with a slashing left to the stomach. Dublinsky bounced up without a count, however, and appeared not to have been damaged.

LAFAYETTE, IND., WE ARE HERE! IS NOONAN SALUTE

Hoosier Bantam Wins 1st Golden Gloves Bout.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Cheers from the Lafayette, Ind., delegation were the first to echo from one end of the Stadium to the other at the Golden Gloves bouts last night. The cheers were for Richard Noonan, the Lafayette bantamweight who whipped Sammy Fisher of Rockford. A second later Dave Bernstein of Chicago was declared the winner over Vince Perino of Streator.

Bernstein, a north side kid, looked as if he was going places when he scored his first triumph. Later in the evening he forgot to duck a hard right which Dick Hurst of Ft. Wayne started from his shoe tops. Bernstein went down for a count of nine just before the battle ended. It cost him the decision.

Nate Lewis, the Stadium matchmaker, couldn't keep his eyes off the amateurs. He tried to see what was going on in both rings all night long. Then he developed a stiff neck before the program ended but he says he will be back to see the heavier boys fight it out tonight.

John Navicky, the Gary lightweight, left the ring crying when George Holden was awarded the decision over him. Navicky had beaten some tough opponents in the Gary sectional meet and nearly knocked Holden out of the ring in the early part of their battle, but he didn't have much left for the last minute of fighting.

Joe Roman, the Mexican, made the Joliet fans happy when he rolled up two victories. Joe is a veteran from other Golden Gloves tournaments.

Don Brand, the Fort Dodge kid, who hitch hiked most of the way to fight in the south side sectionals, got one of the big ovations of the night when he crawled through the ropes to fight Keith Graves of Quincy. He had a hard fight on his hands, but he got the decision. "Come on Iowa" the crowd shouted from the time the battle started until it ended.

Most of the Stadium boxing regulars were on hand cheering more noisily for the amateurs than they usually do for the professional boys who get anywhere from $15,000 to $35,000 for an evening's work.

The spectators showed no mercy for

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago welcomed the amateur boxers of the Tournament of Champions last night at Chicago Stadium. Seven thousand five hundred saw the champions of five states and three metropolitan districts fight to determine who should survive in the quest for diamond studded golden gloves. Two rings were used, making it possible to hold 67 bouts.

Boys in four weight divisions competed last night and this morning eight courageous and talented boys remain in each of these classes. Boxers of the four heavier weights will clash tonight, with the first two bouts at 7 o'clock. The quarter-finals of the tournament will be held tomorrow.

It is Champion vs. Champion.

Last night's competition—among flyweights, bantamweights, featherweights, and lightweights—retold the old story of Golden Gloves, a story which never loses its interest. Champion against champion was the theme of the story. Each fight consisted of three two minute rounds, except for occasional knockouts which punctuated the program.

With jabs and lunges, hooks and uppercuts, the fighters kept up a furious drive to win the approval of judges and referee. All hoped to win one of the 24 places on the Chicago squad of amateurs which will face New York in the fifth inter-city bouts in Madison Square Garden.

For the third time Chicago was invaded by teams from other cities. Twenty cities, a record number, sent their champions to Chicago. For the first time the Tournament of Champions last night was housed in the world's largest indoor boxing arena. And Chicago fans turned out in greater numbers for the opening night than any other year.

Big Guns Boom Tonight.

Tonight, when the second round of the championship tournament starts, the welterweights, middleweights, light heavyweights, and heavyweights, will go into action. But where the slighter lads assist in speedy foot work and clever boxing, the boys tonight will carry siege guns into the rings, and even more excitement is anticipated.

Twenty-six fighters in each of the four heavier classes will start tonight. At the end of four bouts or less—depending on how hard and fast the big boys hit—eight will remain in each of the divisions. They will join last night's winners in the quarter-finals tomorrow night. This will bring the field to the semi-finals and finals, which will be contested March 9 at the Stadium.

Tickets are on sale at the Stadium and TRIBUNE public service offices this afternoon and tonight. The prices range from 50 cents to $1.50 and there are many reserved seats available. If you want a glimpse of the coming Golden Gloves champions, if you want to follow them as they advance in tournament, you'll be at the ringside.

Watch Out for Belski!

It is difficult to pick stars from a field of stars, but some of last night's winners deserved extra mention for their battle against odds, or for superior showing of skill and friction.

Take Joe Belski, of Benton Harbor, for instance. This flyweight, who won the Grand Rapids, Mich., tournament, and then made short work of his opponents in the tournament held in his own home town, scored two victories last night to advance to the quarter-finals. In his first bout Belski stopped Jimmy Vinn of Kokomo, Ind., in the second round. Shortly afterward he came back to the ring to whip Johnny Walker of Vincennes, Ind.

If Belski becomes Golden Gloves champion he'll have to get rid of some mighty good lads in his division. Kenny Jackson, of Peoria, an alternate on last year's Chicago Gloves team which licked New York, won two bouts last night. Kenny knocked out Edward Meaaner of Visitation C. Y. O. in the second round. He scored a three round decision over Armand Cormier of Joliet, one of the best boxers in the flyweight class.

Al Sonkup, St. Leonard's C. Y. O., is Chicago's hope in this class.

WEATHER COOLS FRISKY IDEAS OF CUBS' REGULARS

English Only Veteran Who Tries to Work Hard.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 29.—The Cubs today were forced to make the best of a bad situation. The weather went democratic again and where there should have been sunshine and warmth there were only chilly breezes, clouds, and occasional rain drops. In such a gloomy setting the forty odd athletes didn't display much enthusiasm over the job of sweating off the pounds of flesh not needed in their summer's business.

The older players who arrived only last Saturday were careful not to get themselves involved in any maneuvers with the members of the first squad who, after two weeks of work, can afford to be frisky. The newcomers, except when offered a chance to do a little hitting, discreetly remained in the outfield, where they weren't bothered by anything more than an occasional fly ball.

English Tries to Keep Pace.

Shortstop Woody English, who became tangled between Hack and Herman in the infield practice, was an exception. They set such a stiff pace for the veteran that he asked to be excused before his legs caved in under him.

Noted at the ringside during the day's drill was William Veeck, president of the club. Having just arrived from the temperate Chicago climate, he was forced to make use of his overcoat. Veeck declared that he had nothing of a newsy nature to announce, but from the length of his huddle with Manager Hornsby it was judged that more than a few things are brewing.

It is suspected that they discussed ways to capture that much needed outfielder. Some of those St. Louis Cardinals who are balky might easily find their way into Cub flannels. The chain store farm system, instituted by the Cardinals and now copied by a number of other clubs, also is becoming of interest to the Chicago officials. This might have been touched on, and, of course, they talked about which men could be turned over to the Los Angeles team.

Angels Need Replacements.

The Angels started training at Pasadena today with only a piece of a team and will have to mark time until the Cubs loosen up. About a half dozen Chicago athletes are to be turned over to that member of the family.

If the weather is of the right kind tomorrow, Hornsby may stage a camp game in which as many regulars as possible will be on the same side of the argument.

Today Bud Tinning and Johnny Welch, with Hornsby catching, were curving 'em like they would on the Fourth of July. Root and Malone, however, haven't tried such tricks just yet. They've been on the job for two weeks, and their arms are in perfect trim, but not having that youthful daring, they prefer to delay the final stages of their conditioning.

Grimes Makes Error.

Burleigh Grimes, the veteran spitballer, pulled a social error yesterday. Being new to the island, he isn't acquainted with the titles of the various natives. He has a blister on his heel and didn't care to walk to the hotel. He hailed a passing flivver, under the impression it was a taxi. The driver was the chief of police who thought he was being kidded by a big town slicker.

Lance Richbourg, the outfielder obtained from the Braves, spent Sunday night in the city hospital, but was back in uniform today. He was threatened with flu, of which there is much hereabouts,

As the result of several flying trips to and from the mainland the Cubs now are air minded. They talk of how many minutes they have had aloft. Pat Malone is such an enthusiast that he insists he'll be flying over the Chicago park next summer in his own ship. To this Andy Lotshaw remarked that he had seen Pat up in the air there many times and without a ship.

It is fairly certain that the Cubs will have about as sweet a defensive infield as they've ever boasted. That, of course, means when Hack, English, and Herman are playing regularly with either Grimm or Taylor at first base.

Bob Fumbles on Bonefish's 10 Yard Line

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard the Iiderim, Florida Keys, Fla., Feb. 29.—"You ain't so good this mawnin', are yuh, Mr. Beckah? You're kinda layin' daown on me. Boy, that was some school of bonefish! You and I neveh could find nothin' bettah than that."

Thus George, the famous bonefish guide of the Florida keys, lectured your reporter this "mawnin'" when a very bad fumble was made right on the ten yard line, with the bonefish standing up against our rod and line attacks.

George Gets His Inning.

Every time that we err in judgment or impatiently strike a fish at the wrong time George patiently picks up the hammer and stone in the boat [the nut cracking outfit, as the ladies call it], selects a shell from which the hermit crab must be extracted, smacks the shell several times with his hammer, slowly takes out the hermit crab, and then after several heavy moments of silence he begins to orate in a soft voice. This morning we missed a good fish when we should have had it, and thus George had his opening and inning.

George had hooked a couple of fish, but our luck previous to his scolding was pretty sad. We snagged one good sized fish, but the line wrapped around a sponge and it was good-by to the catch. And then came another fumble after a peach of a stalk for a school that had dozens of bonefish in it.

"Look at 'em," whispered George. "They got the scent all right. See that riffle. They're comin'. Why those fish can smell that bait 50 yards. Get ready now."

And He Loses Everything.

You can imagine how a fisherman's heart pounds under such circumstances. When the strike came we swept the rod in a wide arc to set the hook. It was set all right. Set so hard that we lost everything.

Four of the five games scheduled will be played on the White City court at 63d and South Park avenue between the winners and runners-up in the central and south divisions.

Only one game will be played on the west side, Marshall, winner of the west section heavyweight championship, which gave Crane Tech, defending champion, its only defeat, will face Lake View at 3:30 o'clock at Marshall's gymnasium. Two other northwest contests will be held tomorrow night at the 132d infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets, when Crane Tech and Lane Tech lights and heavies meet in a double header.

CHAMPIONS OPEN BATTLE TO GAIN GOLDEN GLOVES

Fighters of 21 Cities Hear 7,500 Cheer.

Young Soukup has his heart set on winning a diamond studded glove and last night he fought as if he already were in the finals. Soukup knocked out Joe Brown of Danville, Ill., in one round and came back later to win from Charles Holderby of Springfield, Ill.

Art Walsh of Janesville, Wis., winner in the Wisconsin Golden Gloves tournament held in Milwaukee, advanced successfully in the bantamweight division. Art won the plaudits of the crowd by his clean boxing and determination. His first victory was scored at the expense of Glen Montgomery of Vincennes, Ind., and his second, another three round decision, was over James Forden, Chicago C. Y. O. boy. Art's twin, Jimmy, also came through with a pair of victories in the featherweight class.

Joe Roman, member of the 1929 Golden Gloves team, still is seeking a championship. Last night in the featherweight division, Roman beat Aaron Wade of Peoria, Ill., and then took into camp Phil Heinz of St. Ambrose C. Y. O.

Intercity Winner Beaten.

The luck of the draw brought Dan Neenan of Trafton's gymnasium against George Holden, one of the Chicago qualifiers in the lightweight class. A better fight could not have been picked to wind up the night. Both had scored victories in their first matches. Holden was a member of the inter-city team last year and won his bout with the New York lightweight.

In the first round Neenan knocked down Holden for a short count. From then on he forced the fighting, and while he took as many blows as he gave, aggressiveness helped him swing the tide. In the last round both fought furiously with the crowd whooping it up. Holden's defeat only proves once again that it is exceedingly hard for a winner one year to come back.

BELMONT TAKES BEATING FROM FIELDS; QUITS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 29.—(AP)—Battering his opponent all over the ring for eight rounds, Jackie Fields, welterweight champion of the world, tonight scored a technical knockout over Jimmy Belmont of Braddock. Belmont, taking one of the most terrific beatings seen in a Pittsburgh ring in a long while, refused to come out for the ninth round, while the crowd hooted and Fields' handlers insisted the bout go on.

Frank Klaus, manager of Belmont, was among those who pleaded with the bruised fighter to go back into action. Fields had Belmont helpless through most of the bout.

TWO TEAMS TIED FOR LEAD IN N. Y. 6 DAY BIKE RACE

New York, Feb. 29.—[Special.]—The six day bicycle race went into its second 24 hour session at Madison Square Garden tonight, while a crowd of 8,000 looked on. Reggie McNamara, the Australian veteran of 76 races, and Charley Peden, his Canadian partner, attracted the applause of the crowd early in the night by an exhibition of sensational riding. The field, which consisted of fifteen teams at the start, was reduced by one just before the evening sprints began, when Carl Stockholm was forced to withdraw. His partner, Tony Beckman, received four hours in which to get another partner.

McNamara and Peden availed themselves of an opportunity presented during a jam to burst forth and steal two laps. At midnight they were tied with the Bulla-Wals team. Standings:

North Carolina, Georgia Fives Decide Title Tonight

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 29.—(AP)—North Carolina and Georgia will battle for the Southern conference basketball title here tomorrow night. These quintets earned the right to decide this year's championship by winning semi-final engagements tonight from Auburn and Duke. The Tarheels beat Auburn, 52 to 31, while Georgia eliminated Duke, 43 to 32.

Eddie Simms Knocks Out O'Neil in First Round

Lorain, O., Feb. 29.—(AP)—Eddie Simms, Cleveland heavyweight, tonight knocked out Jack O'Neil of Wheeling, W. Va., in the first round of their ten round feature bout. It was Simms' ninth consecutive knockout.

the judges and referee when a decision was returned that did not meet with their approval. There were just as many boos at these amateur struggles as there are when the professionals mingle.

V. Y. Dallman of the Springfield State Register was among the out-of-town publishers in the audience.

Those Peoria rooters got boisterous when Kenny Jackson thumped Armand Cormier of Joliet for his second victory of the night. Jackson finished third in the race for the flyweight championship last year and now that Leo Rodak has moved up among the featherweights will hop into the ring Wednesday night as topheavy favorite for the division title.

It is possible that all records for the number of Golden Glove knockouts will be cracked when the heavier boys begin their battle tonight. The heavyweight class is the best ever to go to a Tournament of Champions. The big boys, who hit with the power of a mule's kick, stalked up and down the corridors and hallway while the little fellows furnished the fireworks last night.

"Bully for Ol' Purdue" is the battle cry of Rolly [Sock] Kurtz, heavyweight entrant from Lafayette, Ind. Rolly, who won his letter as full back on the Boilermaker football team last fall, is heralded by his supporters as the next Golden Gloves heavyweight champion. For three years he has held the heavyweight title at Purdue and this year added the championship of Lafayette to his record. Gordon Graham, sports editor of the Lafayette Courier-Journal, brings word that Kurtz packs a real knockout punch.

After Tommy Monroe, Springfield's middleweight, won the championship in the capital city he went down into the mining country and picked himself several sparring partners from the huskies thereabout. After a week of such labor he returned with word that he was ready to take on all comers in the Golden Gloves championship. Tommy is a nephew of State Senator Mills, who sponsored the boy's appearance in the Springfield title bouts.

Dave [Mule] Harris, the giant Negro heavyweight from Galesburg, winner of the Peoria heavy title, has been training for the last two weeks in a unique manner. Harris, to harden his hands, has been cuffing manfully the railroad ties that he creosotes for the C. B. & Q. daily for his livelihood. Mule sets up a hard white oak tie and, after smoothing its surface, pecks away at the surface with only light working mittens covering his hands.

Schaaf's Pilot Suspended by State Board

Johnny Buckley was suspended yesterday by the Illinois athletic commission for infraction of the rules while seconding Ernie Schaaf against Young Stribling at the Chicago Stadium last Friday. The suspension automatically bans Buckley, who manages Schaaf, in National Boxing association territory.

DEMPSEY FISTS SING LULLABY TO PAIR IN 3 MINUTES

Dayton, O., Feb. 29.—(AP)—Before the largest crowd ever to see a boxing show here Jack Dempsey knocked out two opponents in less than three minutes of fighting tonight.

Coming out fast in the first round of his bout with Jack Phillips, local heavyweight, Dempsey ripped away with both hands to the midsection and jaw and finally sent his opponent to the floor with a terrific left hook to the chin. Phillips, weighing 199 pounds, was counted out after one minute and twenty-two seconds of fighting.

The next victim of the ex-champion's barnstorming tour was Pat Sullivan, former United States army champion. Sullivan started out fast, hoping to force Dempsey to the limit.

INDIANS FIND SWIFTER RUNNER TO CARRY NEWS

Ask Tribune to Tell Tribes Chief Is Dead.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 29.—[Special.]—Alfred Powless, 58 years old, great chief of the Oneida Indians in Wisconsin, is dead. His people laid him to rest yesterday under an oak tree on the reservation.

A graduate of the agricultural school of the University of Wisconsin, Chief Powless had for years striven to persuade the federal government to live up to promises which he claimed were made in a treaty with his people at Fort Stanwix, N. Y., in 1784. His last years, it was said, were embittered by lack of success.

Tribune Serves as "Runner."

In the days of the primeval forests, when such a chieftain passed on to the happy hunting grounds, swift runners were sent to all the tribes of the Six Nations to make known the news. But times have changed, and today William Skenadore, presiding head of the Oneida council of twelve chiefs, requested THE TRIBUNE to let the long houses in New York and Oneidas elsewhere know that Powless is gone.

"We no longer have runners," said Skenadore. "But you can reach the chiefs of the Six Nations in New York. They made Powless a chief on Oct. 10, 1925, in accordance with the ancient tribal customs. He deserved the honor both by ability and by birth; he was a direct descendant of one of the warriors who signed the Fort Stanwix treaty.

"So Long as the Grasses Grow."

"That treaty provided that the Oneidas, for their help to the colonies against the British crown, should have perpetual possession of the lands on which they were then settled. The words of the treaty were: 'So long as the sun rises in the east, the waters run and the grasses grow, the Oneidas shall be secure.'

"By word of mouth that treaty has come down to us. Powless always upheld the pact and urged his people to adhere to it. He hoped that it would some day be possible to find courts that would order the federal government to observe it."

Sue to Enforce Treaty.

Chief Skenadore added that the commissioner of Indian affairs seemed to regard the treaty and other promises made to the Oneidas in their western migration as worthless. A suit to compel observance is being brought by the tribe.

"My mother, who is now 85, my grandfather and the grandfather of Chief Powless taught us to memorize the words of the treaty," declared Skenadore. "They were handed down to us with the recommendation that we hold enforcement as a sacred duty. Powless so regarded it. So do we who are left."

INSULL UTILITY GROUP TO SPEND LESS FOR 1932

Sewell L. Avery New Edison Director.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Capital expenditures of the Commonwealth Edison company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois during the current year will be small, Samuel Insull, chairman of the boards of the companies, told stockholders yesterday at the annual meetings.

Little new financing by either of the concerns can be expected in 1932, he indicated. Expenditures in previous years have made the facilities of the corporations adequate for present needs, he explained. Maturing obligations of the companies will be met this year partly through resources on hand and partly through refinancing. Obligations of Commonwealth Edison which come due this year will probably be met entirely with funds now on hand, he said.

Sewell Avery New Director.

At the Edison meeting held late in the day Sewell L. Avery, president of the United States Gypsum company and chairman of the board of Montgomery Ward & Co., was elected a director to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Henry A. Blair.

At the earlier meeting of Public Service company two new directors were named. B. E. Sunny and Stanley Field were elected to the positions formerly held by Mr. Blair and William A. Fox. Mr. Fox decided not to stand for reëlection, it was stated.

At both meetings Mr. Insull stressed that the investment subsidiaries of the two companies had no important commitments in the securities of Insull Utilities Investment and Corporation Securities company and, consequently, were not adversely affected by the heavy losses sustained by these two trusts.

Denies Some Rumors.

Mr. Insull pointed out at the Public Service meeting that the investment of the Public Service Subsidiary corporation in the securities at the two trusts at no time exceeded $86,000.

"Reports that the company was involved to any extent in the practical collapse of the two investment trusts are without basis in fact," he declared.

Later, at the Edison meeting, he made a similar statement concerning the operations of the Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation.

"Reports that the company's portfolio was watered with the securities of Insull Utilities Investment and Corporation Securities company have no truth whatever and were simply malicious gossip spread by people who feared that such was the case or were scared over everything," he asserted.

BENDIX AVIATION CUTS DIVIDEND TO 15C PER SHARE

Common stock of the Bendix Aviation corporation was placed on a 60 cent annual dividend basis yesterday when directors declared a regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents a share. This is a a reduction from the previous rate of $1 annually which was in force in the preceding three quarters.

Directors of the Sangamon Electric company yesterday deferred action on the common stock dividend until the June meeting of the board. The usual quarterly disbursement of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock was authorized. Heretofore the common stock has been on a 25 cents quarterly basis.

Split Hairs on Rail Rates as Trucks Benefit

BY SCRUTATOR.

Is a peanut a pea or a nut?

Not long ago there was a solemn discussion of this question before the interstate commerce commission. The complainant declared that a peanut was a vegetable and should have the cheaper rate. The railroads protested that a peanut was a nut and should have the higher rate.

Whether the high rate would prevent the peanut raisers from doing business profitably and thereby discourage the raising of peanuts or whether the low rate would result in the railroad's doing business at a loss were considered minor points.

Matter of Relativity.

Some one has said that a railway rate adjustment takes sixty days while a truck rate adjustment takes sixty minutes. Why? Largely because every proposal made by the railways must be scrutinized for every possible technical law violation.

While the commerce of the country suffers, the commission is spending its time listening to arguments as to whether a peanut is a pea or a nut and to what extent the rates on vacuum cleaners might be changed without prejudice or benefit to the manufacturer of brooms.

The freight rate structure of the nation is frozen because each rate is punched out on a comptometer. Few people today appreciate the benefits to commerce that flowed from the efforts of the railway traffic manager before he was bound and gagged by the interstate commerce commission.

His job was to create traffic where none existed. The old fashioned traffic manager was continually on the lookout for traffic possibilities. He was adept at getting things to move. Immobility irked him.

Seeks New Traffic Source.

As he made his rounds he might encounter some manufacturing industry that had not increased its output for several years. A freight agent would be assigned to find out why the output of that industry was limited. Why didn't it ship to the west? Was the matter of freight rates controlling or was the cost of raw materials too high? Could a transit arrangement be made?

Next he might come to a group of farms raising turnips or sugar beets. He wonders why this business is not increasing. Do the farmers make enough money shipping their turnips to market to increase their output? Could freight rates help them? Could he encourage a sugar plant to locate in that vicinity?

In stimulating traffic in this manner, the old fashioned traffic manager established many practices the benefits of which are enjoyed by the public. It would, perhaps, be going a little too far to say that the marketing of Idaho potatoes in Chicago or the year round distribution of fruits and vegetables grown at distant points is entirely the work of former freight traffic managers, but they certainly contributed substantially in these developments.

Milling in transit, fabrication in transit and dressing in transit are other schemes devised by traffic managers to keep industries progressing.

Container Car an Example.

The railroads today are frequently criticized for being unprogressive, but look what happens when they try to produce something new. The container car is an example.

The thought underlying the many sections of the interstate commerce act, and particularly the Hoch-Smith resolution, is that the interstate commerce commission can increase or decrease the revenues of the carriers at will and transfer the burden from Oregon to Pennsylvania, or from one commodity to another at will.

There is no doubt about its ability to decrease revenues, but there seems to be some question about its ability to increase them.

SANTA FE MAKES BIG REDUCTION IN TRAIN MILES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 29.—The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway will soon have reduced passenger service by 5,300,000 train miles annually, it was said today by W. B. Storey, president. He said that motor cars would replace steam equipment on an additional 3,000,000 train miles.

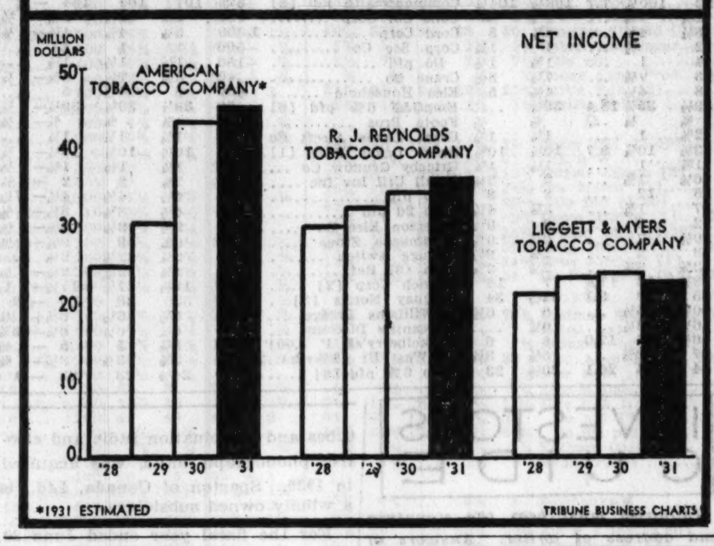
BIG TOBACCO COMPANIES HAVE DONE WELL DURING THE DEPRESSION



SENATORS WILL OPEN INQUIRY OF "SHORTS" TODAY

New York Attorney to Face Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—The senate banking and currency committee will begin its investigation into short selling on the securities and commodities exchanges tomorrow. Then it calls William R. Perkins, New York attorney, as a witness to give a picture of the general market situation.

Technically, the hearing will be preliminary, with a definite decesion to investigate further still to be decided on. Chairman Peter Norbeck [Rep., S. D.] and at least eight other members of the committee are understood to favor further inquiry.

House Has Cotton Troubles.

While the senate committee prepared for the hearing, a house committee was listening to cotton dealers protest against federal regulation of the cotton future markets by giving the secretary of agriculture power to limit trading in futures.

"Instead of being led off on a futile bear hunt," said Robert Harris of the New York Cotton exchange, "let us face the facts and understand what are the fundamental causes of the existing low price of cotton."

"This is no time to try any new experiment," said William S. Dowell, vice president of the New York Cotton exchange. "The cotton business along with many other lines of business is in a deplorable state all over the world. Nobody would be willing to assume the responsibility for the effect these changes might have on the greatest export article this country has at a period when, with other types of business, it is going through a great crisis."

Would Doom Hedging.

T. F. Bush, Waco, Texas, vice president, American Cotton Shippers' association declared:

"The bill would absolutely destroy the liquidity which is essential to a successful hedging market."

'PUT MONEY TO WORK,' COOLIDGE ADVISES; JOINS HOARDING WAR

"Put your money to work," was the advice given by former President Coolidge yesterday in a statement prepared for the Citizens Reconstruction organization—the national body organized by President Hoover to combat hoarding throughout the country. James Keely, vice chairman of the organization, announced that Newbold Noyes, publisher, has been appointed chairman for the District of Columbia

Mr. Coolidge's statement follows:

"One of the most important factors in the failure of business to revive is that many people are holding money idle, which ought to be in circulation. We do not have and cannot have enough currency so that it can be used for that purposed without impairing business, closing factories and causing unemployment.

"Everybody at this time should keep on hand only what money is actually needed. All other money should be put at work. It can be deposited in a sound bank. It can be used to purchase the new treasury certificates which will be sold by banks and will pay 2 per cent interest."

The highest bid made was 99.450, equivalent to an annual interest rate of about 2.18 per cent on an annual basis. The lowest bid accepted was 99.368.

RAILWAYS ASK U. S. LOANS OF $221,579,190

Total of 51 Millions O. K.'d by I. C. C.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—(AP)—Railroads have applied to the reconstruction finance corporation for loans aggregating $221,579,190.

This was disclosed today by announcement of approval by the interstate commerce commission of immediate loans of $42,871,375 to eleven railroads and announcement that 12 other carriers had applied for $75,423,750. Loans approved for railroads now total $51,544,175.

The reconstruction finance corporation is forbidden by law to make public applications to it or loans granted, but the records of the interstate commerce commission, which must approve all borrowings by railroads, are public.

How Plan Operates.

Most of the loans approved by the commission are to be made by the reconstruction corporation for only a few weeks or months, although the notes will be for two or three years. Roads eligible to get loans from the railroad credit corporation are being required to give irrevocable orders on the credit organization for money as soon as the railroad created company gets funds from freight increases recently granted. They also are required to pledge bonds and stocks as security.

In only one instance has the commission approved the entire amount asked. Approval has been withheld for those portions not needed immediately to pay fixed charges and maturing obligations.

The Wabash railway, ineligible to obtain loans from the Railroad Credit corporation, applied recently for $15,000,000 worth of loans and was granted a large proportion of its request. The Missouri Pacific applied for over $23,250,000, and obtained approval of $1,500,000 to pay overdue fixed charges, but today the commission approved

Gen. Theaters Equipment in Receivership

New York, Feb. 29.—(AP)—Harley L. Clarke, Chicago utility man, who in 1929 stepped into the breach to save William Fox's film company from impending bankruptcy, today announced that his company, used in that rescue party, now found itself forced to go into receivership.

The company—General Theaters Equipment, Inc.—of which Mr. Clarke is president, holds a controlling interest in the Fox Film corporation. It required that interest in 1930 when it helped to stave off receivership action against the Fox company.

Announcement that receivership action had been taken against General Theaters Equipment, Inc., was made earlier in the day at Wilmington, Del. Toward the close, after many conferences, Mr. Clarke explained that the equipment company had finally given consent to the receivership "in the interest of conserving the assets of the company pending the development of a contemplated reorganization."

The principal factor leading to bankruptcy lay in the inability of Fox Film corporation to earn enough money with which to maintain its dividend on the common stock. The company held over 2,000,000 shares of the film company stock and 150,000 shares of Fox Theaters company stock.

Explains Position.

Mr. Clarke explained that the receivership for General Theaters Company, Inc., will not affect any of its controlled companies.

"As the General Theaters Equipment, Inc., is a holding and nonoperating company, none of the companies in which General Theaters Equipment, Inc., has controlling holdings are adversely affected by these receivership proceedings. These companies, other than the Fox interest, are International Projector corporation, National Theater Supply company, J. E. McAuley Manufacturing company, Theater Equipment Acceptance corporation, Strong Electric company, Ashcraft Automatic Arc company, Hall & Connolly, J. M. Wall Machine company, Fearless Camera company, and the Cinema Building corporation."

Mr. Clarke attributed the present plight of General Theaters Equipment, Inc., to the dwindling of motion picture receipts—particularly the theater divisions. The company's interests, while inclusive of motion picture production divisions as well as theater exhibition divisions, suffered their greatest losses through the reduction of theater admissions. He said that the motion picture business was holding its own at present, and he expressed confidence in its long term outlook.

Has Big Loans.

General Theaters Equipment, Inc., had on Dec. 31, he said, a total of $55,000,000 notes payable and other obligations. Chase National bank, which obtained a large banking interest in the Fox companies, was believed to hold a substantial part of the company's bank loans.

Earnings of General Theaters Equipment, Inc., in 1931, it was revealed, showed a loss of about $900,000 exclusive of the $2,200,000 received in dividends during the year from its holdings of Fox Film stock. These dividends were discontinued in the last half of the year.

New York, Feb. 29.—The stock market was in a bad fix today and everybody said congress was to blame. That "short sales" inquiry which the senate committee on banking and currency is about to start appears to have scared some of the boys clear out of their boots. Most of them shut up shop until the blow is over, and if widely circulated reports are to be credited any number of them have gone out of town on an indefinite vacation.

Among Those Absent.

Faces of operators, who by virtue of the scale of their dealings on the bear side are popularly expected to be put on the carpet, were conspicuously few among those present at today's session. Since it is the "big boys," mainly the professionals, who have been making the wheels go round since the current dullness set in, their contributions were sorely missed.

John Public and the few old guardsmen who stood their grounds were able among them to muster the wherewithal for a turnover of only about 800,000 shares. It was the smallest volume the scriveners up in the bookkeeping department of the exchange have been called upon to record in many monotonous months.

Prices sagged with volume—not

GERMANS PAY 10 MILLION ON FRIDAY, REPORT

Will Get More Time on $90,000,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 29.—Reduction of the $100,000,000 central bank credit to the Reichsbank by a payment of $10,000,000 on account as a condition of a three months' extension was reported to have been arranged today. It was said that was done over the portests of private bankers who are parties to the new standstill agreement on German short term credits which goes into effect tomororw.

This $10,000,000 payment on account when the credit is due on Friday is said to be upon the insistence of the Bank of France. That institution with the Bank of England, Bank of International Settlements and the federal reserve banks share in the credit to the extent of $25,000,00 apiece.

Strong Protests Made.

Strong protests were lodged with the central banks by the American banks holding German credits and presumably by foreign bankers also. Under the standstill agreement the commercial banks are signatories on account also, or declare the standstill agreement ended. If they were repaid to the same extent that the central bank credit is being repaid it would mean an additional demand upon the Reichsbank for $127,500,000, which is of course beyond the ability of the German central bank to meet without reducing its reserves almost to the vanishing point.

The French central bank's viewpoint is said to be that since under the standstill agrement, which ends today, Germany's commercial bank creditors were paid off to the extent of 10 per cent, it is proper that the central banks be paid 10 per cent also, irrespective of the reserve position of the Reichsbank, whose statement last week revealed a small improvement, the first in many weeks. The bankers under the standstill agreement believe that to pull down the Reichsbank reserves at this time to the amount of $10,000,000 is contrary to the spirit of that pact, which made it a cardinal principle to maintain the reserve position of the Reichsbank.

What Action Would Mean.

A payment of $10,000 would mean 42,000,000 marks to be reducted either from the Reichsbank's gold holdings or foreign exchange holdings. As of Feb. 23, the date of the last weekly statement, the Reichsbank held 929,590,000 marks of gold and 145,900,000 marks in foreign exchange, both the gold and foreign exchange holdings were up slightly compared with the preceding week.

The standstill agreement ending today was entered into last August, when Germany's financial affairs were critical. The new standstill plan, effective from tomorrow, has been adopted by a majority of foreign bank creditors, only the French reported unwilling to sign. French private bank credits are only 5 per cent of Germany's total short term foreign private indebtedness, while the French central bank's share in the foreign obligations of the Reichsbank is 25 per cent.

Private Loan Compact.

New York, Feb. 29.—(AP)—Germany's international creditors today paid their final respects to the old "standstill" agreement covering $1,275,680,000 of German bank credits which expired tonight.

A new credit arrangement which contains several additional features not covered in the old agreement will go into effect tomorrow and will run for an indefinite period. Under it, Germany is given the full coöperation of her principal private creditors, including the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Holland, Switzerland, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Denmark, and Norway.

Principal among the changes is a provision whereby Germany will not be held to a hard and fast rule for sending so much money each month out of that country. Instead, a committee representing the foreign creditors of Germany will study Germany's export trade, the condition of its money market, and will then decide how much money can be sent at a time and when it shall be sent. This arrangement will be flexible enough, it is hoped by the bankers, to forestall undue hardships on German internal finance.

Equally important, it was said, is an arrangement which will permit foreign creditors to transfer part of their cash advances into permanent investments in German industry. Until now, Germany has steadfastly declined to encourage foreign capitalists to acquire substantial blocks of its leading industrial enterprises.

Agree to Plan.

BASEL, Switzerland, Feb. 29.—(AP)—Arrangements have been practically completed, it was learned today, to renew the $100,000,000 central bank credit to Germany from March 4, when it expires, to June 4, with 10 per cent amortization. The Bank of France consented to the extension, it was said, in view of the amortization provision. This bank, the Bank of England, and the American Federal Reserve bank are the principal creditors.

SEARS-ROEBUCK FEBRUARY SALES ABOVE JANUARY

February sales of Sears, Roebuck & Co., largest of the country's chain store and mail order companies, showed a small increase over January, the monthly report issued yesterday showed.

The company, which uses the 13 month year accounting system, had sales in the four weeks ended Feb. 26 of $19,647,639, compared with $19,008,449 in the preceding four weeks. Reflecting the lower price level now existing for February were $3,888,590, or 16.5 per cent below the comparable period of 1931, when total sales amounted to $23,647,639.

Sales for the first two periods of 1932 totaled $38,656,088, compared with $46,578,500 in the corresponding period last year, a decrease of $7,922,412, or 17 per cent.

REPORTS BETTER BUSINESS.

An increase in industrial activity and employment has been noted at Millstadt, Ill., according to the cashier of the First National bank there.

Sparks-Withington.

Will you please give me information on Sparks-Withington company? Am enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.—W. E. W.

Sparks-Withington company started thirty years ago as a manufacturer of carriage hardware and parts for agricultural implements. It now makes automobile horns, radiator fans and, since 1925, radio sets ["Sparton"]. It was one of the pioneers in the introduction of electric receiving sets.

The company has three plants at Jackson, Mich. Cardon-Phonocraft corporation, manufacturers of radio tubes and combination radio and electric phonograph units, was acquired in 1930. Sparton of Canada, Ltd., is a wholly owned subsidiary.

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1931, sales were $7,354,000, about half of sales of $14,850,000 for the preceding fiscal year. Sales for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, were $17,282,000.

Net income for the latest fiscal year was $126,000. This was 5.77 times preferred dividend requirements and equal to 12 cents per common share. For the preceding fiscal year net income was $1,739,000, or $2.55 per common share, against $2,510,000, or $3.64 per common share for the June 30, 1929, fiscal year.

On June 30, 1931, current assets were $4,830,000 and current liabilities were $399,000. Cash and marketable securities were more than $2,200,000. Working capital was $4,431,000, against $4,245,000 the year before. Capitalization consisted of 3,637 shares of 6 per cent preferred [par $100] and 900,682 shares of no par common.

Dividends are being paid on the preferred. None have been paid on the common since the 25 cent disbursement on Sept. 30, 1931.

In January, 1932, the company announced its entrance into the electrical refrigerator field. The manufacture of this product, the management hopes, will enable the company to keep its employés and dealers busy throughout the year.

Garnet Gold Mining.

About 1908 a gift of 100 shares of Garnet Gold Mining company stock was received by me from a friend. I have the certificate. Is the company still in existence?—G. G.

Garnet Gold Mining company was incorporated in Illinois in 1891. Its properties were in Montana. A manual of obsolete companies states: "We have been informed that the company is out of existence and the stock worthless as of Jan. 17, 1924."

TRADING IN WALL STREET IS DULL; PRICES LOWER

very far, it is true, for there was not enough pressure to move them sharply. It did not take much of a movement, in fact, to attract attention, so drab and listless was it all.

One of the sharpest swings of the day, in fact, was in Auburn, which hit a high of 91½ around midday and fell back to 85½ at the finish, but as every chart follower in the land knows this is a mediocre performance for Auburn. Only last week the motor volatile was taking jumps of 15 points or so in a market of considerable less than five million shares and failing to get anybody excited over it. Lambert climbed about 2 points, but couldn't hold all its gain, and Public Service 7 per cent preferred sold to a new high on a gain of 2½ points. A dozen or so other issues moved ahead for a point or more in the forenoon dealings, but not all of them were able to hold their advanced positions.

Motor Group Sags.

Some of the motor issues appeared none too happy over the announcement of the big "prosperity" production and sales program which Ford has mapped out for himself. A handful of constructive traders tried to capitalize the Detroit dispatch in the early dealings by bidding up issues of pivotal rating, but were unable to attract a following and soon abandoned their endeavors. If the "flivver" magnate carries out his undertaking, street opinion sees some other motor makers being put to it to keep up their end of things. At that the net losses of the group were only fractional today for the reason, perhaps, that there were no buyers for the offerings.

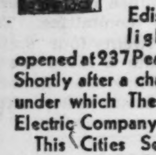
Canadian Pacific was a firm spot in the railroad section, reflecting reports current in the street that the royal railroad commission of Canada in its report to be published in the near future will recommend consolidation of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National systems. The stock went up nearly a point. Talk of a possible increase in freight rates for the carriers of the dominions also helped buying somewhat.

Copper Shares Suffer.

Copper shares continued to suffer from the failure of the producers to agree on any new curtailment program.

Utility shares fared a little better than some others, although they were no great shakes.

Starting a Great Basic Industry



Edison's first electric light station was opened at 237 Pearl Street in 1882. Shortly after a charter was granted under which The Empire District Electric Company operates today. This Cities Service Company subsidiary supplies electric light and power to an important section in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. Cities Service Company subsidiaries serve more than 9,000 communities in 38 states. Would you like to invest in this widely diversified business?

RAILWAYS ASK FEDERAL LOANS OF $221,579,190

another $2,800,000 loan to pay March 1 maturities.

The Alabama, Tennessee and Northern railroad is the only line granted all it asked for. It sought $275,000 to pay loans, taxes and installments on bridges and today the loan was approved.

New applications received by the commission today include $31,727,750 for the St. Louis Southwestern, which last week applied for a bond issue to secure the loan; the New York Central $7,000,000 to finish work started in New York City; the Georgia and Florida for $1,000,000 to refinance receivers' certificates and the Aberdeen and Rockfish for $127,000 to meet immediate obligations.

EMPLOYES O.K. 10% PAY CUT ON THE SOUTH SHORE

Motormen, conductors and trainmen of the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railroad have voluntarily agreed to accept a reduction in wages of 10 per cent for a period of one year, starting March 1. That was announced yesterday by Charles H. Jones, general manager of the railroad.

These employés, members of South Shore line locals of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Order of Railway Conductors, and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, voted to accept the wage reduction last week.

$25,000,000 Offer Made by Intermediate Credit

A $25,000,000 offering of federal intermediate credit banks is announced by Charles R. Dunn, fiscal agent. The issue is dated March 15 and comprises collateral trust debentures due in three and four months, priced at par and bearing 4½ per cent interest. The offering is chiefly for refunding purposes.

COTTON PRICES LOWER

Moderate pressure in cotton was in evidence from the south and while it was not heavy there was a lack of the aggressive trade demand so much in evidence of late. Liverpool cables were lower than due and both Indian and Egyptian sorts were quoted as lower in the English market. While some traders regarded the prospects for a truce in the orient as bullish, there was no buying of cotton on the report that hostilities at Shaighai might be suspended.

India was reported as a larger buyer of cotton cloths in England. Closing trades were at net losses of 4@8 points in Chicago while New Orleans was off 5@8 points and New York 6@9 points. Spots were unchanged to 5 points lower with New York 7c; New Orleans and Houston, 6.85c, and Galveston, 6.80c.

Exports of domestic cotton so far this season have been 5,935,000 bales against 5,032,000 bales in 1930-31. Stocks of cotton cloths in domestic warehouses were reported at 254,000,000 yds. against 355,000,000 yds. at the end of January a year ago. Prices follow:

HIGHEST COURT ASKED TO BACK OIL MARTIAL LAW

Washington, D. C., Feb. 29.—(AP)—A petition was filed in the Supreme court today asking that an injunction to prevent the enforcement of martial law in the east Texas oil fields be set aside.

The petition was presented by former Gov. Dan Moody and E. F. Smith of Austin on behalf of Gov. Sterling.

Moody and Smith tomorrow will ask Justice Brandeis to issue an order staying the injunction until the highest court can pass on the appeal.

It is not known whether the oil operators will be represented by counsel at the hearing before Justice Brandeis. Joseph W. Bailey Jr., representing some of the oil interests, gave notice he wanted to be heard before action is taken.

C., Feb. 29.—(AP)—A forty page bill "to stabilize the coal mining industry" under which the United States would be subdivided into 30 coal producing districts, 27 bituminous and three anthracite was introduced today by Representative Lewis [Dem., Md.]. The measure would provide for coöperative marketing of coal and the regulation of the fuel in interstate and foreign commerce.

It would require the licensing of organizations producing and shipping coal and would create a coal commission of five members, with headquarters in Washington, to administer the industry.

Bright Spots in Business

Recent developments point definitely to improvement in the economic situation and return of prosperity, Brig. Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, told members of the New York Zone Transportation club at their annual dinner at the Hotel Pennsylvania last night. He praised the legislation passed recently in Washington for the rehabilitation of the countrys banking and credit machinery and looked with satisfaction upon efforts being made to strengthen the position of the railroads.

WHEAT DROPS; FARM STOCKS ASSIST BEARS

Traders Fear Reserve Supply Is Large.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Failure of bullish news to develop over the week-end, and fears that the private estimates on farm reserves to be given out today will make a bearish showing led to increased pressure on wheat and a lower range of prices. Trade was not large, with a house with seaboard connections a fair seller early. This filled up the early buying and prices dropped around 1c from Saturday, with May touching 60⅞@61c.

Buying against bids checked the decline, resting orders in the hands of commission houses and locals appearing around 61c for May and there was no local selling of consequence on the break. Sentiment was somewhat more bearish than of late, and while a fair rally from the inside followed, the close was within a fraction of the bottom with net losses of ¾@⅞c. March finished at 57@57⅛c, May 61@61⅛c, July 62⅞@62½c, and September 64⅛@64¼c.

Export Demand Slow.

So much is regarded as depending on export demand at the present time that the seaboard reports indicating very little business had been done in either Manitobas or hard winter wheats led to some selling by scattered longs. Around 200,000 bu Manitobas were estimated as having been sold during the day. Winnipeg was easy and closed ⅝@¾c lower with May at 67c in Canadian funds, which were around 11½ per cent discount.

Scattered liquidation developed in futures in Liverpool and wheat there was ¾@1c per bu lower for the day with May at 59⅝c, or 1⅞c under Chicago at the time, the difference widening fractionally. Fears of heavy deliveries on March contracts and a slow demand more than offset the sudden development of a cold wave on the continent. Snow fell in Italy and relieved apprehension of drought for the time being. Unfavorable crop reports continue to come from India. Italy was reported as having been a good buyer of Argentine and Australian wheats of late.

Argentine Surplus Smaller.

There has been a drop of around 15,000,000 bu in the Argentine exportable surplus of wheat in the last three weeks and an official estimate placed the amount still available for importers' needs at 107,000,00 bu. This compared with Broomhalls figures of 124,000,000 bu. An increase of 850,000 bu was shown in the domestic visible supply during the last week and the total is 203,440,000 bu, against 196,615,000 bu last year.

No change was apparent in the reports on the outlook for winter wheat, although J. E. Bennett & Co. had returns from their traveling man in Oklahoma suggesting a more spotted condition than recent claims. Fields ranging from having an excellent condition to very poor in the Oklahoma City territory.

Less Pressure of Cash Corn.

Excellent weather for field work over the west and southwest has resulted in farmers showing less disposition to sell cash corn to arrive and the resultant lighter pressure had some effect on futures which closed unchanged to ⅛c higher for the day. Purchases to arrive aggregated 35,000 bu. Buying against bids around 39c for May checked the decline, and the finish was on a moderate rally. March closed at 35¼c, May 39¼@39⅜c, July 41⅞@42c, and September, 43¼c.

An increase of 790,000 bu in the visible supply of corn was somewhat smaller than expected in view of the large excess of receipts, as compared with shipments at leading terminals for the week. Total stocks are 17,470,000 bu, against 18,961,000 bu last year. Buenos Aires closed ⅜@¾c higher with March leading. The latter was 32c at the last, or 3¼c under Chicago.

Oats were dull and futures closed ⅛@¼c lower with May at 23⅞c and July 25⅛@25¼c. Seeding was reported as under way at several points in Missouri. Rye finished unchanged to ⅜c lower with wheat, May being 46½c and July 48⅞c. A little export business developed Saturday. Germany was a buyer of further rye from Russia and the Berlin market closed 2⅛@2⅞c lower.

Lard Higher with Hogs.

Light receipts of hogs here and in the west with higher prices at the yards brought in scattered buying of cured product and prices averaged higher. Lard closed unchanged to 2½c higher while bellies were 5@15c higher. Hedging pressure checked the upturn in lard. Arrivals of hogs were well below those of a week ago, and slightly less than last year. Liverpool lard closed 6d to 1s higher. New York cleared 579,000 lbs lard and 211,000 lbs meats for export. BUTTER FUTURES EASY

Butter futures eased fractionally on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, closing prices being ¼c lower. Egg futures were unchanged. Heavy switching operations featured the butter trading. Warm weather conditions continue an unsettling factor, the storage movement seemingly have little effect in the trading. Egg futures received a slightly better support, prices recovering an early loss of ⅛c. The comparative storage movements showed 6,000 cases out of storage in the four markets, against 5,000 cases in last year, but this was a rather unimportant item in the day's news. ASK DEPOSIT OF REALTY BONDS ON 'DALESHIRE'

New Protective Committee Is Formed.

BY AL CHASE.

FRED B. ROOS.

As a result of the recent default in payment of interest and prepayment on the first mortgage bonds of the Daleshire apartments, 307 West Harris avenue, La Grange, a bondholders' protective committee has been formed, it was announced yesterday, with Fred B. Roos, attorney, banker, and former state senator, as chairman. The other members are: Frank S. Zimmerman, Forest Park business man; Arthur D. Rehm, for many years vice president of the Suburban Trust and Savings bank, in Oak Park, and now president of the park board in Oak Park, and Ernest Reich, formerly assessor of Proviso township.

The new committee will have as its secretary T. E. Williams and its headquarters will be at the Chicago Title and Trust company, which also will be the depositary. Bondholders are asked to deposit their bonds with that concern. A plan of reorganization will be determined later and the bondholders notified of it. Each depositing bondholder will receive in exchange for his bonds a transferable certificate of deposit, registered in his name and issued by the depositary.

Erected in 1929.

The committee will represent all bondholders who purchased bonds sold by the Forest Park Trust and Savings bank of Forest Park, Ill., which is now being operated by Mr. Rehm, a member of the committee, as receiver. This bank was formed by a merger of the Harlem State Savings bank and the Forest Park State bank.

The Daleshire apartments were erected in 1929 and were financed by a $60,000 6 per cent first mortgage bond issue, which has not been reduced by any prepayments. The building is of brick and stone, three stories, and contains seven apartments. S. McQuinston and Florence B. McQuinston are the mortgagors. Litsinger, Healy, Reid, & Bye are attorneys.

Ask for Deposit of Bonds.

The independent bondholders' committee for the Monroe-Wells building has sent out a request for the deposit of bonds with the Heitman Trust company. It states that it has tentatively completed arrangements for a reorganization that will include an insurance company loan of $150,000. A second mortgage loan is contemplated, it is stated.

The Chicago Title and Trust company, receiver for the Crestwood apartments, at the southeast corner of Austin boulevard and Race avenue, reports cash on hand Jan. 31, 1932, as $20,363. The gross income from date of appointment, Jan. 17, 1930, to Jan. 31, 1932, was $85,690. The disbursements totaled $65,327. Among these were: Operating expenses of $41,930; receiver's fees, $3,000; fees of attorneys for receiver, $3,000.

The occupancy of the building, according to Walter C. Palmer, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee, was 60.34 per cent on Feb. 16, 1932. Abel Davis is chairman of the commmittee. The other members are Chester Cook, Hiram S. Cody, Stuart Otis, and E. G. Swanson. The $240,000 6 per cent bond issue was underwritten by the Madison and Kedzie State bank.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Estimates on farm reserves of grain by leading Chicago statisticians will be given to the trade today at 10 a. m. The trade look for the report of wheat reserves to show somewhat above the 160,000,000 bu reported a year ago, while a large increase is anticipated in corn stocks, which will compare with the abnormally small holding of 709,000,000 bu in 1931. Reserves of oats are regarded as likely to show below the stocks of 464,000,000 bu a year ago.

Trend of the wheat and corn markets today is expected to be influenced to a considerable extent by the showing of farm reserves to be given by the leading local statisticians. According to a New York Produce exchange summary, the trade there looked for around 183,000,000 bu wheat and 1,036,000,000 bu corn.

Comment among wheat traders after the close indicated a continuation of erratic fluctuations in the market. Operators generally are not inclined to take a decided stand on either side until the situation becomes more defined. Inability of the market to hold bulges above 62c for May of late has increased bearish sentiment in some quarters.

Dust storms were reported in southern Alberta and southern Saskatchewan on Sunday. This area suffered severely from soil drifting last year, and the crops were small.

BUILDING FOR FEBRUARY SHOWS A SLIGHT GAIN

Comparison with '31 Not So Cheering.

Chicago's building figures for February show a seasonable increase over January and consequently are a bit cheering, but when comparisons are made with February of 1931 the result is distinctly depressing. Last month's building permits totaled forty-three with the entire cost $729,400. January's figures were thirty-four with the total cost $329,800. February, therefore, had nine more permits issued than January and its lead in cost was $399,600.

Figures for February, 1931, were 126 permits totaling $7,877,000 in cost. January, 1931, permits were 114 with a total cost of $2,161,000. In other words, February of 1932 had eighty-three permits less than February of 1931 and their total cost was $7,147,600 less.

The announced plan to cut wages of building mechanics did not bring about the expected increase in construction. It is true that permits for the last week in February were the highest of any week during the month, but they were mostly for projects planned long ahead and not contingent on wage changes.

Neighborhood Realty Board Dines.

The South Shore Real Estate board, composed of real estate firms and brokers in the south shore territory, between 67th and 83d streets and from Stony Island avenue to the lake, will give a dinner at the Southmoor hotel, at 67th street and Stony Island avenue, this evening. The following new officers will be installed: Charles C. Blish of Bryar & Blish, president; James A. Malooly of J. A. Mallohy, vice president; John House of Swanson & House, secretary, and James C. Williams, treasurer.

The dinner also is said to be a celebration over the successful conclusion of the restriction of the area from 67th to 71st street against the use and occupancy by colored families. The dinner is in charge of Carl M. Swanson, chairman of the banquet committee, assisted by Mr. Malooly and E. B. Beatty. The retiring officers are: Thomas E. Kay, president; Elmer Johnson, vice president; John P. Quigley, secretary, and Floyd M. Phillips, treasurer.

Oakdale Apartments Sold.

Title to the Oakdale apartment building at 1115-27 Oakdale avenue, lot 145x123, has been conveyed by Robert W. T. Christiansen to Roy Wakefield for an undisclosed consideraion, subject to a $100,000 incumbrance. This is a step in a reorganization plan, it is stated, Mr. Wakefield being the nominee of the bondholders' protective committee. The building contains twenty-four suites, fours and fives. Pam & Hurd are attorneys. The building was financed by a $100,000 bond issue underwritten by the Central Trust company.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—(AP)—Cotton goods opened the market week very quietly. Silks are inactive save on prints and specialties. Burlaps were unchanged and domestic demand is dull. Rayon weavers are using more of the 150 diniers for satin fabrics. The ending of the dress strike is stirring up more business in women's wear.

Top yesterday, $6.75; average, $6.15.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 21,000; sheep, 11,000.

The monotony was broken yesterday when hogs came to life. They swung back up to the previous high spot of the month. Price enhancement in the wholesale pork trade stimulated local buying and competition became rather brisk when local and outside buying converged in best grades soon after the opening of the session.

Good action carried into the later afternoon rounds and closing sales of top kinds were equal to the highest point since early in January. The extreme top moved up 10c to $4.35, while the general average showed 10c gain at $4.05. Receipts at all leading points have been dropping off rapidly. Men in the trade have been anticipating this seasonal decrease, and look for even lighter midweek supplies.

Yesterday's offerings were second smallest for Monday since the middle of October and today's advance estimate indicates a visible supply of only 55,000 at the five leading markets in the west for today against 70,700 last Tuesday.

Contracts for 170@260 lb hogs for delivery at Chicago next September were offered on the futures trade at $6.00 yesterday. Heavy grades, 260@310 lb averages, for that month carried bids of $5.50. July contracts were offered at $6.00 and bid $5.00, while May bids remained steady at $5.00 and March bids were slighly higher at $4.50@5.00.

Easterners Buy Cattle.

Eastern representatives were aggressive in the cattle market at the opening yesterday and action was good as long as the supply of shipping grades lasted. After that the market quited down and drifted back into another one of those dreary trades which ended on a "catch as catch can" basis. Plain grades, particularly the comparatively large number of steers valued at $5.00@6.00 were hard to sell and some of these went over. Yesterday's offerings were poorer than usual for Monday and prices stood lowest for the initial market day of any week since last May. The appearance of a large number of good corn fed steers from some of the western states last week led the trade to believe that the liquidation of unfinished stock had ended, but yesterday's quality discouraged this theory. Several shipments of 953@1,301 lb steers topped the list at $8.25, but the proportion above $8.00 was too small to cut much figure. The bulk of all beef steers sold at $5.50@8.00, while low dressing kinds ranged downward to $4.50. Butcher stock ruled weak to 25c lower. Calves slumped 25@50c. Eastern demand has been expanding for several days and shipments of slaughter stock to points east of Chicago now are running largest since the middle of January and above the correspnding time in 1931.

Lambs Fully Steady.

The selling side of the lamb market had the advantage of some of the smallest receipts since middle of last August, but were unable to score more than a slight gain against buyers who hung on until late in the afternoon before raising their bids just a trifle. The market, as a whole, was only fully steady, although occasional sales were cited that showed 10@15c advance. Favorable reports from the wholesale market for dressed lamb had little effect on the attitude of buyers who are striving to keep lamb from mounting too much above pork and beef. All interests were buying lambs at $6.75 at the end of the session, while a big share of good slaughter lambs were at $6.50@6.65. Light aged sheep were unchanged, but heavy mutton stock went up 25c. Yearlings were firm.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.

BUSINESS ESTABLISHED 1887.

Why pay more than HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE on loans? . . . .

Household loans, $300 or less, to families at reasonable rates. Rate on loans above $100 almost one-third lower than maximum permitted by small loan law.

For example, average monthly cost of $200 repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.63—the lowest in Chicago.

Strictly confidential. Husband and wife only need sign. No endorsers. Quick service. Twenty months to repay.
